(Gk. ekklēsia) (vv. 6, 9, 10; Matt. 16:18; Acts 8:1; Rom. 16:1; Rev. 1:4)

Strong's #1577

The Greek term simply means “an assembly.” It was used in secular Greek to speak of any gathering of people to a political or festive assembly. It was used by the NT writers to mean a local assembly of believers, or the whole body of believers. In John’s third epistle we see an example of both uses: “the church” in v. 6 connotes a large, unspecified group of believers, whereas “the church” in vv. 9, 10 has to be a specific local church. According to the overall pattern of the NT, it appears that the Christians of each city were unified under one group of elders (see Acts 14:23; 15:2, 4; 20:17, 18; Titus 1:5). Within the local church in the city there were probably several “assemblies” or “meetings” of believers, held in various homes.

- 7 Gentiles here refers to unbelievers, not to Gentile Christians. The majority of Christians in the churches of Asia Minor were Gentile converts rather than Jewish.
- 8 We become fellow workers in the Lord’s service when we support the ministries of others, publicly as well as financially. To receive means to identify with people publicly, welcome them into our homes, and supply their needs.
- 9 I wrote: John had written an earlier letter that was either lost or possibly destroyed by Diotrephes, who was asserting his control over the church out of his own personal ambition (see 1 Pet. 5:1–5). John had probably written asking Diotrephes’s church to extend hospitality to the traveling missionaries the apostle had sent out (v. 10), and Diotrephes had refused to heed John’s request.
- 10 If I come reflects the idea of “when I come.” John intends to come and take Diotrephes to task for his attitudes and actions, and to exercise his apostolic authority in punishing him. This is a warning similar to those of Paul in 2 Cor. 10:2; 13:1, 2. Diotrephes’s sins include verbal attacks on John and his representatives, as well as active opposition to those who wanted to support legitimate ministers.
- 11 The proof of our commitment to God is that we personally reject evil and embrace a life patterned after that which is good. The idea of has not seen God is explained more fully in 1 John 3:4–9. The lifestyle that we exhibit is a direct reflection of the extent to which we have seen God. If we were to see God perfectly, we would never sin. Our sin is a result of a faulty vision of God. Therefore, the Scriptures encourage us to look at Christ (see 2 Cor. 3:18; 4:16–18; Heb. 12:2, 3), for the day when we see Him perfectly will be the day that we will be like Him (see 1 John 3:2, 3).
- 12 Gaius can trust John’s endorsement of Demetrius, who not only has a good reputation but also has a testimony from the truth itself. In other words, Demetrius’s life measured up to the teaching of Scripture and Christ’s commands. His conduct matched his theology.
- 13, 14 The brevity of the letter reflects John’s plan to speak to Gaius soon. The apostle closes with a greeting of peace, a common feature of Greek letters.

Introduction

Few books in the New Testament have more to say to our generation than the Epistle of Jude. Distorters of the faith will find the book distasteful because of its warnings and uncompromising stance against defectors from the truth of Jesus Christ. But to those who approach the book with receptive hearts, Jude's words speak as clearly and forcefully today as they did almost two thousand years ago.

This small epistle strikes the imagination with its vivid pictures of false teachers. The writer commands our attention with his appeals for defending the faith and growing in grace. The primary focus of the book is on the faith, the believers, and God—not on the errors and character of the heretics. It is notable that with all of the blunt descriptions of false teachers, Jude gives us neither a command to confront these troublemakers (only to avoid them) nor a plan of disciplinary action. He simply indicates they are under the condemnation of God.

Author and Date The author of this epistle calls himself Jude, and there is no reason to think that this is a pseudonym. There are six individuals named Jude in the New Testament, but only two are likely to have written this book: (1) the apostle Jude (see Luke 6:16; Acts 1:13), who is probably Thaddaeus of Matthew 10:3; (2) Jude the brother of James and the half brother of the Lord Jesus. The brothers of the Lord are named in Matthew 13:55 as “James, Joses, Simon, and Judas.”

Since the author does not claim apostolic authority, and since verse 17 indicates that the apostles are a group that does not include the writer, we are left with the second candidate—Jude, the brother of the Lord and of James. This identification is confirmed by the author’s reference to his brother James (v. 1) and a reference in a letter of Clement of Alexandria (around A.D. 153–217).

We might wonder why Jude did not assert that he was the brother of the Lord Jesus, but his first readers would already have known this. Also, even in the years following the Resurrection, there were already some superstitions surrounding the “holy family” that Jude might have wished to avoid.

Although assigning an exact date for the writing of Jude is impossible, it is likely that the book was written between A.D. 60 and 64. It was almost certainly written before A.D. 70, since Jude does not make any reference to the fall of Jerusalem in A.D. 70. If he had been writing after this event he would doubtless have mentioned it, since it would serve as an example of God’s judgment.

Relationship of Jude to 2 Peter The obvious similarities between Jude and 2 Peter 2 seem to show that one has borrowed from the other. The vocabulary of the two books is similar; both books use the Old Testament for illustrations, and neither quotes it directly. The books deal with similar situations, though their approaches are different. Peter seems to be anticipating difficulty with false teachers (the future tense is used in 2 Pet. 2:1–3), while Jude uses the past tense to describe the situation (v. 4). On the other hand, because of the more precise language in Jude, many scholars believe that Jude was first and Peter borrowed from him, but this cannot be known for certain.

Theme and Structure The literary form of Jude is the common style of correspondence of that day. The letter opens with the author's name, a description of the recipients, and a conventional wish that they are well. Yet as with other New Testament epistles, the eloquence and depth of thought rises far above the usual business and personal correspondence. Jude comes quickly to his point. Not content merely to expose error, he forcefully exhorts his readers and concludes with a truly eloquent benediction.

From his opening sentence, the author assaults error, threatens judgment, and encourages holiness. The description of the errors of the false teachers is poetic in its imagery (vv. 12, 13). Jude likes to arrange his thoughts in groups of three. In verse 1 Christians are “called, sanctified . . . and preserved”; in verse 2 the author wishes for his readers “mercy, peace, and love”; in verses 5–7 there are three illustrations of sin and judgment from the Old Testament; in verse 8 the false teachers are described as defiling the flesh, rejecting authority, and speaking evil of dignitaries; in verse 11 three examples of rebellion—Cain, Balaam, and Korah—are given. All of this persuasive prose results in a strong encouragement to the faithful to “contend earnestly for the faith” (v. 3).

Christ in the Scriptures

Those churches to whom Jude writes had been infiltrated by pleasure-seeking teachers who had perverted grace into a sensual license, a permission slip for irresponsible and ungodly living. Jude responds that believers must remember the words of Jesus' apostles to build themselves up in the faith and to keep themselves in the love of God. The key is to keep "looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life" (v. 21). Whereas those who follow immoral desires and deny Christ will be condemned, Jude assures believers that Jesus is the One who preserves us and keeps us. What a blessed assurance that Christ holds us close; He never fails.

Jude 1

Greeting to the Called

¹Jude, a bondservant of Jesus Christ, and ^abrother of James,

To those who are ^bcalled, ¹sanctified by God the Father, and ^cpreserved in Jesus Christ:

²Mercy, ^dpeace, and love be multiplied to you.

Contend for the Faith

³Beloved, while I was very diligent to write to you ^econcerning our common salvation, I found it necessary to write to you exhorting ^fyou to contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered to the saints.

⁴For certain men have crept in unnoticed, who long ago were marked out for this condemnation, ungodly men, who turn the grace of our God into lewdness and deny the only Lord ²God and our Lord Jesus Christ.

Old and New Apostates

⁵But I want to remind you, though you once knew this, that ^gthe Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed those who did not believe.

⁶And the angels who did not keep their ³proper domain, but left their own abode, He has reserved in everlasting chains under darkness for the judgment of the great day;

⁷as ^hSodom and Gomorrah, and the cities around them in a similar manner to these, having given themselves over to sexual immorality and gone after strange flesh, are set forth as an example, suffering the ⁴vengeance of eternal fire.

⁸ⁱLikewise also these dreamers defile the flesh, reject authority, and ^jspeak evil of ⁵dignitaries.

⁹Yet Michael the archangel, in ⁶contending with the devil, when he disputed about the body of Moses, dared not bring against him a reviling accusation, but said, ^k“The Lord rebuke you!” Article: The Use of Apocryphal Sources

¹⁰ⁱBut these speak evil of whatever they do not know; and whatever they know naturally, like brute beasts, in these things they corrupt themselves.

¹¹Woe to them! For they have gone in the way ^mof Cain, ⁿhave run greedily in the error of Balaam for profit, and perished ^oin the rebellion of Korah.

Apostates Depraved and Doomed

¹²These are ⁷spots in your love feasts, while they feast with you without fear, serving only themselves. They are clouds without water, carried ⁸about by the winds; late autumn trees without fruit, twice dead, pulled up by the roots;

¹³^praging waves of the sea, ^qfoaming up their own shame; wandering stars ^rfor whom is reserved the blackness of darkness forever.

¹⁴Now Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied about these men also, saying, “Behold, the Lord comes with ten thousands of His saints,

¹⁵“to execute judgment on all, to convict all who are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have committed in an ungodly way, and of all the ^sharsh things which ungodly sinners have spoken against Him.”

Apostates Predicted

¹⁶These are grumblers, complainers, walking according to their own lusts; and they ^tmouth great swelling words, ^uflattering people to gain advantage.

^{17v}But you, beloved, remember the words which were spoken before by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ:

¹⁸how they told you that ^wthere would be mockers in the last time who would walk according to their own ungodly lusts.

¹⁹These are ⁹sensual persons, who cause divisions, not having the Spirit.
Word Studies: sensual

Maintain Your Life with God

²⁰But you, beloved, ^xbuilding yourselves up on your most holy faith, ^ypraying in the Holy Spirit,

²¹keep yourselves in the love of God, ^zlooking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

²²And on some have compassion, ¹⁰making a distinction;

²³but ^aothers save ¹¹with fear, ^bpulling them out of the ¹²fire, hating even ^cthe garment defiled by the flesh.

Glory to God

^{24d}Now to Him who is able to keep ¹³you from stumbling,
And ^eto present you faultless
Before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, ²⁵To ¹⁴God our Savior,
¹⁵Who alone is wise,
Be glory and majesty,
Dominion and ¹⁶power,
Both now and forever.
Amen.

Annotations for Jude

- 1 Instead of flaunting his honored relationship as a half brother to Jesus, Jude calls himself a bondservant, a servant of the Son of God. called: This is the primary description of Jude's readers: they had been chosen by God to represent Him in this world.
- 2 Mercy, peace, and love be multiplied: These words in Greek express a strong desire. Though mercy is mentioned in a greeting only four other times in the NT, those occurrences are important because they also precede a warning against false teaching (see 1 Tim. 1:2; 2 Tim. 1:2; Titus 1:4; 2 John 3). Mercy is God's undeserving favor on us. Peace is the state of a person who rests in God completely for salvation and protection.
- 3 Jude intended to write a more general doctrinal letter, but the present crisis demanded this short, pointed attack on doctrinal error. When Jude speaks of common salvation, he is referring to the unity all believers have in Christ. But due to the crisis of the infiltrating heretics, Jude does not dwell on the subject of the common salvation. Contend earnestly translates a Greek word that is the basis of the English word agonize. Christians are not called to passive service, but to vigilance in the cause of Christ (see Phil. 1:27). The faith here does not have its usual sense of personal belief in Christ for salvation; here it means the body of teaching passed down in the church by the apostles (v. 17). This is similar to traditions about the Lord Jesus spoken of by the apostle Paul in 1 Cor. 11:1; 15:3–8. The revelation was not ongoing but once for all delivered, final and complete (see Heb. 1:2).
- 4 The heretics were subtle. Their primary tactics were to pervert God's grace and to deny the authority of the Lord (see Prov. 1:29). They were clever enough to have infiltrated the Christian community, even though they were ungodly. Jesus anticipated this kind of people when He spoke about wolves in sheep's clothing (see Matt. 7:15). turn the grace of our God into lewdness: The teaching of grace can be dangerous when perverted by false teachers or carnal people who believe that because they have been saved by grace they may live as they please (see Rom. 6:1, 2). the only Lord God and our Lord Jesus Christ: These false teachers not only lived immorally, they rejected the authority of Christ. The first Greek word translated Lord here means "Master." It identifies one who possesses absolute power and thus commands obedience. In the original wording it is clear that the entire statement refers to Christ: Jesus is both our absolute Sovereign and our God.
- 5 though you once knew this: These Christians were given fair warning concerning false teachers from the words of Christ and the apostles (vv. 17, 18) but they had become negligent and were no longer on guard. destroyed those who did not believe: The Israelites of the Exodus had a magnificent beginning in Egypt but a disastrous ending in the wilderness. That we have begun with the Lord does not mean that we will have the glorious conclusion we might have envisioned at the beginning of our salvation journey. The false believers who had infiltrated God's people would be judged, just like the false believers who rejected God in the wilderness (see Num. 25:1–9).
- 6 The meaning of this verse is disputed, as is a similar reference in 2 Pet. 2:4. It is clear that the angels to which Jude refers are not holy angels of God. Instead these angels could be those who had previously fallen with Satan. Some think that these angels are "the sons of God" of Gen. 6:2, who took on human form and married women before the Flood. According to this interpretation, these perverted angels were condemned by God to chains and darkness and are presently awaiting the final judgment of Satan and all his angels (see 2 Pet. 2:4).
- 7 in a similar manner to these: As the angels had committed sexual immorality with humans, so the citizens of Sodom and Gomorrah had pursued all kinds of sexual perversion (here strange flesh refers to homosexual acts; see Gen. 19:5). They were also judged by God with fire from heaven (see Gen. 19:24).
- 8 The false teachers were arrogant and had their own agenda. They had not been commissioned by the church nor called by the Holy Spirit. Jude calls these ungodly persons dreamers, perhaps because they claimed divine revelation, but more likely because they denied the Lord and thus were living in an unreal world of deception. They were creating their own false world in which indulging in immorality went hand in hand with salvation. reject authority, and speak evil of dignitaries: The false teachers even rejected those who were placed in positions of authority in local congregations. They not only preferred error to truth but also demeaned and rejected those who taught the truth.

- 9 Jude's description here is probably taken from an apocryphal book called The Assumption of Moses, written in the first century A.D. There is no record in the Bible itself of the archangel's encounter with Satan, or a detailed account of Moses' body (there is a reference to it in Deut. 34:6). Although Jude uses an extrabiblical source to illustrate the arrogance of the false teachers, this does not invalidate the inspiration of this letter, and it does not mean the source from which Jude quotes was inspired (see Paul's use of pagan authors in Acts 17:28; Titus 1:12). The name Michael means "Who Is Like God?" The desire to be like God was the initial sin of Satan (see Is. 14:14). It was also the enticement that Satan offered Eve: "You will be like God" (see Gen. 3:5). Michael, though opposing Satan, refused to bring a reviling accusation against him. Michael would not even accuse Satan, the chief of blasphemers, of being a blasphemer. Instead he left judgment to God.

The Use of Apocryphal Sources

The Jewish Apocrypha consists of books and writings that were never recognized as part of the canon of Scripture, but which served a devotional purpose for many believers of ancient times, including some of the authors of the New Testament. Jude cites two books of the Apocrypha in his letter. Jude 9 apparently comes from The Assumption of Moses, and verse 14 comes from The Book of Enoch. Today we do not have a complete text of The Assumption of Moses, but two early church fathers, Clement of Alexandria and Origen, testify that verse 9 is a reference to that book.

Jude is not the only New Testament author who quotes extrabiblical sources. In 1 Corinthians 10:4, Paul apparently made use of a Hebrew commentary (the Midrash) to support his interpretation of Israel's wilderness wanderings. In Acts 17:28 and Titus 1:12, he quoted from pagan poets to support some of his assertions. Though we do not know where the names Jannes and Jambres come from (see 2 Tim. 3:8), Paul did not hesitate to use their story as an example of godlessness for Timothy.

Should the New Testament writers have quoted from apocryphal sources? Surely God had no trouble guiding the biblical writers in selecting material from these sources. Luke knew of "many" accounts of the life of Christ (see Luke 1:1), which he set out to better with his own "orderly account" (1:3). Along the same lines, Paul had at least one letter from the Corinthian church to guide his responses in 1 and 2 Corinthians. Even the devil is quoted in Matthew 4:3, 6, 9. This does not mean that these sources are inspired, or even accurate, but it does mean that sometimes New Testament writers drew from the written sources God had given them to communicate effectively what He wanted them to say. The writers of Scripture wrote all that, and only that, which God had inspired them to say. We must affirm with Peter that the ultimate origin of Scripture is the mind of God (see 2 Pet. 1:19–21).

Go to the List of Articles

- 10 The false teachers do not know the truth of the gospel. They speak on matters that they do not understand, as natural people and not as spiritual people (see 1 Cor. 2:14). They have understanding not of the Spirit of God, but only of what they share in common with the animal world, things far less than God's intent for His human creatures.
- 11 The heretics are compared to three OT failures. Cain, a tiller of the soil, did not place his faith in the Lord. The way of Cain is the way of pride and self-righteousness (see Gen. 4:3–8; Heb. 11:4; 1 John 3:12). Balaam epitomized the sin of greed. He was a pagan prophet, an enemy of God, who believed he could profit from doing the work of God (see Num. 31:16; 2 Pet. 2:15; Rev. 2:14). Similar to Balaam, the ungodly teachers in the church appeared to be religious. They sought to mix in with the people of God, and they were even accepted by the believers. However, their true motive was greed. Korah was a Levite (see Num. 16:1–3, 31–35) who resented the prominent positions of Moses and Aaron as God's representatives. The Lord brought judgment on him and his followers for rebelling against those He had placed in authority.
- 12, 13 spots in your love feasts: The people of God had been deceived by people who appeared to be messengers of God but instead were ministers of Satan (see 2 Cor. 11:4, 13–15). The Greek word for spots may also be translated "hidden reefs"; it serves as a strong warning to be on guard against deceivers. clouds without water . . . trees without fruit: Clouds may look like they will bring rain until the wind blows them away (see Prov. 25:14). Trees may look productive until autumn arrives, the time for fruit to be picked. The ministers of Satan promise spiritual growth but do not satisfy the hunger of God's people for the truth. They talk about God but are truly godless. raging waves . . . foaming . . . wandering stars: These godless people put on a great show but lacked any substance. They boasted of liberty but placed the people of God in bondage to sin (see 2 Pet. 2:19). After they had done their evil deeds and made their profits, they, like wandering stars, moved on to other places to exploit God's people again. darkness forever: These deceivers might not be punished for their evil deeds in this world, and their true character and deeds might fail to be discovered by Christians, but their punishment is certain.
- 14 Enoch, the seventh from Adam: Jude quotes from the apocryphal Book of Enoch here. This was a book supposedly by Enoch, who was taken to heaven by the Lord before he died (see Gen. 5:21–24). Ten thousands is a Hebrew expression meaning a limitless number.
- 15 ungodly: This word is repeated four times, making the verse one of the most striking in the letter. In view of the wicked nature of evil persons, how could the church allow them to stay in their midst? They are ungodly, yet they are with God's people, claiming to represent God. Just as Judas Iscariot appeared to be a follower of Christ right up to the end, so do these religious leaders (note the contrast with believers in v. 1; see John 13:18–30).
- 16 grumblers, complainers: This verse describes various ways evil people misuse their tongues. Instead of praising God, they boast; instead of encouraging, they whine and complain. Their lives are characterized by intense selfishness and a slavery to personal desires. By using flattering words, they try to gain a following for themselves that opposes the proper authorities in local congregations.
- 17 The words of the apostles are important because they express the will of God. In discerning the spirit (v. 19) of anyone claiming to speak for God, the only sure standard for evaluation is the Bible. Those who attack the central truths of Scripture, the ones concerning God, Christ, and salvation by God's grace through faith, must be avoided.
- 18 Jude points out that nothing that has been observed about the false teachers should have taken the believers by surprise. The apostles had given warning (v. 17) that in the end times evil deceivers would come among them. The description of the heretics as mockers indicates that one of their main tactics to gain credibility was to tear down godly leaders.
- 19 When Jude declares that the false teachers are without the Spirit, he leaves no doubt as to their eternal destiny. They are merely worldly persons and do not belong to God.

(Gk. psuchikos) (v. 19; 1 Cor. 2:14; 15:44; James 3:15) Strong's #5591

The Greek term literally means “of the soul” or “natural,” as opposed to “spiritual,” or “having the Spirit.” It is translated “the natural man” in 1 Cor. 2:14. According to the Scripture, a person’s being, both soul and body, should be ruled by “the spirit,” that part of a person which is influenced by the Holy Spirit. But in the “natural” person, the spirit is subservient to the natural soul, which is worldly in its motives and aims.

20, 21 Jude tells us how to keep ourselves in the love of God. It is clear that Jude is encouraging us in this verse to cultivate our love for Christ, for we cannot be separated from His love for us (see Rom. 8:35–39).

22, 23 We have certain obligations to other believers. First, we need to show mercy to those in any kind of spiritual or physical need. Second, we need to use discernment (making a distinction) in helping our brothers and sisters in the church. Some will require tender care and patience to help them grow in Christ. With others, we may need to use drastic action to rescue them from the temptations of sin. In rescuing our fellow believers, there is always the need to use wisdom and caution to prevent getting caught up in the sin that caused them to fall. Hating even the garment defiled by the flesh is a metaphor for staying wary of sin—as Paul says, “considering yourself lest you also be tempted” (Gal. 6:1).

24, 25 Jude concludes his letter with exuberant praise for the Lord, who alone could keep the readers from being deceived. Stumbling probably refers to the possibility of being tripped up by the false teachers’ errors. Note that Jude does not use the word falling, but stumbling. Only a person who is already walking or running (frequent biblical images of the Christian life) can stumble (see Gal. 5:7; 1 Thess. 4:1; Heb. 12:1; 1 John 2:6). God is able to keep us from stumbling (see Ps. 37:23, 24; 121:3; Prov. 4:11, 12). He guards us in this life, despite all the dangers and pitfalls that deceivers put in our way. Faultless is a Greek word used of sacrificial animals that had no blemish and thus were fit to be offered to God. Only God can save us, cleanse us from our sins, and present us to Himself as faultless, for God is the Author and Perfecter of our faith (see Heb. 12:2).

Introduction

As outside persecution against Christians increased, the first-century church also faced internal problems. They struggled with suffering, spiritual warfare, heretical doctrine and practice, and spiritual apathy. Christ had promised to return—but when? And how? And what would He do about the problems facing the church when He did come back?

Confronted with these circumstances, the original readers of Revelation needed to be both encouraged and exhorted. On the one hand, Revelation was intended to be a promise of divine protection from God's judgment on the world. On the other hand, those who read the book were to take it to heart and obey, worshipfully standing for the Word of God and the testimony of Jesus, as the apostle John had. In recording the Revelation of Jesus Christ, John wanted to reassure his readers that Jesus Christ controls the course and climax of history.

God's overriding purpose in all of history is the establishment of the promised messianic kingdom. Associated with this ultimate divine objective is the opportunity for believers to persevere by faith in a life of obedience. The prospect for these overcomers or victors is the destiny of reigning with Christ as coheirs in His kingdom.

Author and Date The author of Revelation refers to himself as John. He is associated with the seven churches in the Roman province of Asia (present-day southwestern Turkey) in their suffering, blessing, and perseverance. His stand “for the word of God and for the testimony of Jesus Christ” (1:9) caused him to be exiled to Patmos, a small island located about 60 miles southwest of Ephesus in the Aegean Sea.

The author writes with prophetic authority. Allusions to Old Testament and extrabiblical Jewish literature saturate Revelation, suggesting that the writer is a Jew. Furthermore, striking parallels exist between the Gospel of John and Revelation. Thus it is extremely likely that both books were written by the same author.

These lines of evidence do not prove that the apostle John wrote Revelation; however, John, who was one of the fiery “Sons of Thunder” (see Mark 3:17) in his younger days, is the most likely candidate. The earliest witnesses in church history, such as Justin Martyr in the second century A.D., agreed that the apostle authored Revelation. However, a century later, Dionysius, bishop of Alexandria determined that the book was written by another John, called “John the Elder.” His view was based on differences between the language, style, and thought of Revelation and the more commonly acknowledged writings of John.

Through the ensuing centuries, Dionysius’s conclusion has attracted some followers, including Martin Luther during the Reformation. Yet the external evidence of history still strongly supports John the son of Zebedee as God’s inspired writer of the Revelation of Jesus Christ.

As for the date of its writing, clearly Revelation emerged during a time when Christians were suffering persecution. The dates most widely suggested are an early one, before A.D. 70, and a later one, around A.D. 95.

The strength of the late sixties date rests on the popular myth of that period that the deranged emperor Nero would be revived. This myth parallels much of the imagery of chapter 13. Reference to “the temple of God” and “the altar” (11:1) in Jerusalem, which were both destroyed in A.D. 70, also supports the earlier dating. But the later date, near the end of Domitian’s reign as emperor (A.D. 81–96), is more likely. The picture of suffering seen in Revelation seems closer to what is known of the persecution under Domitian. There is also the statement of Irenaeus, in about A.D. 185, that John wrote Revelation “at the close of Domitian’s reign.” This would be around A.D. 95.

Historical Background From about A.D. 53 the apostle Paul used the great city of Ephesus as a center for evangelism and church planting throughout the Roman province of Asia (see Acts 19:10). Probably the seven churches of Revelation were founded during this time or shortly thereafter.

While imprisoned in Rome (around A.D. 60–62), Paul wrote his letters to the Ephesians, the Colossians, the Philippians, and Philemon. Colossians was to be read “in the church of the Laodiceans,” and “the epistle from Laodicea” was to be heard in the congregation in Colosse (Col. 4:16). Apparently the practice of writing epistles for wider circulation than a single individual or group was an accepted one, as seen in chapters 2 and 3 of Revelation.

Reliable historical sources dating from the second century A.D. place the apostle John in Ephesus and ministering throughout the province of Asia from about A.D. 70 to 100. It is likely that 1, 2, and 3 John were written by the apostle to Christians in that region around A.D. 80–100. During the latter part of this period, the emperor Domitian intensified his persecution of Christians. John was undoubtedly placed on the island of Patmos because of his Christian testimony. He was released after 18 months by Emperor Nerva (A.D. 96–98), after which the apostle returned to Ephesus to resume his leadership role there.

Theology The book titles itself “The Revelation of Jesus Christ” (1:1). Christ is pictured as the glorified Son of Man (1:12–16), the Lion of Judah (5:5), the worthy Lamb (5:8–13), the Son who will rule all (12:5), the Bridegroom (19:7–9), the conquering King of kings and Lord of lords (19:16), and the rightful Ruler of His earthly (20:4–6) and eternal (22:1, 3) kingdoms. It must never be forgotten that “the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy” (19:10). His person, victory, and rule result in worship and praise throughout the Book of Revelation.

The book details Christ’s directions to the churches (chs. 2; 3) and describes “the wrath of the Lamb” (6:16), His judgments on the sinful world (chs. 6; 8; 9; 14; 16–18) prior to His Second Coming (19:11–21). This focus on the last times is completed by a brief description of the Lord’s thousand-year reign (20:2–6), His judgment of the entire existing created order (20:4, 11–15), and His eternal rule (21:1–22:5).

The death, resurrection (1:5), and ascension (12:5) of Jesus Christ are the historical backdrop for His gracious offer of redemption from sin and eternal life (22:14, 17). Believers (2:5) and unbelievers (9:20, 21) both are urged to repent and to overcome by “the blood of the Lamb” (12:11). Those who obey are a royal priesthood for the Lord (1:6; 5:9, 10) and will reign with Him (20:4, 6). Their prayers are continually before God's heavenly throne (5:8; 8:3, 4).

In the power of the Holy Spirit, John received great visions (1:10; 4:2; 17:3; 21:10) as well as crucial messages that the church needed to hear (2:7). In the spiritual realm, Revelation depicts a divine struggle against Satan and his demons (2:9, 10, 13, 24; 3:9). Yet this battle against the deceiver of the world and the "accuser of our brethren" has already been won by the blood of the Lamb (12:9–11). All that remains is for Satan and his followers is to be sentenced to their just, eternal punishment by the Lord (19:20—20:3, 10). Their doom is sure.

Christ in the Scriptures

One thing the author conveys about Jesus is that He continues to lead and interact with His church. In addition, He alone has received authority to judge the earth. This “letter” to the universal church comes from Him and centers on Him. It begins with a vision of His glory, wisdom, and power (ch. 1) and portrays His authority over the entire church (2:3). He is the Lamb who was slain and declared worthy to open the book of judgment (ch. 5). It is this same Jesus who will pour out His righteous wrath on the whole earth (chs. 6–18). It is this same Jesus who will return in power to judge His enemies and to reign as the Lord over all forever (chs. 19–22).

Revelation 1

Introduction and Benediction

¹The Revelation of Jesus Christ, ^awhich God gave Him to show His servants —things which must ¹shortly take place. And ^bHe sent and signified it by His angel to His servant John, ^{2c}who bore witness to the word of God, and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, to all things ^dthat he saw.

^{3e}Blessed is he who reads and those who hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written in it; for ^fthe time is near.

Greeting the Seven Churches

⁴John, to the seven churches which are in Asia:

Grace to you and peace from Him ^gwho is and ^hwho was and who is to come, ⁱand from the seven Spirits who are before His throne, ⁵and from Jesus Christ, ^jthe faithful ^kwitness, the ^lfirstborn from the dead, and ^mthe ruler over the kings of the earth. To Him ⁿwho ²loved us ^oand washed us from our sins in His own blood, ⁶and has ^pmade us ³kings and priests to His God and Father, ^qto Him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

⁷Behold, He is coming with ^rclouds, and every eye will see Him, even ^sthey who pierced Him. And all the tribes of the earth will mourn because of Him. Even so, Amen.

⁸“I am the Alpha and the Omega, ⁴*the Beginning and the End*,” says the ⁵Lord, ^u“who is and who was and who is to come, the ^vAlmighty.”

Vision of the Son of Man

⁹I, John, ⁶both your brother and ^wcompanion in the tribulation and ^xkingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was on the island that is called Patmos for the word of God and for the testimony of Jesus Christ. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Patmos

¹⁰^yI was in the Spirit on ^zthe Lord’s Day, and I heard behind me ^aa loud voice, as of a trumpet,

¹¹saying, ⁷“I am the Alpha and the Omega, the First and the Last,” and, “What you see, write in a book and send it to the seven churches ⁸which are in Asia: to Ephesus, to Smyrna, to Pergamos, to Thyatira, to Sardis, to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea.”

¹²Then I turned to see the voice that spoke with me. And having turned ^bI saw seven golden lampstands, ¹³^cand in the midst of the seven lampstands ^d*One* like the Son of Man, ^eclothed with a garment down to the feet and ^fgirded about the chest with a golden band.

¹⁴His head and ^ghair were white like wool, as white as snow, and ^hHis eyes like a flame of fire;

¹⁵ⁱHis feet were like fine brass, as if refined in a furnace, and ^jHis voice as the sound of many waters;

¹⁶^kHe had in His right hand seven stars, ^lout of His mouth went a sharp two-edged sword, ^mand His countenance was like the sun shining in its strength.

¹⁷And ⁿwhen I saw Him, I fell at His feet as dead. But ^oHe laid His right hand on me, saying ⁹to me, “Do not be afraid; ^pI am the First and the Last. Word Studies: death ^{18q}“I am He who lives, and was dead, and behold, ^rI am alive forevermore. Amen. And ^sI have the keys of ¹⁰Hades and of Death.

¹⁹¹¹“Write the things which you have ^tseen, ^uand the things which are, ^vand the things which will take place after this.

²⁰“The ¹²mystery of the seven stars which you saw in My right hand, and the seven golden lampstands: The seven stars are ^wthe ¹³angels of the seven churches, and ^xthe seven lampstands ¹⁴which you saw are the seven churches.

Revelation 2

The Loveless Church

¹“To the ¹angel of the church of Ephesus write,
‘These things says ^aHe who holds the seven stars in His right hand, ^bwho walks in the midst of the seven golden lampstands: In-Text Map: The Seven Churches of Revelation

^{2c}“I know your works, your labor, your ²patience, and that you cannot ³bear those who are evil. And ^dyou have tested those ^ewho say they are apostles and are not, and have found them liars;

³“and you have persevered and have patience, and have labored for My name’s sake and have ^fnot become weary.

⁴“Nevertheless I have this against you, that you have left your first love.

⁵“Remember therefore from where you have fallen; repent and do the first works, ^gor else I will come to you quickly and remove your lampstand from its place—unless you repent.

⁶“But this you have, that you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

^{7h}“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes I will give ⁱto eat from ^jthe tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God.” ’

The Persecuted Church

⁸“And to the ⁴angel of the church in Smyrna write,

‘These things says ^kthe First and the Last, who was dead, and came to life:

⁹“I know your works, tribulation, and poverty (but you are ^lrich); and I know the blasphemy of ^mthose who say they are Jews and are not, ⁿbut are a ⁵synagogue of Satan.

^{10o}“Do not fear any of those things which you are about to suffer. Indeed, the devil is about to throw some of you into prison, that you may be tested, and you will have tribulation ten days. ^pBe faithful until death, and I will give you ^qthe crown of life.

^{11r}“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. He who overcomes shall not be hurt by ^sthe second death.” ’

The Compromising Church

¹²“And to the ⁶angel of the church in Pergamos write,
‘These things says ^tHe who has the sharp two-edged sword:

¹³“I know your works, and where you dwell, where Satan’s throne is. And you hold fast to My name, and did not deny My faith even in the days in which Antipas was My faithful martyr, who was killed among you, where Satan dwells.

¹⁴“But I have a few things against you, because you have there those who hold the doctrine of ^uBalaam, who taught Balak to put a stumbling block before the children of Israel, ^vto eat things sacrificed to idols, ^wand to commit sexual immorality.

¹⁵“Thus you also have those who hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, ⁷which thing I hate.

¹⁶“Repent, or else I will come to you quickly and ^xwill fight against them with the sword of My mouth.

¹⁷“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To him who overcomes I will give some of the hidden ^ymanna to eat. And I will give him a white stone, and on the stone ^za new name written which no one knows except him who receives it.” ’

The Corrupt Church

¹⁸“And to the ⁸angel of the church in Thyatira write, ‘These things says the Son of God, ^awho has eyes like a flame of fire, and His feet like fine brass:

^{19b}“I know your works, love, ⁹service, faith, and your ¹⁰patience; and as for your works, the last are more than the first.

²⁰“Nevertheless I have ¹¹a few things against you, because you allow ¹²that woman ^cJezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, ¹³to teach and seduce My servants ^dto commit sexual immorality and eat things sacrificed to idols.

²¹“And I gave her time ^eto ¹⁴repent of her sexual immorality, and she did not repent.

²²“Indeed I will cast her into a sickbed, and those who commit adultery with her into great tribulation, unless they repent of ¹⁵their deeds.

²³“I will kill her children with death, and all the churches shall know that I am He who ^fsearches¹⁶ the minds and hearts. And I will give to each one of you according to your works.

²⁴“Now to you I say, ¹⁷and to the rest in Thyatira, as many as do not have this doctrine, who have not known the ^gdepths of Satan, as they say, ^hI ¹⁸will put on you no other burden.

²⁵“But hold fast ⁱwhat you have till I come.

²⁶“And he who overcomes, and keeps ^jMy works until the end, ^kto him I will give power over the nations—

²⁷*‘He^l shall rule them with a rod of iron;
They shall be dashed to pieces like the potter’s vessels’—*

as I also have received from My Father;

²⁸“and I will give him ^mthe morning star.

²⁹“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’

Revelation 3

The Dead Church

¹“And to the ¹angel of the church in Sardis write,

‘These things says He who ^ahas the seven Spirits of God and the seven stars: “I know your works, that you have a name that you are alive, but you are dead. Charts and Diagrams: The Seven Churches of the Apocalypse

²“Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die, for I have not found your works perfect before ²God.

^{3b}“Remember therefore how you have received and heard; hold fast and ^crepent. ^dTherefore if you will not watch, I will come upon you ^eas a thief, and you will not know what hour I will come upon you.

⁴³“You have ^fa few names ⁴even in Sardis who have not ^gdefiled their garments; and they shall walk with Me ^hin white, for they are worthy.

⁵“He who overcomes ⁱshall be clothed in white garments, and I will not ^jblot out his name from the ^kBook of Life; but ^lI will confess his name before My Father and before His angels.

^{6m}“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’

The Faithful Church

⁷“And to the ⁵angel of the church in Philadelphia write, ‘These things says ⁿHe who is holy, ^oHe who is true, ^p*“He who has the key of David, ^qHe who opens and no one shuts, and ^rshuts and no one opens”*:’

^{8s}“I know your works. See, I have set before you ^tan open door, ⁶and no one can shut it; for you have a little strength, have kept My word, and have not denied My name.

⁹“Indeed I will make ^uthose of the synagogue of Satan, who say they are Jews and are not, but lie—indeed ^vI will make them come and worship before your feet, and to know that I have loved you.

¹⁰“Because you have kept ⁷My command to persevere, ^wI also will keep you from the hour of trial which shall come upon ^xthe whole world, to test those who dwell ^yon the earth.

¹¹⁸“Behold, ^zI am coming quickly! ^aHold fast what you have, that no one may take ^byour crown.

¹²“He who overcomes, I will make him ^ca pillar in the temple of My God, and he shall ^dgo out no more. ^eI will write on him the name of My God and the name of the city of My God, the ^fNew Jerusalem, which ^gcomes down out of heaven from My God. ^hAnd I will write on him My new name.

¹³ⁱ“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’

The Lukewarm Church

¹⁴“And to the ⁹angel of the church ¹⁰of the Laodiceans write, ^j“These things says the Amen, ^kthe Faithful and True Witness, ^lthe
Beginning of the creation of God:

^{15m}“I know your works, that you are neither cold nor hot. I could wish you were cold or hot.

¹⁶“So then, because you are lukewarm, and neither ¹¹cold nor hot, I will vomit you out of My mouth.

¹⁷“Because you say, ⁿ‘I am rich, have become wealthy, and have need of nothing’—and do not know that you are wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked—

¹⁸“I counsel you ^oto buy from Me gold refined in the fire, that you may be rich; and ^pwhite garments, that you may be clothed, that the shame of your nakedness may not be revealed; and anoint your eyes with eye salve, that you may see.

^{19q}“As many as I love, I rebuke and ^rchasten. ¹² Therefore be ¹³zealous and repent.

²⁰“Behold, ^sI stand at the door and knock. ^tIf anyone hears My voice and opens the door, ^uI will come in to him and dine with him, and he with Me.

²¹“To him who overcomes ^vI will grant to sit with Me on My throne, as I also overcame and sat down with My Father on His throne.

^{22w}“He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’ ’ ”

Revelation 4

The Throne Room of Heaven

(Is. 6:1–3)

¹After these things I looked, and behold, a door standing ^aopen in heaven. And the first voice which I heard was like a ^btrumpet speaking with me, saying, “Come up here, and I will show you things which must take place after this.” Article: Revelation as Apocalyptic Literature

²Immediately ^cI was in the Spirit; and behold, ^da throne set in heaven, and One sat on the throne.

³¹And He who sat there was ^elike a jasper and a sardius stone in appearance; ^fand there was a rainbow around the throne, in appearance like an emerald.

⁵And from the throne proceeded ⁱlightnings, ³thunderings, and voices. ^jSeven lamps of fire were burning before the throne, which are ^kthe⁴ seven Spirits of God.

⁶Before the throne there ⁵was ¹a sea of glass, like crystal. ^mAnd in the midst of the throne, and around the throne, were four living creatures full of eyes in front and in back.

⁷ⁿThe first living creature was like a lion, the second living creature like a calf, the third living creature had a face like a man, and the fourth living creature was like a flying eagle.

⁸The four living creatures, each having ^osix wings, were full of eyes around and within. And they do not rest day or night, saying:

^p“Holy, ⁶ holy, holy,
^qLord God Almighty,
^rWho was and is and is to come!”

⁹Whenever the living creatures give glory and honor and thanks to Him who sits on the throne, ^swho lives forever and ever,

¹⁰^tthe twenty-four elders fall down before Him who sits on the throne and worship Him who lives forever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying:

¹¹“You^u are worthy, ⁷O Lord,
To receive glory and honor and power;
^vFor You created all things,
And by ^wYour will they ⁸exist and were created.”

Revelation 5

The Lamb Takes the Scroll

¹And I saw in the right hand of Him who sat on the throne ^aa scroll written inside and on the back, ^bsealed with seven seals.

²Then I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, ^c“Who is worthy to open the scroll and to loose its seals?”

³And no one in heaven or on the earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll, or to look at it.

⁴So I wept much, because no one was found worthy to open ¹and read the scroll, or to look at it.

⁵But one of the elders said to me, “Do not weep. Behold, ^dthe Lion of the tribe of ^eJudah, ^fthe Root of David, has ^gprevailed to open the scroll ^hand ²to loose its seven seals.”

⁶And I looked, ³and behold, in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the elders, stood ⁱa Lamb as though it had been slain, having seven horns and ^jseven eyes, which are ^kthe seven Spirits of God sent out into all the earth. Word Studies: seven Spirits

⁷Then He came and took the scroll out of the right hand ^lof Him who sat on the throne.

Worthy Is the Lamb

⁸Now when He had taken the scroll, ^mthe four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb, each having a harp, and golden bowls full of incense, which are the ⁿprayers of the saints.

⁹And ^othey sang a new song, saying:

^p“You are worthy to take the scroll,
And to open its seals;
For You were slain,
And ^qhave redeemed us to God ^rby Your blood
Out of every tribe and tongue and people and nation, ¹⁰And have made ⁴us ^skings⁵ and ^tpriests to our God;
And ⁶we shall reign on the earth.”

¹¹Then I looked, and I heard the voice of many angels around the throne, the living creatures, and the elders; and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands,

¹²saying with a loud voice:

“Worthy is the Lamb who was slain
To receive power and riches and wisdom,
And strength and honor and glory and blessing!”

¹³And ^uevery creature which is in heaven and on the earth and under the earth and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, I heard saying:

^v“Blessing and honor and glory and power
Be to Him ^wwho sits on the throne,
And to the Lamb, forever and ⁷ever!”

¹⁴Then the four living creatures said, “Amen!” And the ⁸twenty-four elders fell down and worshiped ⁹Him who lives forever and ever.

Revelation 6

First Seal: The Conqueror

¹Now ^aI saw when the Lamb opened one of the ¹seals; and I heard ^bone of the four living creatures saying with a voice like thunder, “Come and see.”

²And I looked, and behold, ^ca white horse. ^dHe who sat on it had a bow; ^eand a crown was given to him, and he went out ^fconquering and to conquer.

Second Seal: Conflict on Earth

³When He opened the second seal, ^gI heard the second living creature saying, “Come ²and see.”

^{4h}Another horse, fiery red, went out. And it was granted to the one who sat on it to ⁱtake peace from the earth, and that people should kill one another; and there was given to him a great sword.

Third Seal: Scarcity on Earth

⁵When He opened the third seal, ^jI heard the third living creature say, “Come and see.” So I looked, and behold, ^ka black horse, and he who sat on it had a pair of ¹scales³ in his hand.

⁶And I heard a voice in the midst of the four living creatures saying, “A ⁴quart of wheat for a ⁵denarius, and three quarts of barley for a denarius; and ^mdo not harm the oil and the wine.”

Fourth Seal: Widespread Death on Earth

⁷When He opened the fourth seal, ⁿI heard the voice of the fourth living creature saying, “Come and see.”

^{8o}So I looked, and behold, a pale horse. And the name of him who sat on it was Death, and Hades followed with him. And ⁶power was given to them over a fourth of the earth, ^pto kill with sword, with hunger, with death, ^qand by the beasts of the earth. Word Studies: Hades

Fifth Seal: The Cry of the Martyrs

⁹When He opened the fifth seal, I saw under ^rthe altar ^sthe souls of those who had been slain ^tfor the word of God and for ^uthe testimony which they held.

¹⁰And they cried with a loud voice, saying, ^v“How long, O Lord, ^wholy and true, ^xuntil You judge and avenge our blood on those who dwell on the earth?”

¹¹Then a ^ywhite robe was given to each of them; and it was said to them ^zthat they should rest a little while longer, until both the number of their fellow servants and their brethren, who would be killed as they were, was completed.

Sixth Seal: Cosmic Disturbances

¹²I looked when He opened the sixth seal, ^aand ⁷behold, there was a great earthquake; and ^bthe sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the ⁸moon became like blood.

^{13c}And the stars of heaven fell to the earth, as a fig tree drops its late figs when it is shaken by a mighty wind.

^{14d}Then the sky ⁹receded as a scroll when it is rolled up, and ^eevery mountain and island was moved out of its place.

¹⁵And the ^fkings of the earth, the great men, ¹⁰the rich men, the commanders, the mighty men, every slave and every free man, ^ghid themselves in the caves and in the rocks of the mountains, ^{16h}and said to the mountains and rocks, “Fall on us and hide us from the face of Him who ⁱsits on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb!

¹⁷“For the great day of His wrath has come, ^jand who is able to stand?”

Revelation 7

The Sealed of Israel

¹After these things I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, ^aholding the four winds of the earth, ^bthat the wind should not blow on the earth, on the sea, or on any tree.

²Then I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God. And he cried with a loud voice to the four angels to whom it was granted to harm the earth and the sea,

³saying, ^c“Do not harm the earth, the sea, or the trees till we have sealed the servants of our God ^don their foreheads.”

^{4e}And I heard the number of those who were sealed. ^fOne hundred and forty-four thousand ^gof all the tribes of the children of Israel were sealed:

⁵of the tribe of Judah
twelve thousand were sealed;

of the tribe of Reuben
twelve thousand were ¹sealed;

of the tribe of Gad
twelve thousand were sealed;
⁶of the tribe of Asher
twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Naphtali
twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Manasseh
twelve thousand were sealed;
⁷of the tribe of Simeon
twelve thousand were sealed;

of the tribe of Levi
twelve thousand were sealed;
of the tribe of Issachar
twelve thousand were sealed;
⁸of the tribe of Zebulun
twelve thousand were sealed;

of the tribe of Joseph
twelve thousand were sealed;

of the tribe of Benjamin
twelve thousand were sealed.

A Multitude from the Great Tribulation

⁹After these things I looked, and behold, ^ha great multitude which no one could number, ⁱof all nations, tribes, peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, ^jclothed with white robes, with palm branches in their hands,

¹⁰and crying out with a loud voice, saying, ^k“Salvation belongs to our God ^lwho sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!”

^{11m}All the angels stood around the throne and the elders and the four living creatures, and fell on their faces before the throne and ⁿworshiped God,

^{12o}saying:

“Amen! Blessing and glory and wisdom,
Thanksgiving and honor and power and might,
Be to our God forever and ever.
Amen.”

¹³Then one of the elders answered, saying to me, “Who are these arrayed in ^pwhite robes, and where did they come from?”

¹⁴And I said to him, ²“Sir, you know.” So he said to me, ^q“These are the ones who come out of the great tribulation, and ^rwashed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Article: Interpreting Revelation ¹⁵“Therefore they are before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple. And He who sits on the throne will ^sdwell among them.

^{16t}“They shall neither hunger anymore nor thirst anymore; ^uthe sun shall not strike them, nor any heat;

¹⁷“for the Lamb who is in the midst of the throne ^vwill shepherd them and lead them to ³living fountains of waters. ^wAnd God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.”

Revelation 8

Seventh Seal: Prelude to the Seven Trumpets

¹When^a He opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour.

^{2b}And I saw the seven angels who stand before God, ^cand to them were given seven trumpets.

³Then another angel, having a golden censer, came and stood at the altar. He was given much incense, that he should offer it with ^dthe prayers of all the saints upon ^ethe golden altar which was before the throne.

⁴And ^fthe smoke of the incense, with the prayers of the saints, ascended before God from the angel's hand.

⁵Then the angel took the censer, filled it with fire from the altar, and threw it to the earth. And ^gthere were noises, thunderings, ^hlightnings, ⁱand an earthquake.

⁶So the seven angels who had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

First Trumpet: Vegetation Struck

⁷The first angel sounded: ^jAnd hail and fire followed, mingled with blood, and they were thrown ^kto the ¹earth. And a third ^lof the trees were burned up, and all green grass was burned up.

Second Trumpet: The Seas Struck

⁸Then the second angel sounded: ^mAnd something like a great mountain burning with fire was thrown into the sea, ⁿand a third of the sea ^obecame blood.

^{9p}And a third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed.

Third Trumpet: The Waters Struck

¹⁰Then the third angel sounded: ^qAnd a great star fell from heaven, burning like a torch, ^rand it fell on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water.

^{11s}The name of the star is Wormwood. ^tA third of the waters became wormwood, and many men died from the water, because it was made bitter.

Fourth Trumpet: The Heavens Struck

¹²^uThen the fourth angel sounded: And a third of the sun was struck, a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of them were darkened. A third of the day ²did not shine, and likewise the night.

¹³And I looked, ^vand I heard an ³angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, ^w“Woe, woe, woe to the inhabitants of the earth, because of the remaining blasts of the trumpet of the three angels who are about to sound!”

Revelation 9

Fifth Trumpet: The Locusts from the Bottomless Pit

¹Then the fifth angel sounded: ^aAnd I saw a star fallen from heaven to the earth. To him was given the key to ^bthe ¹bottomless pit.

²And he opened the bottomless pit, and smoke arose out of the pit like the smoke of a great furnace. So the ^csun and the air were darkened because of the smoke of the pit.

³Then out of the smoke locusts came upon the earth. And to them was given power, ^das the scorpions of the earth have power.

⁴They were commanded ^enot to harm ^fthe grass of the earth, or any green thing, or any tree, but only those men who do not have ^gthe seal of God on their foreheads.

⁵And ²they were not given authority to kill them, ^hbut to torment them for five months. Their torment was like the torment of a scorpion when it strikes a man.

⁶In those days ⁱmen will seek death and will not find it; they will desire to die, and death will flee from them.

^{7j}The shape of the locusts was like horses prepared for battle. ^kOn their heads were crowns of something like gold, ¹and their faces were like the faces of men.

⁸They had hair like women's hair, and ^mtheir teeth were like lions' teeth.

⁹And they had breastplates like breastplates of iron, and the sound of their wings was ⁿlike the sound of chariots with many horses running into battle.

¹⁰They had tails like scorpions, and there were stings in their tails. Their power was to hurt men five months.

¹¹And they had as king over them ^othe angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in Hebrew is ³Abaddon, but in Greek he has the name ⁴Apollyon.

^{12p}One woe is past. Behold, still two more woes are coming after these things.

Sixth Trumpet: The Angels from the Euphrates

¹³Then the sixth angel sounded: And I heard a voice from the four horns of the ^qgolden altar which is before God,

¹⁴saying to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, “Release the four angels who are bound ^rat the great river Euphrates.”

¹⁵So the four angels, who had been prepared for the hour and day and month and year, were released to kill a ^sthird of mankind.

¹⁶Now ^tthe number of the army ^uof the horsemen was two hundred million; ^vI heard the number of them.

¹⁷And thus I saw the horses in the vision: those who sat on them had breastplates of fiery red, hyacinth blue, and sulfur yellow; ^wand the heads of the horses were like the heads of lions; and out of their mouths came fire, smoke, and brimstone.

¹⁸By these three plagues a third of mankind was killed—by the fire and the smoke and the brimstone which came out of their mouths.

¹⁹For ⁵their power is in their mouth and in their tails; ^xfor their tails are like serpents, having heads; and with them they do harm.

²⁰But the rest of mankind, who were not killed by these plagues, ^ydid not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship ^zdemons, ^aand idols of gold, silver, brass, stone, and wood, which can neither see nor hear nor walk.

²¹And they did not repent of their murders ^bor their ⁶sorceries or their sexual immorality or their thefts.

Revelation 10

The Mighty Angel with the Little Book

¹I saw still another mighty angel coming down from heaven, clothed with a cloud. ^aAnd a rainbow was on ^bhis head, his face was like the sun, and ^chis feet like pillars of fire.

²He had a little book open in his hand. ^dAnd he set his right foot on the sea and his left foot on the land, ³and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roars. When he cried out, ^eseven thunders uttered their voices.

⁴Now when the seven thunders ¹uttered their voices, I was about to write; but I heard a voice from heaven saying ²to me, ^f“Seal up the things which the seven thunders uttered, and do not write them.”

⁵The angel whom I saw standing on the sea and on the land ^graised up his ³hand to heaven

⁶and swore by Him who lives forever and ever, ^hwho created heaven and the things that are in it, the earth and the things that are in it, and the sea and the things that are in it, ⁱthat there should be delay no longer, ⁷but ^jin the days of the sounding of the seventh angel, when he is about to sound, the mystery of God would be finished, as He declared to His servants the prophets.

John Eats the Little Book

⁸Then the voice which I heard from heaven spoke to me again and said, “Go, take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel who stands on the sea and on the earth.”

⁹So I went to the angel and said to him, “Give me the little book.” And he said to me, ^k“Take and eat it; and it will make your stomach bitter, but it will be as sweet as honey in your mouth.”

¹⁰Then I took the little book out of the angel’s hand and ate it, ^land it was as sweet as honey in my mouth. But when I had eaten it, ^mmy stomach became bitter.

¹¹And ⁴he said to me, “You must prophesy again about many peoples, nations, tongues, and kings.”

Revelation 11

The Two Witnesses

¹Then I was given ^aa reed like a measuring rod. ¹And the angel stood, saying, ^b“Rise and measure the temple of God, the altar, and those who worship there.

²“But leave out ^cthe court which is outside the temple, and do not measure it, ^dfor it has been given to the Gentiles. And they will ^etread the holy city underfoot for ^fforty-two months.

³“And I will give power to my two ^gwitnesses, ^hand they will prophesy ⁱone thousand two hundred and sixty days, clothed in sackcloth.”

⁴These are the ^jtwo olive trees and the two lampstands standing before the ²God of the earth.

⁵And if anyone wants to harm them, ^kfire proceeds from their mouth and devours their enemies. ¹And if anyone wants to harm them, he must be killed in this manner.

⁶These ^mhave power to shut heaven, so that no rain falls in the days of their prophecy; and they have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to strike the earth with all plagues, as often as they desire.

The Witnesses Killed

⁷When they ⁿfinish their testimony, ^othe beast that ascends ^pout of the bottomless pit ^qwill make war against them, overcome them, and kill them.

⁸And their dead bodies will lie in the street of ^rthe great city which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, ^swhere also ³our Lord was crucified.

⁹^rThen those from the peoples, tribes, tongues, and nations ⁴will see their dead bodies three-and-a-half days, ^uand not allow their dead bodies to be put into graves.

¹⁰^vAnd those who dwell on the earth will rejoice over them, make merry, ^wand send gifts to one another, ^xbecause these two prophets tormented those who dwell on the earth.

The Witnesses Resurrected

^{11y}Now after the three-and-a-half days ^zthe breath of life from God entered them, and they stood on their feet, and great fear fell on those who saw them.

¹²And ⁵they heard a loud voice from heaven saying to them, “Come up here.” ^aAnd they ascended to heaven ^bin a cloud, ^cand their enemies saw them.

¹³In the same hour ^dthere was a great earthquake, ^eand a tenth of the city fell. In the earthquake seven thousand people were killed, and the rest were afraid ^fand gave glory to the God of heaven.

^{14g}The second woe is past. Behold, the third woe is coming quickly.

Seventh Trumpet: The Kingdom Proclaimed

¹⁵Then ^hthe seventh angel sounded: ⁱAnd there were loud voices in heaven, saying, ^j“The ⁶kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of His Christ, ^kand He shall reign forever and ever!”

¹⁶And ^lthe twenty-four elders who sat before God on their thrones fell on their faces and ^mworshiped God,

¹⁷saying:

“We give You thanks, O Lord God Almighty,
The One ⁿwho is and who was ⁷and who is to come,
Because You have taken Your great power ^oand reigned. Word

Studies: the Almighty

¹⁸The nations were ^pangry, and Your ⁸wrath has come,
And the time of the ^qdead, that they should be judged,
And that You should reward Your servants the prophets and the saints,
And those who fear Your name, small and great,
And should destroy those who destroy the earth.”

¹⁹Then ^rthe temple of God was opened in heaven, and the ark of ⁹His covenant was seen in His temple. And ^sthere were lightnings, noises, thunderings, an earthquake, ^tand great hail.

Revelation 12

The Woman, the Child, and the Dragon

¹Now a great sign appeared in heaven: a woman clothed with the sun, with the moon under her feet, and on her head a garland of twelve stars.

²Then being with child, she cried out ^ain labor and in pain to give birth.

³And another sign appeared in heaven: behold, ^ba great, fiery red dragon having seven heads and ten horns, and seven diadems on his heads.

^{4c}His tail drew a third ^dof the stars of heaven ^eand threw them to the earth. And the dragon stood ^fbefore the woman who was ready to give birth, ^gto devour her Child as soon as it was born.

⁵She bore a male Child ^hwho was to rule all nations with a rod of iron. And her Child was ⁱcaught up to God and His throne.

⁶Then ^jthe woman fled into the wilderness, where she has a place prepared by God, that they should feed her there ^kone thousand two hundred and sixty days.

Satan Thrown Out of Heaven

⁷And war broke out in heaven: ¹Michael and his angels fought ^mwith the dragon; and the dragon and his angels fought, ⁸but they ¹did not prevail, nor was a place found for ²them in heaven any longer.

⁹So ⁿthe great dragon was cast out, ^othat serpent of old, called the Devil and Satan, ^pwho deceives the whole world; ^qhe was cast to the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. Word Studies: Devil

¹⁰Then I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, ^r“Now salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of His Christ have come, for the accuser of our brethren, ^swho accused them before our God day and night, has been cast down.

¹¹“And ^tthey overcame him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, ^uand they did not love their lives to the death.

¹²“Therefore ^vrejoice, O heavens, and you who dwell in them! ^wWoe to the inhabitants of the earth and the sea! For the devil has come down to you, having great wrath, ^xbecause he knows that he has a short time.”

The Woman Persecuted

¹³Now when the dragon saw that he had been cast to the earth, he persecuted ^ythe woman who gave birth to the male Child.

^{14z}But the woman was given two wings of a great eagle, ^athat she might fly ^binto the wilderness to her place, where she is nourished ^cfor a time and times and half a time, from the presence of the serpent.

¹⁵So the serpent ^dspewed water out of his mouth like a flood after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away by the flood.

¹⁶But the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed up the flood which the dragon had spewed out of his mouth.

¹⁷And the dragon was enraged with the woman, and he went to make war with the rest of her offspring, who keep the commandments of God and have the testimony of Jesus ³Christ.

Revelation 13

The Beast from the Sea

¹Then ¹I stood on the sand of the sea. And I saw ^aa beast rising up out of the sea, ^bhaving ²seven heads and ten horns, and on his horns ten crowns, and on his heads a ^cblasphemous name. Article: God Restrains Evil

²Now the beast which I saw was like a leopard, his feet were like the feet of a bear, and his mouth like the mouth of a lion. The ^ddragon gave him his power, his throne, and great authority.

³And I saw one of his heads ^eas if it had been mortally wounded, and his deadly wound was healed. And ^fall the world marveled and followed the beast.

⁴So they worshiped the dragon who gave authority to the beast; and they worshiped the beast, saying, ^g“Who is like the beast? Who is able to make war with him?”

⁵And he was given ^ha mouth speaking great things and blasphemies, and he was given authority to ³continue for ⁱforty-two months.

⁶Then he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme His name, ^jHis tabernacle, and those who dwell in heaven.

⁷It was granted to him ^kto make war with the saints and to overcome them. And ¹authority was given him over every ⁴tribe, tongue, and nation.

⁸All who dwell on the earth will worship him, ^mwhose names have not been written in the Book of Life of the Lamb slain ⁿfrom the foundation of the world.

^{9o}If anyone has an ear, let him hear.

^{10p}He who leads into captivity shall go into captivity; ^qhe who kills with the sword must be killed with the sword. ^rHere is the ⁵patience and the faith of the saints.

The Beast from the Earth

¹¹Then I saw another beast ^scoming up out of the earth, and he had two horns like a lamb and spoke like a dragon.

¹²And he exercises all the authority of the first beast in his presence, and causes the earth and those who dwell in it to worship the first beast, ^twhose deadly wound was healed.

^{13u}He performs great signs, ^vso that he even makes fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men.

^{14w}And he deceives ⁶those who dwell on the earth ^xby those signs which he was granted to do in the sight of the beast, telling those who dwell on the earth to make an image to the beast who was wounded by the sword ^yand lived.

¹⁵He was granted power to give breath to the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak ^zand cause as many as would not worship the image of the beast to be killed.

¹⁶He causes all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, ^ato receive a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads, ¹⁷and that no one may buy or sell except one who has ⁷the mark or ^bthe name of the beast, ^cor the number of his name.

^{18d}Here is wisdom. Let him who has ^eunderstanding calculate ^fthe number of the beast, ^gfor it is the number of a man: His number is 666.

Revelation 14

The Lamb and the 144,000

¹Then I looked, and behold, ^{1a}a ^aLamb standing on Mount Zion, and with Him ^bone hundred and forty-four thousand, ²having His Father's name ^cwritten on their foreheads.

²And I heard a voice from heaven, ^dlike the voice of many waters, and like the voice of loud thunder. And I heard the sound of ^eharpists playing their harps.

³They sang as it were a new song before the throne, before the four living creatures, and the elders; and no one could learn that song ^fexcept the hundred and forty-four thousand who were redeemed from the earth.

⁴These are the ones who were not defiled with women, ^gfor they are virgins. These are the ones ^hwho follow the Lamb wherever He goes. These ⁱwere ³redeemed from among men, ^jbeing firstfruits to God and to the Lamb.

⁵And ^kin their mouth was found no ⁴deceit, for ^lthey are without fault ⁵before the throne of God.

The Proclamations of Three Angels

⁶Then I saw another angel ^mflying in the midst of heaven, ⁿhaving the everlasting gospel to preach to those who dwell on the earth—^oto every nation, tribe, tongue, and people—

⁷saying with a loud voice, ^p“Fear God and give glory to Him, for the hour of His judgment has come; ^qand worship Him who made heaven and earth, the sea and springs of water.”

⁸And another angel followed, saying, ^r“Babylon⁶ is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because ^sshe has made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.”

⁹Then a third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, ^t“If anyone worships the beast and his image, and receives his ^umark on his forehead or on his hand,

¹¹“And ^athe smoke of their torment ascends forever and ever; and they have no rest day or night, who worship the beast and his image, and whoever receives the mark of his name.”

^{12b}Here is the ⁷patience of the saints; ^chere⁸ are those who keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus.

¹³Then I heard a voice from heaven saying ⁹to me, “Write: ^d‘Blessed are the dead ^ewho die in the Lord from now on.’ ” “Yes,” says the Spirit, ^f“that they may rest from their labors, and their works follow ^gthem.”

Reaping the Earth’s Harvest

¹⁴Then I looked, and behold, a white cloud, and on the cloud sat One like the Son of Man, having on His head a golden crown, and in His hand a sharp sickle.

¹⁵And another angel ^hcame out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to Him who sat on the cloud, ⁱ“Thrust in Your sickle and reap, for the time has come ¹⁰for You to reap, for the harvest ^jof the earth is ripe.”

¹⁶So He who sat on the cloud thrust in His sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped.

Reaping the Grapes of Wrath

¹⁷Then another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

¹⁸And another angel came out from the altar, ^kwho had power over fire, and he cried with a loud cry to him who had the sharp sickle, saying, ^l“Thrust in your sharp sickle and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, for her grapes are fully ripe.”

¹⁹So the angel thrust his sickle into the earth and gathered the vine of the earth, and threw it into ^mthe great winepress of the wrath of God.

²⁰And ⁿthe winepress was trampled ^ooutside the city, and blood came out of the winepress, ^pup to the horses’ bridles, for one thousand six hundred ¹¹furlongs.

Revelation 15

Prelude to the Bowl Judgments

¹Then ^aI saw another sign in heaven, great and marvelous: ^bseven angels having the seven last plagues, ^cfor in them the wrath of God is complete.

²And I saw something like ^da sea of glass ^emingled with fire, and those who have the victory over the beast, ^fover his image and ¹over his mark and over the ^gnumber of his name, standing on the sea of glass, ^hhaving harps of God.

³They sing ⁱthe song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the ^jLamb, saying:

^k“Great and marvelous are Your works,
Lord God Almighty!

^lJust and true are Your ways,
O King of the ²saints!

^{4m}Who shall not fear You, O Lord, and glorify Your name?
For You alone are ⁿholy.

For ^oall nations shall come and worship before You,
For Your judgments have been manifested.”

⁵After these things I looked, and ³behold, ^pthe ⁴temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened.

⁶And out of the ⁵temple came the seven angels having the seven plagues, ^qclothed in pure bright linen, and having their chests girded with golden bands.

^{7r}Then one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden bowls full of the wrath of God ^swho lives forever and ever.

^{8r}The temple was filled with smoke ^ufrom the glory of God and from His power, and no one was able to enter the temple till the seven plagues of the seven angels were completed.

Revelation 16

¹Then I heard a loud voice from the temple saying ^ato the seven angels, “Go and pour out the ¹bowls ^bof the wrath of God on the earth.”

First Bowl: Loathsome Sores

²So the first went and poured out his bowl ^cupon the earth, and a ²foul and ^dloathsome sore came upon the men ^ewho had the mark of the beast and those ^fwho worshiped his image.

Second Bowl: The Sea Turns to Blood

³Then the second angel poured out his bowl ^gon the sea, and ^hit became blood as of a dead man; ⁱand every living creature in the sea died.

Third Bowl: The Waters Turn to Blood

⁴Then the third angel poured out his bowl ^jon the rivers and springs of water, ^kand they became blood.

⁵And I heard the angel of the waters saying:

¹“You are righteous, ³O Lord,
The One ^mwho is and who ⁴was and who is to be,
Because You have judged these things.
⁶For ⁿthey have shed the blood ^oof saints and prophets,
^pAnd You have given them blood to drink.
⁵For it is their just due.”

⁷And I heard ⁶another from the altar saying, “Even so, ^qLord God Almighty, ^rtrue and righteous are Your judgments.”

Fourth Bowl: Men Are Scorched

⁸Then the fourth angel poured out his bowl ^son the sun, ^tand power was given to him to scorch men with fire.

⁹And men were scorched with great heat, and they ^ublasphemed the name of God who has power over these plagues; ^vand they did not repent ^wand give Him glory.

Fifth Bowl: Darkness and Pain

¹⁰Then the fifth angel poured out his bowl ^xon the throne of the beast, ^yand his kingdom became full of darkness; ^zand they gnawed their tongues because of the pain.

¹¹They blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and did not repent of their deeds.

Sixth Bowl: Euphrates Dried Up

¹²Then the sixth angel poured out his bowl ^aon the great river Euphrates, ^band its water was dried up, ^cso that the way of the kings from the east might be prepared.

¹³And I saw three unclean ^dspirits like frogs coming out of the mouth of ^ethe dragon, out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of ^fthe false prophet.

¹⁴For they are spirits of demons, ^gperforming signs, which go out to the kings ⁷of the earth and of ^hthe whole world, to gather them to ⁱthe battle of that great day of God Almighty.

^{15j}“Behold, I am coming as a thief. Blessed is he who watches, and keeps his garments, ^klest he walk naked and they see his shame.”

¹⁶ⁱAnd they gathered them together to the place called in Hebrew, ⁸Armageddon.

Seventh Bowl: The Earth Utterly Shaken

¹⁷Then the seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and a loud voice came out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, ^m“It is done!”

¹⁸And ⁿthere were noises and thunderings and lightnings; ^oand there was a great earthquake, such a mighty and great earthquake ^pas had not occurred since men were on the earth.

¹⁹Now ^qthe great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell. And ^rgreat Babylon ^swas remembered before God, ^tto give her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of His wrath.

²⁰Then ^uevery island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

²¹And great hail from heaven fell upon men, each hailstone about the weight of a talent. Men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail, since that plague was exceedingly great.

Revelation 17

The Scarlet Woman and the Scarlet Beast

¹Then ^aone of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and talked with me, saying ¹to me, “Come, ^bI will show you the judgment of ^cthe great harlot ^dwho sits on many waters,

^{2e}“with whom the kings of the earth committed fornication, and ^fthe inhabitants of the earth were made drunk with the wine of her fornication.”

³So he carried me away in the Spirit ^ginto the wilderness. And I saw a woman sitting ^hon a scarlet beast which was full of ⁱnames of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

⁴The woman ^jwas arrayed in purple and scarlet, ^kand adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, ^lhaving in her hand a golden cup ^mfull of abominations and the filthiness of ²her fornication.

⁵And on her forehead a name was written:

ⁿMYSTERY,
BABYLON THE GREAT,
THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

⁶I saw ^othe woman, drunk ^pwith the blood of the saints and with the blood of ^qthe martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw her, I marveled with great amazement.

The Meaning of the Woman and the Beast

⁷But the angel said to me, “Why did you marvel? I will tell you the ³mystery of the woman and of the beast that carries her, which has the seven heads and the ten horns.

⁸“The beast that you saw was, and is not, and ^rwill ascend out of the bottomless pit and ^sgo to ⁴perdition. And those who ^tdwell on the earth ^uwill marvel, ^vwhose names are not written in the Book of Life from the foundation of the world, when they see the beast that was, and is not, and ⁵yet is.

^{9w}“Here is the mind which has wisdom: ^xThe seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman sits.

¹⁰“There are also seven kings. Five have fallen, one is, and the other has not yet come. And when he comes, he must ^ycontinue a short time.

¹¹“The ^zbeast that was, and is not, is himself also the eighth, and is of the seven, and is going to ⁶perdition.

^{12a}“The ten horns which you saw are ten kings who have received no kingdom as yet, but they receive authority for one hour as kings with the beast.

¹³“These are of one mind, and they will give their power and authority to the beast.

^{14b}“These will make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb will ^covercome them, ^dfor He is Lord of lords and King of kings; ^eand those who are with Him are called, chosen, and faithful.”

¹⁵Then he said to me, ^f“The waters which you saw, where the harlot sits, ^gare peoples, multitudes, nations, and tongues.

¹⁶“And the ten horns which you ⁷saw on the beast, ^hthese will hate the harlot, make her ⁱdesolate ^jand naked, eat her flesh and ^kburn her with fire.

¹⁷ⁱ“For God has put it into their hearts to fulfill His purpose, to be of one mind, and to give their kingdom to the beast, ^muntil the words of God are fulfilled.

¹⁸“And the woman whom you saw ⁿis that great city ^owhich reigns over the kings of the earth.”

Revelation 18

The Fall of Babylon the Great

¹After^a these things I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, ^band the earth was illuminated with his glory.

²And he cried ¹mightily with a loud voice, saying, ^c“Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and ^dhas become a dwelling place of demons, a prison for every foul spirit, and ^ea cage for every unclean and hated bird!

³“For all the nations ^fhave drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, ^gand the merchants of the earth have become rich through the ²abundance of her luxury.”

⁴And I heard another voice from heaven saying, ^h“Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues.

⁵ⁱ“For her sins ³have reached to heaven, and ^jGod has remembered her iniquities.

^{6k}“Render to her just as she rendered ⁴to you, and repay her double according to her works; ^lin the cup which she has mixed, ^mmix double for her.

⁷ⁿ“In the measure that she glorified herself and lived ⁵luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and sorrow; for she says in her heart, ‘I sit ^oas queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.’

⁸“Therefore her plagues will come ^pin one day—death and mourning and famine. And ^qshe will be utterly burned with fire, ^rfor strong is the Lord God who ⁶judges her.

The World Mourns Babylon’s Fall

^{9s}“The kings of the earth who committed fornication and lived luxuriously with her ^twill weep and lament for her, ^uwhen they see the smoke of her burning,

¹⁰“standing at a distance for fear of her torment, saying, ^v‘Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! ^wFor in one hour your judgment has come.’

Bible Times & Culture Notes: Babylon

¹¹“And ^xthe merchants of the earth will weep and mourn over her, for no one buys their merchandise anymore:

^{12y}“merchandise of gold and silver, precious stones and pearls, fine linen and purple, silk and scarlet, every kind of citron wood, every kind of object of ivory, every kind of object of most precious wood, bronze, iron, and marble;

¹³“and cinnamon and incense, fragrant oil and frankincense, wine and oil, fine flour and wheat, cattle and sheep, horses and chariots, and bodies and ^zsouls of men.

¹⁴“The fruit that your soul longed for has gone from you, and all the things which are rich and splendid have ⁷gone from you, and you shall find them no more at all.

¹⁵“The merchants of these things, who became rich by her, will stand at a distance for fear of her torment, weeping and wailing, ¹⁶“and saying, ‘Alas, alas, ^athat great city ^bthat was clothed in fine linen, purple, and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls!

^{17c}‘For in one hour such great riches ⁸came to nothing.’ ^dEvery shipmaster, all who travel by ship, sailors, and as many as trade on the sea, stood at a distance

^{18e}“and cried out when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, ^f‘What is like this great city?’

^{19g}“They threw dust on their heads and cried out, weeping and wailing, and saying, ‘Alas, alas, that great city, in which all who had ships on the sea became rich by her wealth! ^hFor in one hour she ⁹is made desolate.’

²⁰ⁱ“Rejoice over her, O heaven, and you ¹⁰holy apostles and prophets, for ^jGod has avenged you on her!”

Finality of Babylon's Fall

²¹Then a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone and threw it into the sea, saying, ^k“Thus with violence the great city Babylon shall be thrown down, and ^lshall not be found anymore.

^{22m}“The sound of harpists, musicians, flutists, and trumpeters shall not be heard in you anymore. No craftsman of any craft shall be found in you anymore, and the sound of a millstone shall not be heard in you anymore.

²³ⁿ“The light of a lamp shall not shine in you anymore, ^oand the voice of bridegroom and bride shall not be heard in you anymore. For ^pyour merchants were the great men of the earth, ^qfor by your sorcery all the nations were deceived.

²⁴“And ^rin her was found the blood of prophets and saints, and of all who ^swere slain on the earth.”

Revelation 19

Heaven Exults over Babylon

¹After these things ^aI ¹heard a loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, saying, “Alleluia! ^bSalvation and glory and honor and power belong to ²the Lord our God!

²“For ^ctrue and righteous are His judgments, because He has judged the great harlot who corrupted the earth with her fornication; and He ^dhas avenged on her the blood of His servants shed by her.”

³Again they said, “Alleluia! ^eHer smoke rises up forever and ever!”

⁴And ^fthe twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God who sat on the throne, saying, ^g“Amen! Alleluia!”

⁵Then a voice came from the throne, saying, ^h“Praise our God, all you His servants and those who fear Him, ⁱboth ³small and great!”

^{6j}And I heard, as it were, the voice of a great multitude, as the sound of many waters and as the sound of mighty thunderings, saying, “Alleluia! For ^kthe ⁴Lord God Omnipotent reigns!

⁷“Let us be glad and rejoice and give Him glory, for ^lthe marriage of the Lamb has come, and His wife has made herself ready.”

⁸And ^mto her it was granted to be arrayed in fine linen, clean and bright, ⁿfor the fine linen is the righteous acts of the saints.

⁹Then he said to me, “Write: ^o‘Blessed are those who are called to the marriage supper of the Lamb!’ ” And he said to me, ^p“These are the true sayings of God.”

¹⁰And ^qI fell at his feet to worship him. But he said to me, ^r“See that you do not do that! I am your ^sfellow servant, and of your brethren ^twho have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God! For the ^utestimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.”

Christ on a White Horse

^{11v}Now I saw heaven opened, and behold, ^wa white horse. And He who sat on him was called ^xFaithful and True, and ^yin righteousness He judges and makes war.

^{12z}His eyes were like a flame of fire, and on His head were many crowns. ^aHe ⁵had a name written that no one knew except Himself.

^{13b}He was clothed with a robe dipped in blood, and His name is called ^cThe Word of God.

^{14d}And the armies in heaven, ^eclothed in ⁶fine linen, white and clean, followed Him on white horses.

¹⁵Now ^fout of His mouth goes a ⁷sharp sword, that with it He should strike the nations. And ⁸He Himself will rule them with a rod of iron. ^hHe Himself treads the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God.

¹⁶And ⁱHe has on His robe and on His thigh a name written:

^jKING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS.

The Beast and His Armies Defeated

¹⁷Then I saw an angel standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the birds that fly in the midst of heaven, ^k“Come and gather together for the ⁸supper of the great God,

^{18l}“that you may eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of captains, the flesh of mighty men, the flesh of horses and of those who sit on them, and the flesh of all people, ⁹free and slave, both small and great.”

^{19m}And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army.

²⁰ⁿThen the beast was captured, and with him the false prophet who worked signs in his presence, by which he deceived those who received the mark of the beast and ^othose who worshiped his image. ^pThese two were cast alive into the lake of fire ^qburning with brimstone.

²¹And the rest ^rwere killed with the sword which proceeded from the mouth of Him who sat on the horse. ^sAnd all the birds ^twere filled with their flesh.

Revelation 20

Satan Bound 1000 Years

¹Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven, ^ahaving the key to the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

²He laid hold of ^bthe dragon, that serpent of old, who is the Devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years;

³and he cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and ^cset a seal on him, ^dso that he should deceive the nations no more till the thousand years were finished. But after these things he must be released for a little while.

The Saints Reign with Christ 1000 Years

⁴And I saw ^ethrones, and they sat on them, and ^fjudgment was committed to them. Then I saw ^gthe souls of those who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, ^hwho had not worshiped the beast ⁱor his image, and had not received his mark on their foreheads or on their hands. And they ^jlived and ^kreigned with Christ for ¹a thousand years.

⁵But the rest of the dead did not live again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.

⁶Blessed and holy is he who has part in the first resurrection. Over such ^lthe second death has no power, but they shall be ^mpriests of God and of Christ, ⁿand shall reign with Him a thousand years.

Satanic Rebellion Crushed

(cf. Ezek. 38; 39)

⁷Now when the thousand years have expired, Satan will be released from his prison

⁸and will go out ^oto deceive the nations which are in the four corners of the earth, ^pGog and Magog, ^qto gather them together to battle, whose number is as the sand of the sea.

⁹They went up on the breadth of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city. And fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured them.

¹⁰The devil, who deceived them, was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone ^swhere² the beast and the false prophet are. And they ^twill be tormented day and night forever and ever. Article: God and the Problem of Evil

The Great White Throne Judgment

¹¹Then I saw a great white throne and Him who sat on it, from whose face ^uthe earth and the heaven fled away. ^vAnd there was found no place for them.

¹²And I saw the dead, ^wsmall and great, standing before ³God, ^xand books were opened. And another ^ybook was opened, which is the Book of Life. And the dead were judged ^zaccording to their works, by the things which were written in the books.

¹³The sea gave up the dead who were in it, ^aand Death and Hades delivered up the dead who were in them. ^bAnd they were judged, each one according to his works.

¹⁴Then ^cDeath and Hades were cast into the lake of fire. ^dThis is the second ⁴death.

¹⁵And anyone not found written in the Book of Life ^ewas cast into the lake of fire.

Revelation 21

All Things Made New

¹Now ^aI saw a new heaven and a new earth, ^bfor the first heaven and the first earth had passed away. Also there was no more sea. Word Studies: New Jerusalem

²Then I, ¹John, saw ^cthe holy city, New Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared ^das a bride adorned for her husband.

³And I heard a loud voice from heaven saying, “Behold, ^ethe tabernacle of God is with men, and He will dwell with them, and they shall be His people. God Himself will be with them and be their God.

^{4f}“And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes; ^gthere shall be no more death, ^hnor sorrow, nor crying. There shall be no more pain, for the former things have passed away.”

⁵Then ⁱHe who sat on the throne said, ^j“Behold, I make all things new.” And He said ²to me, “Write, for ^kthese words are true and faithful.”

⁶And He said to me, ^l“³It is done! ^mI am the Alpha and the Omega, the Beginning and the End. ⁿI will give of the fountain of the water of life freely to him who thirsts.

⁷“He who overcomes ⁴shall inherit all things, and ^oI will be his God and he shall be My son.

^{8p}“But the cowardly, ⁵unbelieving, abominable, murderers, sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars shall have their part in ^qthe lake which burns with fire and brimstone, which is the second death.”

The New Jerusalem

(cf. Ezek. 48:30–35)

⁹Then one of ^rthe seven angels who had the seven bowls filled with the seven last plagues came ⁶to me and talked with me, saying, “Come, I will show you ^sthe ⁷bride, the Lamb’s wife.”

¹⁰And he carried me away ^tin the Spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me ^uthe ⁸great city, the ⁹holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, ^{11v}having the glory of God. Her light was like a most precious stone, like a jasper stone, clear as crystal.

¹²Also she had a great and high wall with ^wtwelve gates, and twelve angels at the gates, and names written on them, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel:

^{13x}three gates on the east, three gates on the north, three gates on the south, and three gates on the west.

¹⁴Now the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and ^yon them were the ¹⁰names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

¹⁵And he who talked with me ^zhad a gold reed to measure the city, its gates, and its wall.

¹⁶The city is laid out as a square; its length is as great as its breadth. And he measured the city with the reed: twelve thousand ¹¹furlongs. Its length, breadth, and height are equal.

¹⁷Then he measured its wall: one hundred and forty-four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of an angel.

¹⁸The construction of its wall was of jasper; and the city was pure gold, like clear glass.

^{19a}The foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with all kinds of precious stones: the first foundation was jasper, the second sapphire, the third chalcedony, the fourth emerald, ²⁰the fifth sardonyx, the sixth sardius, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprase, the eleventh jacinth, and the twelfth amethyst.

²¹The twelve gates were twelve ^bpearls: each individual gate was of one pearl. ^cAnd the street of the city was pure gold, like transparent glass.

The Glory of the New Jerusalem

^{22d}But I saw no temple in it, for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are its temple.

^{23e}The city had no need of the sun or of the moon to shine ¹²in it, for the ¹³glory of God illuminated it. The Lamb is its light.

^{24f}And the nations ¹⁴of those who are saved shall walk in its light, and the kings of the earth bring their glory and honor ¹⁵into it.

^{25g}Its gates shall not be shut at all by day ^h(there shall be no night there).

²⁶ⁱAnd they shall bring the glory and the honor of the nations into ¹⁶it.

²⁷But ^jthere shall by no means enter it anything ¹⁷that defiles, or causes an abomination or a lie, but only those who are written in the Lamb's ^kBook of Life.

Revelation 22

The River of Life

¹And he showed me ^aa ¹pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding from the throne of God and of the Lamb.

^{2b}In the middle of its street, and on either side of the river, was ^cthe tree of life, which bore twelve fruits, each tree yielding its fruit every month. The leaves of the tree were ^dfor the healing of the nations. Word Studies: the tree of life

³And ^ethere shall be no more curse, ^fbut the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and His ^gservants shall serve Him.

^{4h}They shall see His face, and ⁱHis name shall be on their foreheads.

^{5j}There shall be no night there: They need no lamp nor ^klight of the sun, for ^lthe Lord God gives them light. ^mAnd they shall reign forever and ever.

The Time Is Near

⁶Then he said to me, ⁿ“These words are faithful and true.” And the Lord God of the ²holy prophets ^osent His angel to show His servants the things which must ^pshortly take place.

^{7q}“Behold, I am coming quickly! ^rBlessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book.”

⁸Now I, John, ³saw and heard these things. And when I heard and saw, ^sI fell down to worship before the feet of the angel who showed me these things.

⁹Then he said to me, ^t“See that you do not do that. ⁴For I am your fellow servant, and of your brethren the prophets, and of those who keep the words of this book. Worship God.”

^{10u}And he said to me, “Do not seal the words of the prophecy of this book, ^vfor the time is at hand.

¹¹“He who is unjust, let him be unjust still; he who is filthy, let him be filthy still; he who is righteous, let him ⁵be righteous still; he who is holy, let him be holy still.”

Jesus Testifies to the Churches

¹²“And behold, I am coming quickly, and ^wMy reward is with Me, ^xto give to every one according to his work.

^{13y}“I am the Alpha and the Omega, the ⁶Beginning and the End, the First and the Last.” Word Studies: the Alpha and the Omega

^{14z}Blessed are those who ⁷do His commandments, that they may have the right ^ato the tree of life, ^band may enter through the gates into the city.

¹⁵⁸But ^coutside are ^ddogs and sorcerers and sexually immoral and murderers and idolaters, and whoever loves and practices a lie.

^{16e}“I, Jesus, have sent My angel to testify to you these things in the churches. ^fI am the Root and the Offspring of David, ⁸the Bright and Morning Star.”

¹⁷And the Spirit and ^hthe bride say, “Come!” And let him who hears say, “Come!” ⁱAnd let him who thirsts come. Whoever desires, let him take the water of life freely.

A Warning

¹⁸⁹For I testify to everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: ^jIf anyone adds to these things, ¹⁰God will add to him the plagues that are written in this book;

¹⁹and if anyone takes away from the words of the book of this prophecy, ^kGod¹¹ shall take away his part from the ¹²Book of Life, from the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

I Am Coming Quickly

²⁰He who testifies to these things says, “Surely I am coming quickly.”
Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus!

²¹The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be ¹³with you all. Amen.

Annotations for Revelation

- 1:1 Revelation (a word meaning “Unveiling” or “Disclosure”) indicates that this book is a type of literature known as apocalyptic (see the article “Revelation as Apocalyptic Literature”). The Revelation of Jesus Christ can mean it comes from Christ, or is about Him—or in this case most likely both, since He is the subject of the entire book. Christ’s servants are believers. The phrase must shortly take place is an allusion to Dan. 2:28, 29, 45, since shortly seems to indicate that the things that must come to pass in the last days will take place in quick succession. John (v. 4) is the human writer of Revelation, whereas Jesus is the divine Author.
- 1:2 The word of God, and . . . the testimony of Jesus Christ are the reasons John was exiled to the island of Patmos (v. 9) and are often the reasons Christians are still persecuted today. All things that he saw are the visions of the Book of Revelation.
- 1:3 Blessed, meaning spiritually “happy” from God’s perspective, signals the first of seven beatitudes in Revelation (see also 14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6; 22:7, 14). This is the first of many groups of seven throughout the book, a number signifying completeness.
- 1:4 John addressed Revelation to seven churches in the Roman province of Asia, which today is southwestern Turkey. The churches fit within a square 50 miles on each side, and their names are given in order going clockwise from the southwest. Grace is the Christian version of a common Greek greeting; peace is a common Hebrew greeting. Him who is and who was and who is to come describes God, who not only exists now, but always has and always will exist (see Heb. 13:8). The seven Spirits may refer to the angels of the seven churches (chs. 2; 3), to seven other angels (8:2), or to the fullness of the Holy Spirit (see Is. 11:2).
- 1:5 Jesus Christ . . . the firstborn from the dead guarantees the Christian’s future resurrection through His own resurrection (see 1 Cor. 15:20, 23). Though He is the rightful ruler, Christ will not fully exert His authority (see Matt. 28:18) over the kings of the earth until His second coming (19:17–21). At that time, He will establish His kingdom on earth (19:6) and will appoint prepared rulers who will share His sovereignty in submission to Him (2:26, 27; 3:21; 5:10; 20:4; 21:24).
- 1:6 Kings and priests echoes the description of Israel in Ex. 19:6, a description which is also applied to the church by the title “royal priesthood” in 1 Pet. 2:9. Christ’s sacrifice of Himself (v. 5) has set apart believers as royal priests to offer spiritual sacrifices to God (see Rom. 8:17; Heb. 3:1, 14; 13:15, 16).
- 1:7 Coming with clouds recalls Daniel’s vision of the Son of Man (see Dan. 7:13; Matt. 24:30). Jesus applies Daniel’s vision to His glorious second coming (see Matt. 24:30; Acts 1:11). Every eye indicates that Christ will be universally visible at His second coming, in contrast with His first coming in Bethlehem. The phrase pierced Him speaks of Christ’s crucifixion (see John 19:34) and Zechariah’s prophecy that Israel will come to a point of mourning their rejected Messiah (see Zech. 12:10; John 19:34, 37). In fact, all the tribes of the earth will mourn over Christ and regret their unbelief.
- 1:8 The Lord God’s self-description as the Alpha and the Omega, the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, means He is Almighty from the Beginning to the End of all creation. This knowledge can be a great comfort to a person who is suffering (v. 9). The Lord is sovereignly guiding history toward its consummation, the victory of Christ over all (see 1 Cor. 15:24–28).
- 1:9 John strongly identifies with his readers as a brother and companion in the tribulation, a tribulation which some were already suffering (2:9, 10). The apostle Paul said there would be many tribulations (see Acts 14:22) for the believer before the coming of the kingdom (11:15). Such trials develop patience and maturity (see James 1:2–4) in Christ. Enduring trials that come our way is a prerequisite for reigning with Christ (see Rom. 8:17; 2 Tim. 2:12). The immediate suffering of John was related to his exile on the small island of Patmos in the Aegean Sea. Although John had been exiled in an effort to silence the word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ (the Greek word translated testimony literally means “witness” and is the basis for the English word martyr), his witness continued in the writing of Revelation (vv. 1, 2).

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Patmos

Patmos is a small, rugged, and bare island in the Aegean Sea that lies 20 miles south of Samos and 24 miles west of Asia Minor. Patmos is divided into two nearly equal parts, a northern and a southern, by a very narrow isthmus, where, on the east side, are the harbor and the town. Because of its desolate and barren nature, Patmos was used by the Romans as a place to banish criminals, who were forced to work at hard labor in the mines and quarries of the island. Because Christians were regarded as criminals by the Roman Emperor Domitian (ruled A.D. 81–96), the apostle John was banished there in A.D. 95 and probably suffered from harsh treatment. An early Christian tradition said John was in exile for 18 months.

- 1:10 In the Spirit describes John's state of spiritual exaltation as he received the visions of the Apocalypse (4:1, 2).
- 1:11 The seven churches in the province of Asia each received the whole Book of Revelation, and each received an individual letter from Christ (2:1-3:22).
- 1:12 The seven golden lampstands represent the seven churches named in v. 11 (see also v. 20).
- 1:13 One like the Son of Man is a reference to Dan. 7:13. Comparison of these two passages, along with Jesus' common use of the name Son of Man (see Matt. 20:28) for Himself, indicate that Christ is the subject of vv. 12-18. In the midst speaks of love and familiarity. Christ was fully man and fully God. The long garment and band (sash) indicate that the glorified Christ is dressed like a high priest (see Ex. 28:4).
- 1:14 The white appearance is parallel to the description of the "Ancient of Days" in Dan. 7:9 and of Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration (see Matt. 17:2). The similar descriptions demonstrate the purity and eternality of both God the Father and God the Son. Additionally, overcoming believers will be "clothed in white garments" (3:5; 19:8) in Christ's presence, symbolizing purity. Christ's eyes like . . . fire indicate His righteousness, as well as His judgment of everything impure (see Dan. 10:6; 1 Cor. 3:13).
- 1:15 His feet of fine brass may speak of respect or power, as well as His treading everything underfoot (see 1 Cor. 15:25).
- 1:16 The seven stars are "the angels of the seven churches," according to v. 20. These probably are literal angels, since it would be unlikely to interpret one symbol by using another. A sharp two-edged sword was a fierce long sword. This sword, coming out of Christ's mouth, is symbolic of the judging power of the Word of God (see Is. 49:2; Heb. 4:12).

(Gk. thanatos) (1:17, 18; Heb. 2:14, 15) Strong's #2288

The Bible speaks of death in a threefold way: physical, spiritual, and eternal. The ancient Hebrews regarded physical death as entrance into Sheol, where they were cut off from everything dear in life, including God and loved ones. Because “all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God” (Rom. 3:23), all people are spiritually dead—separated from God who is the Source of spiritual life (Luke 15:32; Eph. 2:1–3; Col. 2:13). The Bible also speaks of “the second death” (2:11), which is eternal death, the everlasting separation of the lost from God in hell (20:14; 21:8). In His resurrection, Jesus conquered death—physical, spiritual, and eternal. Through fear of death, people are subject to bondage (Heb. 2:15); but “our Savior Jesus Christ . . . has abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel” (2 Tim. 1:10).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 1:18 When Christ speaks of Himself as He who lives, and was dead, and is alive forevermore, He is referring to His eternal existence, His becoming a man and dying on the Cross, and His glorified resurrection state. The keys of Hades and of Death describes Christ's authority over those who have died physically and over their present resting place, which will be emptied and destroyed at the time of the great white throne judgment (20:11–15).
- 1:19 The phrase write the things which you have seen expands and clarifies Christ's earlier command, “What you see, write” (v. 11). “The things which you have seen” apparently refers to the vision of vv. 10–18. The things which are, and the things which will take place after this may refer to the present state of the churches in Asia (chs. 2; 3), followed by the visions of the future (chs. 4–22). The use of after this in combination with the vision of “One like the Son of Man” (v. 13) is an echo of Dan. 2:29, 45.
- 1:20 The angels of the seven churches have sometimes been understood to be human messengers or ministers. The normal NT meaning of the word angel, as in Revelation (v. 1; 5:2), is of spirit beings, who minister to believers (see Heb. 1:14). It is not unreasonable to view angels as having authority over and responsibility for churches in the present age. This situation will be reversed in the kingdom of God: Believers will judge angels (see 1 Cor. 6:2, 3). The seven churches have the glorified Son of Man in their midst (vv. 12, 13), recalling Christ's promise that “where two or three are gathered together in My name, I am there in the midst of them” (Matt. 18:20).
- 2:1–3:22 The seven letters are, with minor exceptions, organized in the following general pattern: (1) a description of Christ derived from the vision of ch. 1; (2) a commendation of the congregation; (3) a rebuke for spiritual deficiencies; (4) a correction for what is wrong; and (5) a promise to overcomers. The seven churches were congregations in Asia Minor in John's day. Sometimes they are interpreted as representing seven stages of church history. But this interpretation is unlikely, since there is disagreement among interpreters about what part of Revelation represents which period in history. More likely, these seven assemblies are examples of the kind of churches that exist throughout history (2:7). This means that all seven letters are warnings to every church in every age (see 2:7).

2:1 The angel of the church is either its guardian angel (see Heb. 1:14) in spiritual warfare (see Dan. 10:13) or some human leader. Ephesus was the most important city in Asia Minor when Revelation was written. It was the center of the worship of Artemis (or Diana; see Acts 19:28), the goddess of fertility. It was a strategic commercial center and a great seaport. These were some of the reasons the apostle Paul invested nearly three years in establishing the church in Ephesus and the cities of the surrounding province (see Acts 19:10; 20:31).

The Seven Churches of Revelation

Go to the List of In-Text Maps

- 2:2 I know your works is a phrase that appears in each letter (vv. 9, 13, 19; 3:1, 8, 15), as a statement of recognition from the omniscient, omnipresent Judge.
- 2:4 The first love of the church may mean first in point of time, or first in importance. The greatest commandment is to “love the Lord your God” (Matt. 22:37, 38). Leaving the first love means a great diminishing of the church’s initial love, or a turning away from the love of the Lord.
- 2:5 Remember . . . from where you have fallen speaks of a considerable drop-off of love (v. 4) in the Ephesian church. A generation earlier the same church was commended for love (see Eph. 1:15, 16; 6:24), although it was also strongly commanded to grow in love (see Eph. 4:2, 15, 16). Repent means to change one’s thinking. It is clearly connected with changed behavior, as seen in the phrase and do the first works. The Ephesian Christians were to regain the lifestyle that they had before they departed from their first love (v. 4). To remove your lampstand would be to judge the church quickly or immediately.
- 2:6 Even if the Ephesian church did not love as it should have (v. 4), at least the Lord could positively say, you hate the deeds of the Nicolaitans. The Nicolaitans were a heretical group that troubled the churches at Ephesus and Pergamos (v. 15). Apparently their teaching and practice were immoral, perhaps even idolatrous (v. 14). Some church fathers connected this sect with Nicolas, one of the seven elected leaders in the Jerusalem church in Acts 6:5.
- 2:7 He who has an ear, let him hear is reminiscent of Jesus’ warnings to His hearers after giving the parable of the sower (see Matt. 13:9). When the Spirit of God speaks to the churches, it is to represent Christ (v. 2), for He is the Spirit of Christ (see Gal. 4:6) who guides believers into all truth, and does not speak on His own authority (see John 16:13). The one who overcomes is the believer who perseveres in obedience and is victorious in the face of trials. There are three main views about the nature of the overcomer in vv. 7, 11, 17, 26; 3:5, 12, 21. The first view is that believers are overcomers; failure to overcome means that there was no true salvation in that person’s case. The second view holds that the promises are experienced only by those believers who are faithful and obedient; failure to overcome means there has been a loss of salvation. The third view is that the promises are experienced only by believers who are faithful and obedient; failure to overcome means a loss of rewards, not salvation (see 1 Cor. 3:15). None of these is without difficulties, but the correct interpretation would be the one that most consistently handles the details of all seven “overcomer” passages. This means the last view is most likely. John is telling the Ephesian believers that they have spiritual obstacles to overcome. The problem in the church at Ephesus was a lack of fervent love for Christ. The church is commanded to “repent and do the first works” (v. 5), which suggests a lapse in Christian living. The reward for those who obey is the promise that they will eat of the tree of life— a promise of special intimacy with the Lord, a promise of renewing the fellowship lost before the Fall (see 22:14; Gen. 2:9; 3:22, 24; Prov. 11:30). The privileged access once denied Adam (see Gen. 3:24) will be enjoyed by the overcomer. Paradise is the place Jesus told the believing thief he would go to after his death on a cross (see Luke 23:43). Paul uses the term interchangeably with “the third heaven” in 2 Cor. 12:2, 4.
- 2:8 Smyrna was an important seaport 35 miles north of Ephesus. The presence of a Roman imperial cult and a large Jewish population made life difficult for believers in Smyrna. However, the churches of Smyrna and Philadelphia are the only two of the seven not rebuked by Christ in some way.
- 2:9 Although there will yet be great tribulation (7:14) unparalleled in world history (see Matt. 24:21), believers must expect to suffer much tribulation even in the present age (see Acts 14:22). Christians hindered by poverty in this life can take consolation in the fact that they possess great spiritual riches in Christ (see Eph. 1:18). Those who say they are Jews and are not are either

Jewish proselytes or Jews who refuse to believe the scriptural proof that Jesus is the promised Messiah (see Rom. 2:28, 29). Calling these Jews a synagogue of Satan probably indicates that they were persecuting the believers.

2:10 You will have tribulation ten days has been understood as ten short outbreaks of persecution during the NT era, but more likely it means suffering for ten actual days, or one brief period. The crown of life may be the “victory wreath” of the martyr, following the normal Greek use of crown for the garland given to winners in athletic events. James 1:12 also promises the crown of life to believers who persevere under trial. Such perseverance will result in the ultimate enjoyment of life in God’s kingdom.

2:11 He who overcomes by faith (see 1 John 5:4, 5) need not fear the unending torment of the unbeliever in the lake of fire, the second death (20:14). Some understand this statement to imply that those believers who do not overcome will be harmed by the lake of fire in the sense that when their works are tried by fire (see 1 Cor. 3:11–15) they will suffer loss of reward. However, this promise is best understood as a figure of speech where the positive idea is stated by negating its opposite. The second death refers to the experience of eternal death in the lake of fire (20:14, 15). No believer will experience the second death; the overcomer will suffer no loss whatsoever. The believer who is faithful to death is promised the crown of life, a wonderful experience of life in the hereafter. Thus there is not only deliverance from the second death, but an experience of life to a rich degree (see John 10:10).

2:12 Pergamos, the ancient capital of the province of Asia, was said to be the place where parchment was first used. Pergamos means “Citadel” in Greek. It was located 50 miles north of Smyrna and was situated on a high hill dominating the valley below. The sharp two-edged sword is the powerful word of Christ’s mouth (see 1:16; Heb. 4:12).

2:13 Satan’s throne implies that Satan’s authority and power were honored either openly or in effect. Antipas (not Herod Antipas) had already suffered martyrdom, thus receiving the promised “crown of life.”

2:14 The doctrine of Balaam is explained from its background in the OT (see Num. 22-25; 31). Balak hired Balaam to turn the hearts of Israel away from the Lord. Apparently, similar seduction was taking place in the church at Pergamos, especially in regard to idols and sexual immorality (see Acts 15:20).

2:15 The doctrine of the Nicolaitans, already seen in the church at Ephesus (v. 6), was apparently similar to that of Balaam (v. 14).

2:17 The person who overcomes by faith amidst terrible circumstances (vv. 13–15) will receive hidden manna to eat. The hidden manna, white stone, and new name are all prospective rewards for faithfulness to God. The hidden manna recalls the food from heaven that sustained Israel in the wilderness (see Ex. 16:4, 14, 15, 31), a portion of which was placed inside the ark as a memorial (see Ex. 16:32, 33; Heb. 9:4). Believers in Pergamos were involved in pagan feasts, where they ate food sacrificed to idols and committed sexual immorality (v. 14). The promise, then, is for those who refuse to compromise and partake of the feasts. For them there will be a better banquet in heaven. The hidden manna also suggests special intimacy with Christ (see Luke 14:7–11; 22:28–30). Overcomers are promised supernatural sustenance in the resurrected state to enable them to function effectively as co-rulers in Christ’s kingdom. In John’s day the white stone could signify acquittal from legal charges, but it seems best to relate this either to a custom in the Greek athletic games of giving a white stone to the victor in a contest, or to gladiators at the Roman games who had won the admiration of the public and had been allowed to retire from further combat. This symbol of victory over the enemies of God cannot be separated from a new name, which identifies the obedient believer in terms of his or her distinctive character.

2:18 Thyatira was a city with a large military detachment about 30 miles southeast of Pergamos. Recognized for its wool and dye industries, the city was also noted for its trade guilds. The description of Christ as having eyes like a flame and feet like fine brass virtually repeats the wording of Dan. 10:6.

2:20 Whether Jezebel is an actual name or a nickname, this woman's wicked actions parallel Queen Jezebel's in 1 Kin. 16; 2 Kin. 9. Sexual immorality and things sacrificed to idols link the activities of Jezebel to the sins in Pergamos (v. 14).

2:22 A sickbed is where a believer involved in prolonged, unconfessed sin may end up. The next step of God's discipline is death (see 1 Cor. 11:30). Sin can bring great tribulation into an individual believer's life, although this is not the great tribulation that will come upon the world prior to Christ's return (7:14).

2:24 The depths of Satan may be the secrets known by those initiated into the things of the devil. There was considerable satanic influence in Asia Minor in John's day (vv. 9, 13; 3:9). Contrast the depths of Satan with "the deep things of God" (see 1 Cor. 2:10).

2:26, 27 Note that he who overcomes is further identified as the one who keeps My works until the end. To this faithful believer Christ promises the privilege of ruling and reigning with His kingdom and sharing in His royal splendor (see Luke 16:11; 19:17–19; Rom. 8:17; 2 Tim. 2:12). While all believers share the glory of Christ by being glorified with Him, it seems that not all believers will share His royal splendor with the accompanying privilege of reigning with Him. The words power over the nations and the quote from Ps. 2:9, which prophecies the Messiah's all-powerful role, link overcoming believers with the earthly rule of Christ in 20:4, 6. Only those believers who are overcomers and who persevere in obedience to the end of life have the promise of being coheirs with Christ. He will share His sovereignty with messianic partners who have proven their trustworthiness in this life by doing the will of God to the end. This is the exalted destiny to which all believers should aspire.

2:28 The morning star is Christ Himself in 22:16. For the overcoming believer, Christ's presence is the light in the dark and difficult times before the dawn of the Son's coming. Moreover, morning star refers to the faithful believer's share in the glory or splendor of Christ. Christ gives every faithful believer the privilege of being like Him in royal splendor, to various degrees (see Dan. 12:3).

3:1 Sardis, located 30 miles southeast of Thyatira, had been the capital of Lydia. The worship of the Roman Caesar and of Artemis, goddess of fertility, were active here. The seven Spirits may be the Holy Spirit, or perhaps seven angels (1:4). The seven stars are "the angels of the seven churches" (1:20).

3:2 No one's works are completely perfect before God (see Rom. 3:23). Unbelievers, those whose names are not "written in the Book of Life" (20:15), will be judged solely according to their works (20:12, 13).

3:3 Christ's warning that He will come unexpectedly as a thief echoes His repeated emphasis in Matt. 24:36-25:13: Be alert and ready for My coming (16:15).

3:4 Those who have not defiled their garments are those who have remained faithful to Christ. Unlike some of the believers, they have had victory over sin and have demonstrated a practical righteousness. The Lord promises those who have not defiled their garments that they will walk with Him in white, for they are worthy. This image probably describes righteous acts, not the imputed righteousness of Christ (19:8).

3:5 The white garments probably symbolize the Lord's recognition of godly character and faithful service in this life (v. 4; 6:11; 19:7, 8). White is the color of the garments the redeemed will wear in the Lord's presence (7:13, 14). The Book of Life is the list of the eternally redeemed (20:12, 15). To not blot out is a figure of speech, affirming a positive by negating its opposite. Thus it means "I will include their names." Blot out likely alludes to Ex. 32:32, 33, where God says He will blot out sinner, but not faithful ones like Moses, from His Book. Christ will make sure the faithful believer's name and works are not erased, but remembered and honored. Confess his name before My Father and before His angels: The text does not state that any believer will have his name blotted out of the Book of Life (see Luke 10:20). Rather, the faithful believer will be resoundingly confessed before the saints, the angels, and the Father by the Son (see Matt. 10:32, 33; 2 Tim. 2:12). To have the Lord publicly confess one's name is to have the Lord's approval of one's character and service (see Matt. 10:32, 33; 1 Tim. 2:12, 13).

3:7 Philadelphia, which means "Brotherly Love" in Greek, was a small city located about 40 miles southeast of Sardis. Its location, vineyards, and wine production made it wealthy and commercially important. The key of David represents authority as the One who opens and shuts the door in the Davidic kingdom (see Is. 22:22), a prerogative that is Christ's as the rightful "Son of David" (see Matt. 1:1).

3:8 The door that no one can shut seems, in this context, to be entrance into heaven and "the New Jerusalem" (vv. 12, 21, 22). It is possible that the open door is also an opening for witness or service (see Col. 4:3). Despite their having little strength, the believers at Philadelphia had obediently kept Christ's word (see 1:3; Matt. 28:20) and had not denied His name.

3:9 Those in Philadelphia who ultimately belonged to Satan, though they claimed to be Jews outwardly (see Rom. 2:28, 29), would ultimately be forced to worship before the church and to acknowledge that Christ has loved His own (20:4, 6).

3:10 Christ's promise to keep the believers from the hour of trial is most likely a promise that He will remove them before the period of unparalleled tribulation. However, some take this promise to mean that believers will not be removed but rather protected, during the trial. The hour of trial is another way of referring to the unparalleled judgment of "the great tribulation" (7:14) predicted in Dan. 12:1; Matt. 24:21.

3:11 The Christian must always be ready for Jesus' coming (3:3). Christ's return with expected suddenness is an incentive to persevere in faithful service. Through misconduct one can lose a crown that had been previously attained (see 2 John 8). The crown signifies the royal authority given to the victorious coheirs of Christ. The judgment seat of Christ will be an occasion of either reward or regret (2 Cor. 5:10).

3:12 Christ promises that the faithful believer will be a pillar, the most stable and permanent part of a building. To be a pillar in the temple implies a prominent place of service in Christ's kingdom (see Is. 22:23; Luke 19:16–19). He who overcomes: The overcomer is identified with the names of God (signifying His ownership); the city of My God, the New Jerusalem (citizenship in the heavenly city); and Christ's new name (the full revelation of His character). The latter also implies special intimacy (vv. 4, 21; 2:7, 17). The overcomer is associated with the ultimate rulers and the governing center of the universe throughout all eternity (21:9–22:21).

3:13 He who has an ear, let him hear: Openness to the truths of the Word of God is a necessity for understanding the special destiny of the overcoming Christian.

3:14 Laodicea was 45 miles southeast of Philadelphia and 90 miles east of Ephesus. It was a wealthy city with thriving banks, a textile industry, and a medical school. The city was also known for its sparse water supply. All of these characteristics are played upon in Christ's message to the church (vv. 15–18). References to Christ as the Amen (meaning "The True One"), the Faithful and True Witness, and the Beginning (meaning "The First Place" or "The Ruler") of God's creation indicate that the lethargic Laodicean church (vv. 15–18) should pay close attention to His words. The phrase about creation has been interpreted by some to teach that Jesus is the first being that God created. This is certainly not required by Greek grammar, and is contrary to other biblical passages. Christ is described in other passages of the NT as eternal (see John 1:1–3) and as being God Himself (see John 8:58; Phil. 2:6; Titus 2:13). Revelation speaks of Him as the First and the Last, the Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and the End. In fact, the Greek phrase in this verse can be translated in a more active sense, so as to read "the One who begins the creation of God."

- 3:15, 16 Cold water is refreshing; hot water is useful for medical purposes. Lukewarm water is neither. By analogy, the works of the Laodicean church made Christ want to vomit the believers out of His mouth. In very vivid terms, the Lord rejects the halfhearted efforts of self-satisfied Christians.
- 3:17, 18 The Laodicean church was spiritually self-deluded. Because the church was wealthy it assumed that it had need of nothing, when in actuality it was spiritually impoverished. The church believed that because it had expensive garments it was well-clothed, when it was really spiritually naked. It believed that physical sight indicated the ability to see spiritually, when it was actually blind to spiritual realities. Fortunately, Christ provides spiritual gold, heavenly white garments (7:13, 14; 19:7, 8), and healing eye salve to all who repent (v. 19).
- 3:19 God's love for His children manifests itself in rebuke and chastening when they go astray (vv. 15–18). The intent of the Lord's discipline is for our "profit, that we may be partakers of His holiness" (Heb. 12:10). The proper response to God's loving discipline is to repent (to change our wrong outlook) and be zealous to move away from a dangerous, lukewarm spiritual state (vv. 15, 16). These believers needed to change their perspective and seek the spiritual riches of the ultimate Overcomer.
- 3:20 I stand at the door and knock pictures the Lord Jesus seeking entrance into His own church (v. 14) for the purpose of renewed fellowship. Though it is often understood as Christ knocking at the door of an individual unbeliever's heart, the context makes that improbable.
- 3:21 To him who overcomes: The promises to the faithful Christian reach a climax as the believer shares the actual throne with Christ. Those who share Christ's victorious experience on earth will have a victory similar to His. The victory of Christ led to His present position at the right hand of God in heaven, while the victory of believers leads to the privilege of sharing Christ's own earthly throne (see 2:26, 27; Luke 19:16–19; 2 Tim. 2:12). Jesus Christ overcame by humble obedience, even to the point of death (see Phil. 2:6–8). As a result, the Lord Jesus sat down . . . on His throne and will be highly exalted (see Phil. 2:9–11). Just as Christ overcame through faithful obedience, a believer today who overcomes by humble, obedient faith will sit with Christ on His throne (20:4, 6). God's purpose in the church is to raise up coheirs who will share Christ's authority in His kingdom. These coheirs must overcome as Christ did by persevering in the faith despite suffering (see Rom. 8:17; 2 Tim. 2:12).
- 4:1 This verse signals the beginning of a new section of the Book of Revelation, which reveals the terrifying events that will occur in the future. This is the main section of the Apocalypse, and it continues through 22:5. Come up here is also the command given to the two resurrected witnesses in 11:12. Some consider this command to refer to the Rapture of the church before "the great tribulation" (see 7:14; Matt. 24:21). However, it may be simply a phrase in apocalyptic style that introduces John's revelatory vision (v. 2).

Revelation as Apocalyptic Literature

The word revelation (1:1) is a translation of the Greek word apokalupsis, from which we get the English words apocalypse and apocalyptic. An apocalypse is a special kind of prophecy. It features what most people associate with prophetic works of all kinds—dramatic, symbolic predictions of the future communicated to a prophet in a vision. The Old Testament contains apocalyptic sections in Daniel, Ezekiel, and Zechariah, which were written around the sixth century B.C. Much of the Book of Revelation is apocalyptic.

Jewish apocalyptic literature outside the Bible flourished from the second century B.C. through at least the first century A.D. In most cases, these works were written to encourage and comfort the Jewish people, who were enduring the hardships of oppressive foreign rule. Some of these works are found in the Apocrypha and the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Because of its many symbols, apocalyptic prophecy is harder to interpret than any other kind of Scripture. Sometimes explicit interpretations (such as in 1:20) or an obvious reference to Old Testament imagery or visions interpreted in previous passages (such as in Dan. 7) give strong clues. In other cases, we must guess or infer the meaning. Revelation's four horsemen, the locusts, the dragon, and the beasts have all challenged commentators ever since John first wrote of them.

It helps to remember that like the nonbiblical apocalyptic literature of its day, Revelation's purpose is to comfort and challenge its readers. It affirms God's sovereign control over history and the certainty of His plan for the future. It reminds us that our present difficulties have a connection to the future, a future firmly in God's hands.

Though most of the Book of Revelation is apocalyptic, not all of it is. Revelation also contains straightforward prophecy (1:3) and seven letters of admonition (1:4). As prophecy, it focuses on our present duties and their relationship to the future. As a letter, it gives advice and encouragement to the believers at seven churches (1:4, 11; 2:1—3:22). In the final analysis, the Book of Revelation is a hybrid of apocalypse and prophecy written within the framework of an ancient Greek letter. The purpose of this letter is to inspire us to overcome all obstacles by steadfastly holding on to our faith (2:7, 17, 25, 26; 3:5, 11, 12, 21). The central message of the letter is clear: God is in control of all of history. He is coming back; and He will come in judgment, rewarding those who have remained faithful to Him (22:7, 12, 13, 20).

Go to the List of Articles

4:2 In the Spirit also described John's state of spiritual receptiveness in regard to the initial vision of this book (1:11–20), as well as later visions (17:3). The throne where God sits (3:21) dominates the heavenly scene before John, much as the glorified "Son of Man" dominated the prior vision (1:13–16).

4:3 The rainbow is reminiscent of God's covenant never again to judge the earth by a flood (see Gen. 9:8–17), perhaps implying that a different means of judgment was about to come upon the earth.

4:4 Twenty-four elders occupy other thrones. The identity of the elders is not certain. Some think that they represent the church or believers in heaven, but it seems preferable to view the elders as angels who comprise a heavenly ruling council (see Jer. 23:18, 22). These elders function as ruling priests in the present age. Michael, an angel, is identified as one of these chief princes (see Dan. 10:13; Col. 1:16). In contrast, the church is not prepared to rule until 19:7, 8. The white robes and crowns of gold point to those who are confirmed in righteousness and who possess ruling authority. The wearing of the crowns indicates that the elders had already been judged and rewarded.

4:5 Lightnings and thunderings reflect the awesome majesty of God and recall the divine authority to judge (6:1; 8:5; 11:19; 14:2; 16:18; 19:6). Seven Spirits of God as represented by seven lamps presents the fullness of the sevenfold character of the Holy Spirit (see Is. 11:2, 3). The seven lamps or torches signify the unique role of the Holy Spirit in executing judgment.

4:6 The four living creatures are strikingly similar to the cherubim (angels) Ezekiel saw close to God's throne (see Ezek. 10:1–20). Full of eyes means that these creatures see everything.

4:7 The lion, calf, man, and eagle have been understood as referring to the four Gospels with their distinctive portrayals of Christ. However, the description recalls the four cherubim in Ezek. 1:4–10, and thus the four figures probably represent four different angels (see Ezek. 10). These living creatures or angels seem to be associated with creation and its ultimate redemption.

4:8–11 Rest is a physical necessity of earthly life, but in heaven it is unnecessary. There is constant worship day and night. Holy, holy, holy recalls the similar heavenly scene in Is. 6:1–10. Was and is and is to come speaks of the eternal nature of God, past, present, and future. The elders cast their crowns before the throne, symbolizing the willing surrender of their authority in light of the worthiness of God as Creator. Because no one but God can create, He alone should be worshiped and recognized as sovereign.

5:1 A scroll . . . sealed with seven seals cannot be read until all the seals have been opened. The scroll apparently contains the judgments and redemption seen in later chapters. It may also be the scroll that was sealed in Dan. 12:4. There appears to be an allusion to the scroll the Lord handed Ezekiel in Ezek. 2:9, 10.

5:2–4 No creature in all of creation was found worthy to open the seals on the scroll in God's hand (v. 1).

5:5, 6 Here we see the consummation of God's twofold purpose in history: to reclaim His kingdom and to redeem His people. This twofold victory over Satan is first predicted in Gen. 3:15 and then covenanted to Abraham in the promise of a land and a Seed (see Gen. 12:1–3; Deut. 30:1–5; 2 Sam. 7:12–16).

5:5 The Lion of the tribe of Judah (see Gen. 49:8–10) and the Root of David (see Is. 11:1, 10) are messianic titles for Jesus Christ. Prevailed refers to the death and resurrection of Christ on behalf of those who would be redeemed (v. 9).

5:6 The Lamb that had been slain is Christ, whom John the Baptist called "the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). In the Bible, horns stand for power, strength, and the authority to rule (see Dan. 7:8, 20, 24).

seven Spirits

(Gk. hepta pneumatata) (1:4; 3:1; 4:5; 5:6) Strong's #2033; 4151

This term connotes the “sevenfold Spirit.” Since the number seven represents completeness, this description of the divine Spirit depicts the sevenfold energy of the Holy Spirit, His perfect, complete, and universal energy. The term sevenfold probably corresponds to the earlier reference to the seven churches. The Spirit of God is one in His essence but numerous in His gracious influences. The origin of this expression could have been a popular interpretation of Is. 11:1, 2 in the Greek OT, which was taken as a reference to the sevenfold spiritual blessings.

- 5:7 The reception of the scroll from the Father demonstrates that judgment and authority over the earth is committed to the Son (see Dan. 7:13, 14). The scroll is likely the same one sealed by Daniel (see Dan. 12:9).
- 5:8 The prayers of the saints (believers) play an important role in the Lamb's opening of the scroll and the ensuing judgment (8:1–6). Golden bowls are also used to pour out God's wrath on the earth (see 15:7; 16:1–21).
- 5:9 The new song celebrates the redemptive work of the Son as the basis of His right to judge. Divine rule has its basis in creation (ch. 4) and redemption.
- 5:13, 14 Blessing and honor and glory and power: From the vantage point of heaven, these verses look forward to the climactic point when “every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord” (Phil. 2:11).
- 6:1–8:1 This section details the opening of the seven seals on the scroll by the Lamb who was found worthy. The scroll cannot be opened and read until all the seals have been broken. Therefore, the narrative of 6:1–8:1 apparently represents events prior to the outpouring of God's judgment contained in the scroll. The unsealing of the scroll follows the general pattern of the signs called “the beginning of sorrows” (see Matt. 24:8) in the Olivet Discourse (see Matt. 24:1–31). Some think that a number of these events have already taken place or will take place before the tribulation begins. Others think this section describes the beginning of the tribulation period.
- 6:2 Because the first rider is on a white horse and is conquering, some take it to be Christ (19:11). If so, His full conquest is considerably delayed (19:11–20:6). Other widely held views are that this is the Antichrist, or a spirit of conquest and delusion (see Matt. 24:3–6). The bow indicates that the rider is a warrior. The crown suggests that he is a ruler.
- 6:4 The red color of the second horse stands for bloodshed, and killing with the sword, for war instead of peace on earth (see Matt. 24:6, 7).
- 6:5, 6 The black horse apparently symbolizes famine, since the prices for the wheat and barley are extraordinarily high, as they would be in a time of extreme drought.
- 6:8 Pale, which means literally “yellowish-green,” is the color of a corpse. Thus it is fitting that the pale horse is ridden by a figure named Death. Hades follows after Death to claim those who have died. This fourth judgment is the inevitable consequence of the first three. Up to this point, these three are characterized as the sword, famine, and pestilence. They are the same means that God used to bring the nation of Israel to repentance (see 1 Kin. 8:33–39; 1 Chr. 21:12), and in Revelation a godly nucleus does arise as a result of these judgments (7:3–8).

Hades

(Gk. hadēs) (6:8; 20:13, 14; Luke 16:23; Acts 2:27, 31) Strong's #86

The Greek term means “the place of the unseen.” It designates the invisible world of the dead, as does the Hebrew word sheol. All people who die go to Hades because all pass from the visible world to the invisible. The association between Death and Hades is therefore a natural one. Unfortunately, this word has often been associated with hell, a place of eternal punishment. But there is a different Greek word for hell; it is gehenna (see Mark 9:43–45). We cannot avoid Hades, but we can avoid hell, by believing in Jesus and receiving eternal life.

- 6:9, 10 The fifth seal focuses on martyrs slain for standing for the word of God and Christ's testimony, the very reasons John was exiled to Patmos (1:9). These martyrs' souls are under the altar because sacrificial blood was poured beside the base of the altar in the temple (see Ex. 29:12). The martyrs are impatient for the Lord to avenge their blood and to judge all those who are not among His redeemed (5:9). This vengeance will not be carried out completely until 19:2.
- 6:11 Each martyr is given the white robe of the overcomer (3:5) and told to rest . . . until God's appointed time. "Vengeance is mine," says the Lord (see Deut. 32:35; Rom. 12:19); it will come in His perfect timing.
- 6:12, 13 A great earthquake also occurs in 11:13; 16:18. The effects on the sun, moon, and stars are worded similarly to Matt. 24:29, placing these events in proximity to the coming of the Son of Man (see Matt. 24:30). Late figs appeared in the winter, the off-season, and were easily blown off the tree.
- 6:14 The description of the sky . . . rolled up could be related to the effects on the sun, moon, and stars (vv. 12, 13). It may also be describing the scene of the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven (see Matt. 24:30). The moving of every mountain and island would cause seismic damage in excess of any recorded earthquake.
- 6:15–17 Wrath means "anger." God's wrath is presently revealed against unbelievers by letting them go their way and face the consequences of their behavior (see Rom. 1:18–32). However, the great day of His wrath (see Rom. 2:5) is still to come. Has come may mean "has taken place" or "has begun." Who is able to stand is answered in the surrounding context. Unbelievers, no matter how strong, cannot stand. Those protected by the Lord are enabled to stand, whether on earth (7:1–8) or in God's presence in heaven (7:9–17).
- 7:1 There are two visions in this chapter: the 144,000 servants of God (vv. 1–8) and the innumerable multitude now in heaven (vv. 9–17). The four angels seem to be God's divine agents associated with the judgments. The four winds represent destructive forces from every direction.
- 7:2, 3 Before the judgments are unleashed, God prepares to seal 144,000 of His servants on their foreheads. Seals are signs of ownership or authority that in ancient times were stamped onto a document by pressing a signet or cylinder into a lump of clay at the point where the document was opened and closed.

- 7:4 One hundred and forty-four thousand may be taken either as an actual number or as a number symbolizing completeness (12 x 12 x 1000), referring to all who will be saved. The first option is more likely because of the details developed in vv. 5–8. The children of Israel is understood by some as the church, the new Israel (see Gal. 6:16), and by others as the nation of Israel.
- 7:5–8 Judah is placed first in this list of the Israelite tribes because Christ, the Messiah, is the “Lion of the tribe of Judah” (see 5:5; Gen. 49:8–10). Reuben is next as Jacob’s firstborn (see Gen. 49:3, 4). Dan and Ephraim are omitted, perhaps because of their gross idolatry during the period of the judges, demonstrated by the incident in Dan (see Judg. 18). Joseph and his son Manasseh are both included, as is Levi, bringing the number of tribes to twelve.
- 7:9, 10 The great multitude, in addition to praising God and the Lamb for providing salvation, will later glorify God for judging Babylon (19:1–3) and will proclaim “the marriage of the Lamb” (19:6, 7). White robes may be the garments of overcoming believers (3:5, 18) or of martyrs (6:11). Palm branches were typically waved by crowds at victory celebrations (see John 12:13).
- 7:14 This vast multitude has come out of the great tribulation, referring to “the hour of trial which shall come upon the whole world” (3:10). In view of the great loss of life during this time period, martyrdom is most likely the means of their escape. Tribulation was already being experienced by the church in John’s day (see 2:10; Acts 14:22). However, the great tribulation, predicted in Dan. 12:1, will be of an intensity “such as has not been since the beginning of the world until this time, no, nor ever shall be” (Matt. 24:21). Washed their robes . . . in the blood of the Lamb may imply martyrdom, but it more likely refers to forgiveness of sins through faith in Christ and His shed blood (1:5; 5:9).

Interpreting Revelation

Interpreting Revelation has caused much debate, and at least four standard methods for interpreting the book have developed. Preterists view the book as referring almost exclusively to first-century events. Historicists view the book as referring to the unfolding of church history until Christ’s second coming. Idealists see the book as symbolizing the eternal conflict between good and evil. Futurists see the book as mainly about the end times. Sometimes interpreters blend two or more of these approaches.

Furthermore, the “thousand years” of 20:2–6 has been the basis of three different views of the millennium (the Latin word for “thousand years”). The amillennial (no millennium) interpretation sees Christ as ruling spiritually in the church now; Satan has been bound or at least hindered during this present church era. According to this view, there will be no literal thousand-year reign; instead, Christ reigns through the church for an unknown number of years before He returns. The postmillennial (after the millennium) interpretation understands that by the spread of the gospel the world will become progressively more Christian. When the world becomes completely Christian there will be a millennium, then Jesus will return in glory. The premillennial (before the millennium) view holds that Jesus Christ will return to earth to set up His visible kingdom. At that time Satan will be bound for a thousand years.

Those who accept the premillennial position take specific views on when Christ will remove believers from the earth before He returns (19:11–21). A comparison of the common symbolism of Daniel and Revelation, as well as time references in Daniel 7:25; 9:27; 12:7 along with those in Revelation 11:2, 3; 12:6, 14; 13:5, seem to indicate that a seven-year period (see Dan. 9:24–27), often called the Tribulation, will precede Christ’s return. Five different views have tried to explain the timing between the Rapture of the church and the Tribulation. (The word rapture comes from the Latin translation of “caught up” in 1 Thess. 4:17.) Pretribulationists expect the Rapture to take place before seven years of tribulation. Midtribulationists say the Rapture will occur midway through the seven-year period. The posttribulation view states that the church will go through the Tribulation, but will be removed at the time of Christ’s second coming. The prewrath view places the Rapture between the mid- and posttribulational points, before the climactic wrath of God.

Each of these positions depends on a different view of how the text of Revelation should be interpreted. It is a good idea to keep this in mind whenever you try to understand a position or talk about it with others. The central idea on which all these views agree is that Christ will return some time in the future, and that His return will be a welcome sight to His people. Our hope and prayer is the same as the apostle John’s: “Come, Lord Jesus!” (22:20).

In Revelation there is a lot of symbolic language, and it can be difficult to interpret. However, all major biblical interpretations agree that Christ will return some time in the future!

7:15 The great multitude (v. 9) will serve the Lamb day and night. The 144,000 are later described as “the ones who follow the Lamb wherever He goes” (14:4). To serve indicates priestly service before the Lord (1:6; 5:10). The priesthood of Christians will enter a new phase in the presence of God in heaven. Temple actually refers to the inner sanctuary of the temple rather than the outer courts (11:19). The word translated dwell means “to live in a tent” or “to tabernacle.” This verse echoes John 1:14. Believers who did not see Christ when He lived on this earth in His first coming will go to heaven, where He will dwell among them.

7:17 Shepherd them and lead them to living fountains of waters recalls Ps. 23. The Lord who is the Shepherd in Ps. 23:1 is equated here with the Lamb. Both King David and the great multitude (v. 9) will “dwell in the house of the LORD forever” (Ps. 23:6), with Christ as their pastor. The “living” waters explain why there is no thirst (see v. 16). The water of life is freely available to all who will come to Christ by faith (22:17). God will wipe away every tear means that there will be no crying, sorrow, or pain in the presence of the Lord.

8:1 The seventh seal on the scroll (5:1) is opened, finally allowing it to be unrolled. Silence in heaven for about half an hour seems to mark a brief but significant break between the unsealing of the scroll (6:1–8:1) and the trumpet judgments (8:6–11:19). This silence is broken only by a heavenly offering and “the prayers of all the saints” (vv. 3, 4). It is, however, the eerie silence before the storm as all of heaven awaits the coming judgment.

8:2 The judgments of the seven trumpets unfold in a pattern parallel to the unsealing of the seven-sealed scroll (6:1-8:1). This has led some to conclude that both describe the same time period from different angles, but greatly increased severity of the trumpet judgments makes this unlikely. The sounding of a trumpet had more than one significance in the OT. It was used to gather the Lord’s people (see Num. 10:7, 8), to assemble the Lord’s army (see Num. 10:9), to announce a new king (see 1 Kin. 1:34–39), and to proclaim the Year of Jubilee (see Lev. 25:9). In this context, the sounding of trumpets indicates a declaration of war.

8:2–5 The seven angels who stand before God are likely “the angels of the seven churches” (1:20). The prayers of God’s saints seem to have a part in the judgment of God. The censer is a firepan used for burning incense. The golden altar reflects the splendor of the heavenly throne room (4:2, 3). Incense here may speak of the fragrance of the infinite perfections of Christ that accompanies the prayers of all the saints or is mingled with their prayers. The addition of this incense is necessary to make our prayers acceptable before the throne. In breaking the silence in heaven (v. 1), the prayers of God’s people for God to act in just judgment (6:10) are heard and responded to with noises, thunderings, lightnings, and an earthquake.

8:7–12 As in the sequence of the first four seals, the angels sound the first four trumpets in rapid succession. But the effects of the trumpet judgments on earth are far more devastating than the seal judgments. A third of all trees and grass; a third of the sea, the living creatures in the sea, and the ships on the sea; a third of all rivers and springs of water; and apparently a third of all daylight and moonlight are affected by the trumpet judgments. The first four judgments seem designed to reverse in part the original creation of God. The Lord initially assaults the environment. Food is destroyed; distribution of goods is crippled; water supply is severely limited; production is cut drastically.

8:7 When the first angel sounds the trumpet, a storm of hail, fire, and blood breaks forth. This incredible blend of destruction and horror sounds like a combination of the imagery of the first (see Ex. 7:19, 20) and seventh (see Ex. 9:22–25) plagues of God upon Egypt. A third here could be figurative for widespread, but not yet complete, destruction.

8:8, 9 A great mountain burning suggests a massive island volcano erupting explosively over a far-flung section of ocean waters. The description of the effects on the sea, however, indicates that this is much more than windblown pollution from volcanic ash. The sea becoming blood and the creatures in the sea dying are like an extension of the first plague on the Egyptians, the turning of the waters of the Nile River into blood (see Ex. 7:17–21).

8:10 Star here translates the same term used for the angelic star in 9:1 and for Christ as “the Bright and Morning Star” in 22:16. But the precise meaning of each word must be carefully interpreted in its context. Here the star seems to be a huge asteroid that falls from heaven to earth, burning like a torch as it enters the atmosphere. The star could fall on a third of the rivers and . . . springs by disintegrating as it passes through the earth’s atmosphere. It is also possible that the pollution of the headwaters of a number of the world’s major rivers and underground water sources could rapidly spread to a third of the planet’s waters.

8:11 Wormwood is a plant found in the Middle East, known for its bitter taste. Here and elsewhere (see Lam. 3:19) the term is figurative for bitterness. Normally wormwood is not poisonous, but the plague of the third trumpet involves effects far more potent than the taste of this bitter plant: many men die from the water. Rapid pollution of a third of the world’s drinking water would set off a chaotic crisis.

8:12 Reference to darkening the sun, moon, and stars is reminiscent of the ninth plague upon Egypt (see Ex. 10:21, 22), and of the heavenly disturbances involved in Christ’s description of His second coming (see Matt. 24:29, 30). It is also similar to the phenomena of the sixth seal (6:12). A third of the day did not shine could mean that the sun, moon, and stars will not be seen for several hours of the normal cycle of day and night. But probably what is meant is that the intensity of light during the day and night is reduced by a third because of cosmic and atmospheric disturbances (vv. 7, 8, 10).

8:13 Woe, woe, woe refers to the impact of the three remaining . . . trumpet judgments on the unbelieving inhabitants of the earth. The first woe is the fifth trumpet (9:12); the second woe is the sixth trumpet (11:14). The third woe is said to be “coming quickly” and may be the same as the seventh trumpet (11:15–19), although that is not stated. If not, the final woe may be focused on Babylon, the great harlot, because of the climactic use of “woe” (translated alas in 18:10, 16, 19).

9:1 The star fallen . . . to the earth may be a demon (v. 11), Satan himself (12:9), or an angel serving God (20:1). The bottomless pit is the interim jail for some demons (see Luke 8:31). It is also the place of origin of the beast (11:7; 17:8). Furthermore, it will be the place where Satan will be imprisoned during Christ’s reign (20:2, 3).

9:3 Locusts, or grasshoppers, were greatly feared in ancient agricultural societies because they devoured crops. In Ex. 10:12–15, a plague of locusts wiped out what was left of Egypt’s crops. Joel 1:2 tells of an invasion of locusts that the Lord used to judge unrepentant Judah, which was a foreshadowing of the day of the Lord. Perhaps that passage is a basis of the imagery in vv. 2–10. Scorpions sting with their tails, causing great pain and even death (v. 10). The only point of comparison between the locusts and the scorpions is the “stings in their tails” (v. 10).

9:4 God controls the locusts’ actions, causing them to avoid those who have the seal of God (7:2–4). Since no harm is to be done to the grass or any tree—just unbelieving people who do not possess the seal of God—these insects are not ordinary locusts (vv. 7–10). A seal is placed on the 144,000 “of all the tribes of the children of Israel” (7:2–4) to protect them during “the great tribulation” (7:14).

9:5, 6 The torment apparently lasts five months because that is the life span of a locust. Many unbelieving men will seek death, but unsuccessfully. The passage does not say how their death wish is frustrated. However, this time period is an additional opportunity for these unbelievers to repent before the Lord (vv. 20, 21) and to be saved through Christ.

9:7 The phrase like horses prepared for battle may be further explained in v. 9 as “like breastplates of iron.” If so, this means the locusts have some sort of armor. Crowns . . . like gold may imply that the locusts have high status among the demons but still rank below their king, Abaddon or Apollyon (v. 11). faces of men: The locusts have some humanlike characteristics.

9:8 Hair like women’s may refer to the long antennae of insects. Teeth . . . like lions’ suggests strength and cruelty, a description similar to that of the beast in 13:2.

9:11 The angel of the bottomless pit is demonic and controls the demonic locusts (vv. 3–10). If this angel serves God, this is another instance where the activity of Satan or his demons is under the Lord’s sovereign control (see 2 Cor. 12:7, 9). The name of the angel in Hebrew as in Greek means “Destruction.”

9:12 The first woe spoken of in 8:13 is the demonic locust plague that comprises the fifth trumpet (vv. 1–11). This implies that the two remaining woes are the sixth (vv. 13–21; 11:14) and seventh trumpets (11:15–19).

9:13 The fact that John heard a voice instead of a symphony of the voices of all the martyrs (6:9, 10), and a voice of authority instead of an angel’s voice (8:3–5), indicates that the speaker is the Lamb who was slain and has redeemed His people (5:9).

9:14–16 The great river Euphrates is the eastern boundary of the land promised to Abraham and his descendants in Gen. 15:18, as well as the geographic area from which powerful enemies like Assyria and Babylon came to invade Israel (see Is. 8:5–8). It may represent the seat of Satan’s former victory (in the Garden of Eden). The release of the four angels at the exact hour and day is in keeping with apocalyptic literature’s portrayal of God’s sovereign control of the timing of His plan (see Dan. 9:24–27). The army of . . . two hundred million will kill a third of mankind, under the command or influence of the four angels who were released. A third of humankind could number in the billions. Coupled with the former destruction of one-fourth of humanity, over one-half of the world's population will have been killed. Some hold that a third here is merely a stylistic feature of the trumpet judgments (8:7–12). Note also that widespread killing had already visited a fourth of the earth during the opening of the fourth seal (6:8), and many died during the catastrophes of the first three trumpets (8:7–11), further reducing the world population.

9:17–19 Although it is the horsemen for whom the number of two hundred million is given (v. 16), the horses they ride and their killing power are primarily described. There are similarities between the horses of the sixth trumpet judgment and the locusts shaped “like horses” (v. 7) of the fifth trumpet. The mention of breastplates (vv. 9), the comparison with lions (vv. 8), and the power in their tails (vv. 5, 10) could suggest that these two passages offer different perspectives on the same demonically inspired force. This is unlikely, however, because the locusts are not given authority to kill (v. 5), but only to torment, while the horses kill a third of mankind.

9:20, 21 The rest of mankind who do not repent does not include those who “have the seal of God on their foreheads” (v. 4; 7:2–4). The unwillingness to repent despite the incredible devastation of the plagues is reminiscent of Pharaoh's attitude toward most of the plagues that came upon Egypt (see Ex. 7:22; 9:7). Repent here means to change one's mind about ungodly works, to stop trusting demons and idols and to turn to the Lord Jesus Christ in faith (see Luke 24:47; Acts 26:20).

10:1 This mighty angel could be the “strong angel” of 5:2 or the angel “having great authority” of 18:1. It is unlikely that this is Michael, who is referred to by name elsewhere (see 12:7; Dan. 12:1), or Christ, since He is never called an angel in the NT. Furthermore, unlike Christ, this angel comes to earth before the time of tribulation is over.

10:2 The little book is not the same as the scroll that was unsealed in 6:1–8:1. It is more likely the scroll eaten by Ezekiel (see Ezek. 2:9–3:3), although this scroll causes John's stomach to become bitter (vv. 9, 10), not just his spirit (see Ezek. 3:14). The angel standing with one foot on the sea and the other on the land conveys the image of taking possession. A majestic representative of God's throne is intervening in the affairs of the earth.

10:3, 4 The devil and his hordes present themselves as fierce lions (see 9:8, 17; 1 Pet. 5:8). The victorious lion of Judah (5:5) also has an angelic servant who roars like a lion. It cannot be known what the seven thunders uttered because a heavenly voice, perhaps Christ's, commanded John to seal up what he had heard (see Dan. 12:4, 9).

10:6 swore by Him who lives forever: Only by the all-powerful authority of the eternal Creator can the mighty angel (v. 1) make the declaration about how and when “the mystery of God would be finished” (v. 7). After the sounding of the seventh trumpet (11:15–19), there will be no more delay in the unfolding of events leading toward Christ's return (19:11–21).

10:7 The mystery of God, truth that has not been previously revealed (see Eph. 3:9), will be revealed and finished as the events of the final half of the Apocalypse develop. Significant aspects of this mystery have already been revealed through the OT and NT prophets, but much remains that will be understood only when the events take place.

10:8–11 As words of judgment, the book would make John's stomach bitter, in the same way that Ezekiel's spirit had become bitter (see Ezek. 3:14). The events of Ezek. 2; 3 occurred soon before God's judgment on Judah and Jerusalem and were in effect the prophet's commission. John may have sensed a similar commission here to prophesy his message of judgment to the world. John's prophecy about peoples, nations, tongues, and kings may refer specifically to the remainder of the second woe (11:1–14), since there is a focus on the testimony of the two witnesses. However, the use of similar expressions in 13:7; 14:6; and 17:15 implies that John's commission was to prophesy most or all of the Book of Revelation, a prophecy which speaks of all the events leading up to Christ's second coming (19:11–21).

11:1 John is given a reed like a measuring rod, much like that used by Ezekiel (see Ezek. 40:3, 5) in his vision of the measuring of the temple (see Ezek. 40–48). measure the temple . . . altar: This is the temple of the tribulation period that will eventually be desecrated (see 13:14, 15; Dan. 9:27; Luke 21:24; 2 Thess. 2:4). The measuring of those who worship there may mean that those who worship the Lord in the temple will be protected, while unbelieving Gentiles will not.

11:2 Luke 21:24 prophesies that the Gentiles will tread the holy city underfoot until “the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.” Apparently the period of forty-two months is the conclusion of “the times of the Gentiles.” Gentiles here may also be translated “nations” (v. 9; 10:11).

11:3 Forty-two months (v. 2) is the same length of time as one thousand two hundred . . . sixty days (12:6). Almost certainly “a time and times and half a time” (12:14) is also a period of three and a half years made up of 42 30-day lunar months. These expressions draw from the prophecies in Daniel (see Dan. 12:6, 7, 11, 12). The two witnesses will prophesy for 1260 days with astounding power (vv. 5, 6). Therefore, it seems that the beast’s period of domination (v. 7; 13:5) follows the ministry of the witnesses, each occupying roughly half the tribulation period. The two unnamed witnesses are striking similar to Elijah (see vv. 5, 6; 1 Kin. 17; Mal. 4:5) and Moses (see v. 6; Ex. 7–11), who appeared together with Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration (see Luke 9:29–32). It is also possible that these two witnesses symbolize all faithful believers testifying during the tribulation. Clothed in sackcloth means the witnesses are mourning for the unrepentant world to which they prophesy (see Matt. 11:21).

11:4 The witnesses are described as two olive trees and two lampstands, linking them to the vision in Zech. 4 of “the two anointed ones, who stand beside the Lord of the whole earth” (see Zech. 4:14). There the two anointed ones are Zerubbabel and Joshua the priest. But the overarching principle for these and all other witnesses for the Lord is that their testimony to the truth is “not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit” (Zech. 4:6).

11:6 The two witnesses have the authority to prevent rain during the days of their prophecy, identifying them with Elijah, whose prayer caused it not to rain for three and a half years (James 5:17). Turning the waters into blood (Ex. 7:17–21) and striking the earth with plagues (see Ex. 7–11) is reminiscent of Moses in Egypt.

11:7, 8 Finish translates the same word Jesus shouted climactically and triumphantly from the Cross: “It is finished” (John 19:30). The beast is allowed to kill the two witnesses in the same city where Jesus was put to death. The beast, who emerges as the satanically empowered world ruler in chs. 13; 17, emerges from the bottomless pit, as did the demonic locust plague of the fifth trumpet (9:1–10). The great city in Revelation is often Babylon (14:8), which possibly represents Rome (see 1 Pet. 5:13). But the further description where also our Lord was crucified seems to refer to Jerusalem. Some see the phrase as symbolic, meaning the sinful world in which Christ was crucified. Sodom was the prototype for the moral degeneration of this great city (see Gen. 19); Egypt was the prototype for its rampant idolatry.

11:9, 10 The peoples, tribes, tongues, and nations are those to whom the gospel witness must continue until “the end of the age” (see Matt. 28:19, 20). Those who dwell on the earth are those upon whom God’s judgment falls (6:10; 8:13). Being dead for three-and-a-half days recalls the three-and-a-half year ministry of the witnesses (v. 3). The death of the two prophets (v. 7) will set off a global celebration among unbelievers who have hated their message of truth.

11:13 In the same hour: Soon after the two witnesses ascend to heaven, a great earthquake (6:12) will destroy a tenth of the city, resulting in seven thousand casualties. Those who survive will be terrified and will glorify God.

11:14 The second woe includes the sixth trumpet (9:12–21) and a second interlude (10:1–11:13). The third woe is apparently the seventh trumpet (vv. 15–19), since it is said to be coming quickly, and since 8:13 relates the woes to the last three blasts of the trumpet. The final woe may extend further since the word woe recurs in 12:12.

11:15 Our Lord . . . shall reign forever anticipates the return of Christ (6:12–17; 19:11–21).

11:16–18 The twenty-four elders were previously seen as continually worshipping God (4:10, 11) and the Lord Jesus (5:8–10). Here their thanksgiving to the Lord God Almighty enters a new phase: they praise God’s power and wrath and the corresponding distribution of reward and judgment.

This stanza of heavenly thanks seems to reflect on the fulfillment of the great messianic prophecy in Ps. 2.

11:17 Reigned may refer to a present rule in heaven, or to the fact that Christ has already come to earth to subdue the nations (v. 18) by this point. It is also possible that this is a past tense of certainty, signifying a future event as good as done in God's plan for the world. For example in Rom. 8:30, the believer is said to be justified and already glorified (past tense), although glorification in fact takes place later, when the Christian comes into Jesus' presence.

the Almighty

(Gk. pantokratōr) (4:8; 11:17; 15:3; 16:7, 14; 19:6, 15; 21:22; 2 Cor. 6:18)

Strong's #3841

The Greek word means “one who has power over everything”—in other words, the One in total control. God commands all the hosts of powers in heaven and earth, and He is able to overcome all His foes. The title Almighty occurs often in Revelation as this book unveils God’s awesome control over all the universe and throughout all history.

- 11:18 Here God’s wrath has come (6:16, 17). The wrath of Satan will also be seen in 12:12, but the divine wrath cannot be rivaled (14:19). The time of the dead includes the bestowing of rewards upon God’s people, His servants, prophets, and saints (see 2 Cor. 5:10), and the pronouncement of everlasting judgment on the unbelieving nations (see Matt. 25:46). This is what the martyrs prayed for in 6:10; it is not completed until 20:12–15. Those who fear God’s name are those who have responded by faith to “the everlasting gospel” (14:6, 7), possibly including those who feared and glorified God in v. 13.
- 11:19 The temple of God here is not the one in vv. 1, 2. That earthly temple had an outer court “given to the Gentiles” (v. 2); this temple is in heaven. An ark of the covenant is spoken of here, even though the ark of the covenant made by Moses was probably destroyed by the Babylonians when they looted and burned the temple in Jerusalem (see 2 Chr. 36:18, 19). The ark represented God’s presence, leadership, and protection of Israel in the wilderness (see Num. 10:33–36) and in the Promised Land (see Josh. 3:3, 15–17). The ark here may represent similar blessings related to the New Covenant and Christ’s return (see Heb. 9:1, 4, 11, 23–28).
- 12:1 In Revelation a sign is a person or event that looks beyond itself to some greater significance. In John’s Gospel, each sign points to the divinity of Christ (see John 2:11). In Revelation, besides the additional great signs in heaven (v. 3; 15:1), there are demonic signs on earth (13:13, 14; 16:14; 19:20). The woman clothed with the sun is interpreted by some as the church, by others as believing Jews, and by still others as ethnic Israelites. The garland of twelve stars is a reference to the twelve tribes of Israel, or perhaps to the twelve apostles (see 21:12–14). The stars recall Joseph’s vision (Gen. 37:9–11), which signified the preeminence of Joseph over his brothers.
- 12:2 The description of labor and pain before giving birth to the Child who becomes ruler of the nations (v. 5) may speak specifically of Mary, the mother of Jesus (see Mic. 5:3; Luke 2:5–7). Later details (vv. 6, 13–17), however, suggest that the woman probably has a broader reference. Since similar imagery is used of Israel in Mic. 4:9, 10, it may picture the Jewish nation or the believing remnant within the nation. In addition, the first prophecy of the Bible, Gen. 3:15, serves as the ultimate backdrop to this struggle between a woman and Satan.
- 12:3 The sign of the fiery red dragon is interpreted in v. 9 as Satan, who first appears in Scripture as the serpent in the Garden of Eden (see Gen. 3). The imagery is in keeping with OT and extrabiblical usage (see Is. 27:1). The dragon with the seven heads and ten horns refers to Satan and the empire over which he rules during the course of time. Seven heads, ten horns, and seven diadems refer to Satan's (v. 9) brilliance, power, and glory as "god of this age" (2 Cor. 4:4). This description is almost identical to that of the beast from the sea in 13:1.

12:4 The reference to a third of the stars may link this event to the earlier trumpet judgments in which a third is the characteristic proportion of destruction (8:7), including a "third of the stars" (see 8:12). However, many understand this reference to speak of the rebellion of a third of the angelic host following Satan. The attempt of the dragon to devour the newborn Christ Child reveals that the strategy of Herod to kill the baby Jesus (see Matt. 2:3–16) was satanically inspired.

12:5 The male Child who will rule . . . with a rod of iron is the messianic figure of Ps. 2:8, 9; however, there is no earthly rule over all nations at this point. From the perspective of this heavenly scene, the Child-Ruler is soon caught up to the throne of God, apparently referring to the ascension of Christ (see Acts 1:9).

12:6 The wilderness here is a place of protection prepared by God (Hos. 2:14) for the woman. The reference to God's feeding the woman in the wilderness recalls the Lord's miraculous provision for Israel in the Sinai wilderness (see Ex. 16). One thousand two hundred and sixty days is the period of provision and protection for the woman in the wilderness. The detailed way in which this same length of time is expressed (see "a time and times and half a time" in v. 14) suggests half of a literal seven-year tribulation period (see Dan. 9:27).

12:7, 8 Michael is an archangel (see Jude 9). According to Dan. 12:1 he is a special guardian angel for the nation of Israel. Apparently he commands an army of angels. Michael and the heavenly forces are victorious, making heaven off-limits to Satan and his demons.

12:9 The devil's expulsion from heaven to the earth means that this world becomes his base of operations, and that his anger is vented toward the remaining inhabitants of the earth (v. 12). Thus it is likely that the end times will be the greatest period of spiritual warfare (see Eph. 6:10–18) in history.

Satan

(Gk. Satanas) (20:2, 7; Matt. 4:10; Rom. 16:20) Strong's #4567

The word diabolos signifies a slanderer, one who accuses another. Hence that other name given him: “the accuser of our brethren” (12:10). The name Satan signifies an adversary, one who lies in wait for or sets himself in opposition to another. These and other names of the same fallen spirit point to different features of his evil character and deceitful operations.

Go to the List of Word Studies

12:10, 11 The heavenly defeat of Satan (vv. 7–9) is followed by reference to his earthly setbacks, including the crucifixion of Christ (the blood of the Lamb), the verbal witness of believers (the word of their testimony), and the martyrdom of some of the brethren. All these events precede the coming of the kingdom of our God.

12:12 Those in the heavens have good reason to rejoice, because of the permanent expulsion of the devil. On the other hand, the natural creation (the earth and the sea) now has an additional woe (8:13; 9:12; 11:14) to contend with—the great anger of the devil, who knows his time is short. Soon Satan is to be bound in the bottomless pit for a thousand years (20:1–3).

12:14 The woman (vv. 1–6) is somehow brought to her place of protection from the serpent, the wilderness, as if carried on the wings of a great eagle. This is reminiscent of how Israel escaped the Egyptians and came to Mt. Sinai (see Ex. 19:4; Deut. 32:11, 12). A time probably equals one year, so the period of protection here is three and a half years, which corresponds to the length of the two witnesses’ testimony in 11:3. It is also equivalent to the period of the beast’s authority (see “forty-two months” in 13:5), which includes his ability “to make war with the saints and to overcome them” (see 13:7; see Dan. 7:25; 12:7).

12:15, 16 The danger of the flood to the woman is averted when the earth opens up, perhaps as it did to claim the rebellious Korah and his followers in Num. 16:30–33. There is no way of determining whether this describes an actual flood or figuratively describes the onslaught of Satan against those protected by God.

12:17 Enraged by his inability to destroy the woman, Satan, the dragon, resorts to war against a related group. The rest of her offspring are believers in Christ, since they keep the commandments of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ. It is not clear whether they are Jewish believers (physical offspring of the woman) or Gentile believers (spiritual offspring; see Gal. 3:29). In desperation, Satan opposes every trace of a biblically oriented faith in Christ.

13:1, 2 The description of the first beast (seven heads . . . ten horns . . . ten crowns) is very similar to that of the great dragon (that is, Satan) in 12:3. Whereas the crowns are on the heads of the dragon, they are on the horns of the sea beast. The seven-headed beast may refer to Gentile world power as it relates to Israel, especially in the end times. The heads are identified both as mountains and as rulers (17:9, 10). A mountain is typically a symbol for a kingdom (see Dan. 2:34, 35, 44, 45). The seven heads could be Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Greece, Persia, Rome, and a restored Roman Empire. The ten horns may signify the final form of Gentile world power. The beast receives his power and authority from the dragon. The parallel to the four beasts (especially the fourth) in Dan. 7 and the explanation of the beast given in 17:8–11 make it seem that the beast symbolizes both a revived Roman Empire, which exercises universal authority, and a specific ruler, whom John calls the “Antichrist” in 1 John 2:18. The blasphemous name may be the common claim of ancient Roman emperors to be divine, or blasphemy against the name of the true God (vv. 5, 6) as Daniel predicted of the willful “king” during the tribulation period (see Dan. 11:36).

God Restrains Evil

The presence of pain, suffering, and evil in the world causes some people to wonder whether a good God exists, and if He does, why He doesn’t put an end to it if He can. John’s vision of a beast rising up out of the sea (13:1) and causing great havoc in the world does not explain why there is evil, but it does sound an important note of encouragement: The evils of the world happen only by “permission” and those that do occur have precise limits imposed on them by God. Notice that the beast “was given authority to continue for forty-two months” (13:5, emphasis added).

Clearly, God has placed restraints on evil. We have not and will not experience the full onslaught of pain and suffering that could be delivered. This restraining work of God can be seen in several incidents in the Old Testament:

Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:22–24). After Adam and Eve sinned, God sent them out of the garden and sealed it off. According to Genesis, this was not a matter of retaliation by God but a protection from the possibility of eating from the tree of life and being separated from Him forever.

The Flood (Gen. 6:5–8). When evil had corrupted the entire world, God acted with “severe mercy” by sending the flood. This restricted evil and made possible a second start for the earth.

The Tower of Babel (Gen. 11:1–9). Again, widespread evil threatened to consume the creation. God intervened by confusing the languages of the peoples to limit their collusion in wickedness. This was a case of God preserving sinful humanity from itself.

Job (Job 1:6–2:10). Satan wanted to prove to God that Job’s faithfulness was merely the result of God blessing him. So God granted Satan limited permission to inflict suffering.

John was writing to believers to help them maintain a realistic view of good and evil in the midst of intense persecution. Today, as we watch televised reports of death and disaster around the world, and as we experience pain and suffering in our own families and among our neighbors and associates, we too need to maintain a godly perspective. God has placed limits on evil. The very fact that we have a distaste for it reflects that we do indeed bear God’s image as His creatures.

13:3, 4 One of his heads may stand for a specific ruler, but more likely it stands for an empire. The unbelieving world is enticed (12:9) by Satan to follow and worship the beast. Those who worshiped the beast also unwittingly worshiped the devil, who gave authority to the beast. Any false worship or idolatry is ultimately demonic and satanic (see 1 Cor. 10:20–22). The beast is worshiped because the world is convinced that no one is like him and that no one can successfully make war against him.

13:5, 7 Forty-two months is the duration of the beast’s worldwide supremacy, in keeping with the prophecy of Dan. 7:25.

- 13:6 This first use of the word tabernacle in Revelation (see also 15:5; 21:3) may look back to the time when the power and presence of God were undoubted because the glory of God was seen clearly in the wilderness tabernacle. It may also look ahead to the time when God's tabernacle will be among His people in the new heaven and earth (21:3). In the meantime, there is no visible answer to the beast's blasphemy. He will appear to be victorious over God's people.
- 13:8 The Book of Life is the register of those who will receive eternal life, in contrast to those destined for the lake of fire (20:12, 15). Just as it was God's plan before the world began that Jesus Christ, the Lamb of God, would be slain for humanity's sin, so the names of believers have been included in the Book of Life from the beginning (17:8).
- 13:9 If anyone has an ear, let him hear seems to imply that either the following saying (v. 10) or the wider context has significant present application, not just future reference. Therefore, widespread spiritual delusion and blasphemy, as well as persecution and martyrdom, should not surprise believers at any point in history.
- 13:10 Even when believers face captivity or are being killed, they can have patience and faith, knowing that God will vindicate them (see Rom. 12:19) on "the day of wrath and . . . righteous judgment" (Rom. 2:5).
- 13:11 Another means "another of the same kind," speaking of the close relationship between this beast from the earth and the previous beast that emerged from the sea (v. 1), even though their outward appearance is markedly different. This beast's actions described in vv. 12–17 make it virtually certain that he is the false prophet spoken of in 16:13; 19:20; 20:10. The two beasts may also symbolize the intermingling of secular, political power and religion during the Roman period and during the last days. This is the only place in Revelation where lamb does not refer to Christ. The lamb with two horns here is an emblem of Jewish worship and religious authority. Spoke like a dragon probably indicates that the second beast's message comes from the dragon (Satan), just as the first beast took his power and authority from the dragon (13:2).
- 13:12–15 Great signs, such as calling fire from heaven and giving breath and speech to the image of the first beast, are persuasive. These signs are very similar to those performed by the two witnesses (11:5, 6). The performance of great signs by the power of Satan is part of the mass deception prophesied by Paul in 2 Thess. 2:8, 9.
- 13:16, 17 The mark is equivalent to the name of the beast and the number of his name. Apparently the mark of the beast is some sort of identifiable proof of ownership and loyalty placed on the right hand or the forehead. Since there is no evidence of such a practice in first-century society, this mark is apparently an evil counterfeit of the seal on the foreheads of the servants of God in 7:3; 14:1.
- 13:18 After the preceding description of the tyranny of the beast, an explanatory comment designed to impart wisdom and understanding to the reader is given. The number (the "name" in v. 17) of the beast is 666; it is also described as the number of a man. The beast is merely a man, not a god, as the signs might suggest. The number 6, just short of 7 (the number of completeness), is intensified as 666—the number of the most powerful man who is not God. This man's identity will someday be understood in relation to the number 666. It is a key for identifying the Antichrist.
- 14:1 Mount Zion is a synonym for the earthly Jerusalem, focusing on the hill where the temple was built. There is some difficulty in deciding whether this is a reference to the earthly or to the heavenly Mt. Zion (see Heb. 12:22). The one hundred and forty-four thousand have God's name written on their foreheads, instead of the name of the beast (13:17). In 7:2–4 the protection for this group is referred to as a seal on their foreheads. This is intended to be a contrast to the mark of the beast (13:16, 17), or it may be a sign visible only in heaven and in the new earth and heaven (3:12; 22:4).
- 14:3 The new song is probably the one sung before God's throne in 5:9, 10. Since that song is about redemption and victory in Christ, apparently only those already in heaven and those redeemed from the earth, like the hundred and forty-four thousand, are allowed to learn it.

- 14:4 The virgins are symbolic of spiritual purity (see 2 Cor. 11:2). Redeemed believers will not compromise with evil. They will reject false doctrine and refuse to worship the beast. In the NT, the firstfruits are the first part of a crop to be gathered, implying a much larger harvest to come later (see 1 Cor. 16:15). At times, the term emphasizes only the sanctified nature of a sacrifice (see James 1:18). Certainly the commitment of the 144,000 to God emphasizes that they are holy ones, set apart to God. However, the continuing offer of the gospel (v. 6) and the harvest imagery (v. 15) also implies that many others will come to faith in Jesus Christ (vv. 12, 13).
- 14:5 The 144,000 were not sinless in their earthly lives (see Rom. 3:23), but they were without deceit and fault with regard to their testimony for Christ. In particular, they did not participate in falsehood, because they rejected the lie of the Antichrist (see 2 Thess. 2). They were without fault or blemish because they refused the mark of the beast.
- 14:6, 7 The angel who preaches the gospel to every nation, tribe, tongue, and people helps to fulfill God's promise that the gospel "will be preached in all the world as a witness to all the nations" (Matt. 24:14) before Christ returns. The word gospel, which literally means "Good News," is used here only in Revelation. Even at this late stage in God's judgment He continues to offer everlasting life to the world (see John 3:16). The gospel message at this point beseeches unbelievers to fear God and give glory to Him and to escape the hour of His judgment. Earlier, some people had responded in this manner after the miracle of the two witnesses' resurrection (11:11–13). The activity of this angel may be behind the scenes, prompting a worldwide proclamation of the gospel by those who will declare the truth even at the cost of their lives.
- 14:8 Another angel proclaims part of the bad news of judgment to those among all nations (see Matt. 28:19) who will not receive the good news of the gospel (see v. 6). Babylon is first mentioned in Revelation here, and it becomes the focus of God's judgment in the following section (chs. 16–18). The great city here is Babylon; earlier the phrase was used to describe the city where "our Lord was crucified" (11:8), perhaps meaning Jerusalem in that reference.
- 14:9–11 A third angel announces with a loud voice the tragic eternal destiny of the one who rejects the offer of the gospel (vv. 6, 7) and worships the beast (ch. 13). In Romans, Paul speaks of the wrath of God as being revealed from heaven (Rom. 1:18) against unbelievers, as God allows them to receive the just consequences of their own ungodly behavior. In 6:17, "the great day of His wrath" was announced (see also 11:18). Now it will be experienced in its full strength by those who follow the beast. In the just outworking of God's wrath, unbelievers who worship the beast will be tormented . . . forever and ever, with no rest day or night.

Word Studies

wrath

(Gk. orgē) (14:10; John 3:36; Rom. 1:18) Strong's #3709

God's wrath is His holy indignation—His anger directed against sin. The Bible declares that all people are “by nature children of wrath” (Eph. 2:3) and that “the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness” (Rom. 1:18). Since Christians have been “justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him” (Rom. 5:9). The magnitude of God's love is manifested in the Cross, where God's only Son experienced wrath on our behalf. “The day of the LORD's wrath” (Zeph. 1:18) is identical with “the great day of the LORD” (Zeph. 1:14). These terms refer to “the wrath of the Lamb” (6:16), Jesus Christ, that will fall on the ungodly at His Second Coming.

Go to the List of Word Studies

14:12 The patience of the saints echoes 13:10, as well as John's place as a partner with his readers in the “patience of Jesus Christ” (1:9). Those who patiently keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus, even in very difficult times (ch. 13), will receive a special divine blessing (v. 13).

14:13 Blessed signals the second of seven beatitudes in Revelation (see also 1:3; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6; 22:7, 14). Six of the seven are clustered in the latter third of the Book of Revelation, perhaps as promises to encourage exemplary Christian response in the extremely difficult circumstances of the end times. From now on may mean from the point in the tribulation John is referring to, or from the time John was writing to his original readers. Spiritual rest is available to anyone who comes to Jesus Christ in faith (see Matt. 11:28). The martyrs under the fifth seal had been told by the Lord to rest “a little while longer” (6:11), until God's plan was complete. Here the believers who have died are also told to rest from their labors, in the knowledge that their good works will be remembered and rewarded (see 1 Tim. 5:25).

14:14, 15 The reference to the Son of Man with a golden crown on His head indicates that the figure is Jesus Christ (see 1:13; Dan. 7). Some, however, hesitate to make this identification, largely because another angel gives the first figure the command to reap, which seems improper if “One like the Son of Man” is Christ. Yet there is no impropriety in having a representative of God the Father entrust judgment to the Son of Man (see John 5:22). The Son will judge humankind as one who shares human nature. A sharp flint or iron sickle was the primary tool for an ancient grain harvest. Since the 144,000 have been received by God as the firstfruits (v. 4) of His harvest, the rest of the harvest of the earth is surely ripe for salvation (see Matt. 13:37–43), as well as judgment.

14:16 The power of the Son of Man (Jesus Christ) is shown in that, with one thrust of His sickle, the harvest of the earth is reaped. This pictures the events of chs. 16–19 as parts of one rapid succession of judgment. Thus this judgment is experienced by the inhabitants of the entire world.

14:17, 18 Another angel is placed in charge of the harvest of the clusters of grapes that are also ripe, meaning worthy of judgment. The other angel, referred to as having power over fire, may be the angel at the altar in 8:3–5. Perhaps the fire will burn the tares separated in the harvest (see Matt.

14:19, 20 A winepress was a trough in which workers trampled grapes with their bare feet, causing the juice to flow down into a vat. This common OT sign of God's wrath and judgment (see Is. 63:3) apparently also explains how "the wine of the wrath of God" (v. 10) is produced. The image of the winepress is symbolic of an unbelievable quantity of shed blood. This description of the flow of blood indicates an unparalleled slaughter of life. One thousand six hundred furlongs is nearly two hundred miles. This great bloodshed is probably the result of Christ's defeat of the collected human armies (19:17–19) as He returns before "the supper of the great God" (19:17), which some hold to be the Battle of Armageddon (16:16).

15:1 Another sign looks back to 12:1, 3, where the symbolism of the woman and the dragon also appeared in heaven. This sign is great and marvelous, apparently because it deals with the seven last plagues sent by the Lord. The plagues, "the bowls of the wrath of God" (16:1), are much stronger and more widespread than the trumpet judgments in 8:2–11:19. The wrath of God is complete with the seven last plagues (see 15:1–19:5). They are immediately followed by the Second Coming and the marriage supper of the Lamb (19:6–21).

15:2 A sea of glass is mentioned in 4:6 as a place of worship before the throne of God. Here it is seen mingled with fire, which is often a sign of God's judgment. The fire shows that the wrath of God acting in judgment has reached its zenith. The sea of glass also serves as the Lord's victory stand for all of His overcomers. Those who have the victory over the beast are believing martyrs who "did not love their lives to the death" (12:11).

15:3, 4 The song of Moses is a reference to Ex. 15:1–18, in which Israel celebrated its deliverance from Egyptian bondage, specifically from Pharaoh's army (see Ex. 14). That song, remembering the great OT redemption, was sung by Jews in their Sabbath gatherings, as well as by early Christians at Easter. The song of the Lamb compares the completed redemptive work of Jesus Christ with God's deliverance in the Exodus. Perhaps the victorious overcomers in v. 2 are "safe on the other side," and the intensifying judgments of the preceding chapters are comparable to the climactic destruction of Pharaoh's army when the Red Sea closed in upon them. Considering God's great . . . works and character, every person should fear the Lord and glorify His name by trusting Jesus Christ. All nations is the same phrase found in Matt. 28:19 and Luke 24:47, expressing the scope of the Great Commission, Jesus' command to proclaim Good News to all nations. Worship means "to prostrate oneself," calling to mind Paul's description of the time when "every knee should bow" to Jesus Christ, the Lord (Phil. 2:10, 11).

15:5 The temple of the tabernacle links the powerful imagery of the heavenly temple in 11:19 with the strong parallels in ch. 15 to the Exodus period, when the majestic presence of God was clearly seen in the tabernacle. The tabernacle of the testimony calls attention to the Law or the tablets of testimony given to Moses (see Ex. 31:18; 32:15). In the new heaven and new earth the tabernacle of God will be with believers because He will dwell eternally with them (21:3).

15:6 Seven angels come forward to administer the seven plagues, which are the last plagues (v. 1) God will send forth before Christ returns. clothed in pure bright linen . . . golden bands: Because their garments signify purity and righteousness, the angels are representatives of spotless justice.

15:7 The golden bowls of wrath recall the similar golden bowls that in 5:8 hold incense, representing the prayers of the saints.

15:8 The smoke that filled the temple had its source in the power and glory of God and prohibited access into the Most Holy Place. The smoke signified God's resolve to act in judgment as an expression of His character and authority. Judgment was now irreversible, with no place for intercession (see Lam. 3:44).

16:1 The loud voice from the temple is likely the voice of God, since no other heavenly being could enter the heavenly temple "till the seven plagues of the seven angels were completed" (15:8).

16:2 The effect of the first . . . bowl being poured out is a terrible sore upon all who had the mark of the beast (13:16, 17). The Egyptians faced a similar affliction during the sixth plague of the Exodus (see Ex. 9:9–11). Just as God’s great power could not be denied by the Egyptians and their magicians (see Ex. 9:11), so unbelieving people will be unable to deny God’s sovereign justice as the bowls of God’s judgments rapidly progress (vv. 9, 11, 21).

16:3 The second . . . bowl turns the sea into blood, as did the second trumpet (8:8). However, only a third of the sea was affected by the trumpet (8:8, 9). This bowl brings about the death of every living creature in the sea. This verse is similar to Ex. 7:17–21, in which the Nile River is turned to blood; however, the judgment here is infinitely worse because of its global scope.

16:4 The third . . . bowl, like the third trumpet (8:10), targets the rivers and springs of water. This time, however, the impact is worldwide (compare 8:10, 11), and the water sources turn to blood instead of just becoming “bitter” (see 8:11).

16:5 The angel of the waters is probably the same angel who poured out the third bowl (v. 4), and not a separate figure. Because God is eternally righteous, His judgment of the inhabitants of the earth (v. 10) and their violent, unrighteous works is completely just.

16:6 God forces the unrepentant (v. 9) unbelievers who have shed the blood of God’s people to drink blood in order to avenge the deaths of the martyrs, as some of them requested in 6:10. Saints refers to those who are set apart because of their relationship with Jesus Christ. In Revelation, saints may be Christians in general (5:8), or those believers facing persecution and martyrdom (13:7). Prophets may refer to all of God’s spokesmen who have been killed as a result of persecution, or specifically to the two witnesses who prophesied for three and a half years (11:3–13, 18).

16:8 The fourth . . . bowl is reminiscent of the fourth trumpet in its effect on the sun (8:12). But in this plague, the sun’s heat is intensified instead of diminished.

16:9 Those who followed the beast here blaspheme the name of God, just as the beast himself did (13:5, 6). They cannot argue against the existence or power of God, but even so they will not repent and give God glory (v. 11, 21). The Good News of Christ is still in effect even just before His return (19:11–21), though it is apparently rejected by all unbelievers who are still alive.

16:10, 11 The fifth . . . bowl is focused against the throne of the beast, apparently referring to his worldwide kingdom and authority (13:7). The phrase “Satan’s throne” is used in 2:13 to speak of the satanic foothold in Pergamos as a result of the prevalence of emperor worship there. (All other uses of throne in Revelation refer to the Lord’s throne.) The darkness in 6:12–17 caused even world leaders to fear “the wrath of the Lamb” (6:16). At this late date, the beast and his followers still blaspheme the God of heaven and refuse to repent of their deeds. Pains and sores may be roughly parallel to the torment suffered by those stung by the demonic locusts during the fifth trumpet judgment (9:5–10). However, it is more likely that pains refers to the scorching by the sun in vv. 8, 9 and sores to the effects of the first bowl (v. 2).

16:12–14 The sixth bowl involves the Euphrates River, as does the sixth trumpet (9:14). Both judgments deal with demonically inspired military forces. The army of two hundred million (9:16) will kill a third of all humankind (9:18); the army in vv. 12–14 will do battle against God (19:19–21).

16:12 With the water of the river Euphrates completely dried up, invasion from the east would be much easier. The kings from the east have been understood as the Parthian armies that menaced the eastern half of the Roman Empire, though any powerful force from Asia would fit the wording of this verse.

16:13, 14 Unclean spirits spread forth the authoritative words of the dragon (Satan; 12:9), the beast, and the false prophet—an unholy trinity. There will be great deception involved in the signs (13:13, 14) that are used to persuade the kings of . . . the whole world to gather for battle against God. In 6:15, 16, the kings of the earth recoil in fear before the judgment of the Lamb. Here the kings are willing to wage war against God. The difference seems to be their confidence in the power of the beast, since they reason, “Who is able to make war with him?” (13:4). The battle of that great day takes place at Armageddon (v. 16; 19:17–21).

16:15 Blessed indicates that this is the third of seven beatitudes in Revelation (see also 1:3; 14:13;

- 19:9; 20:6; 22:7, 14). Coming as a thief looks back to Jesus' warning to believers to be vigilant because of the unexpected timing of His return (see Matt. 24:43, 44).
- 16:16 The place of the battle spoken of in v. 14 is Armageddon, a Hebrew word literally meaning "Mount of Megiddo." Some believe that this is not an actual place, but rather a symbol of the final battle between good and evil.
- 16:17 The seventh . . . bowl is the climax of all of Revelation's judgments. It is done: This is God's final act of judgment before Christ comes.
- 16:19 The great city of Babylon (11:8) seems to be the epicenter of the most destructive earthquake the world will ever see. The quake seems to be worldwide, wreaking havoc on the cities of the nations. Babylon had not been forgotten before God. Here He acts on His earlier promise that Babylon would fall (14:8) and that the cup of His wrath would be dispensed (14:10). Babylon here may refer to the rebuilt ancient city, or it may be a symbolic name for Rome (17:9). It may also be a way of referring to any proud human society that attempts to exist apart from God. Babylon's classic manifestations of rebellion against God are the Tower of Babel (see Gen. 11:1–9) and the Babylonian Empire under Nebuchadnezzar (see Dan. 4:30).
- 16:21 Hail falling from heaven, with each stone weighing about 75 pounds (a talent), would be phenomenally destructive.
- 17:1, 2 The reference to one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls marks this passage as a continuation of 16:17–21. The coming reference to "BABYLON THE GREAT" (v. 5) has the same linking effect. Many waters are interpreted in v. 15 as "peoples, multitudes, nations, and tongues." Although Babylon is only called the harlot in vv. 1, 5, 16, and 19:2, her habitual fornication was introduced in 14:8, as was her imminent and well-deserved judgment. Both the kings of the earth and the inhabitants of the earth are seduced into committing spiritual adultery with Babylon. The indication is that she made them drunk with power, material possessions, false worship, and pride. The wine of Babylon's fornication (14:8) is judged forcefully and finally by God in "the wine of the fierceness of His wrath" (16:19).
- 17:3 In the Spirit describes John's spiritually exalted state as he receives the various visions of the Book of Revelation (1:10). The wilderness is where the woman identified as "Babylon, the mother of harlots" (v. 5) is seen sitting on a scarlet beast (12:3; 13:1). Since this woman normally "sits on many waters" (v. 1) and since the woman who gave birth to the Child-Ruler fled into the wilderness as a place of protection (12:6, 14), perhaps Babylon here is seen as being in league with the dragon and the beast as they ferociously pursue God's people (12:13–16). The description of the scarlet beast clearly identifies him with the beast from the sea—the Antichrist—in 13:1, 5, 6. The ten horns are interpreted in v. 12 as ten kings; they may represent the ten toes of Nebuchadnezzar's vision (see Dan. 2:41).
- 17:4 The woman, Babylon, is dressed like a queen (18:7), wearing purple, scarlet, gold, and pearls. Though the appearance of "the great harlot" (vv. 1, 5) is regal, her royal golden cup is full of abominations and . . . filthiness, speaking of idolatry and unclean acts that disgust God. This description is given first from the standpoint of people, who look at the outer appearance, and then from the perspective of God, who knows the heart (see 1 Sam. 16:7).
- 17:5 The name on Babylon's forehead may imply that Babylon is ultimately subordinate to the beast (13:16, 17). MYSTERY may be the first part of the title for BABYLON THE GREAT. But based on the use of the word mystery in v. 7, this verse should probably read, "on her forehead a mysterious name was written." The title itself suggests that all spiritual harlotry and abominable acts in history are somehow the offspring of Babylon.
- 17:6 The woman Babylon is drunk with the blood of the saints and Christian martyrs (see Matt. 24:21), as well as by "the wine of her fornication" (v. 2). Thus her actions are doubly repugnant to the Lord, as are the acts of anyone who persecutes God's people. The woman's hatred of Christianity is clearly portrayed in this verse. Being drunk from saints' blood implies a time of extraordinary slaughter.

- 17:8 The description of the beast as one who was, and is not, and will ascend . . . and go to perdition is a conscious contrast to the description of God in 1:4, 8. Was apparently indicates that the beast had been manifested in the past (see Dan. 7). Is not suggests that the beast was not working his evil in John's day. Will ascend . . . to perdition suggests eternal ruin or punishment. Those whose names are not written in the Book of Life (13:8; 20:12, 15) are deceived by the beast because they do not know its certain eternal destiny. All they see is one who once existed and has now made an incredible reemergence.
- 17:9, 10 The mind which has wisdom possesses divinely aided spiritual understanding, which is a mind receptive to God's truth (1:3). The clause may possibly be connected with v. 8 rather than v. 9, and may refer specifically to wisdom in understanding who the beast is. It may also refer to the following verses, the interpretation of the heads, the beast, the horns, and the woman (see vv. 1–6). The seven heads of the beast (v. 3) symbolize both seven mountains and seven kings. Since the word mountains also means "hills" in Revelation (14:1), most interpreters understand this as referring to the seven hills along the Tiber River, a well-known designation of the city of Rome. However, seven mountains may also refer to successive world empires, since mountains are typically symbols of earthly kingdoms or empires (see Ps. 30:7; Jer. 51:25; Dan. 2:44, 45). According to this view, five would be past kingdoms (perhaps Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, Medo-Persia, and Greece), with sixth being the Roman Empire and seventh another which has not yet come. Perhaps it is to be a revived Rome Empire. Kings may refer to Roman emperors, but this is unlikely since more than five had reigned before the writing of Revelation.
- 17:11, 12 The beast . . . is . . . the eighth, and is of the seven: The beast is related to the seventh king, but also has a separate identity. The obscure wording may express the worldwide amazement that the beast was healed from a deadly wound to rule the world again (13:3). It seems that the eighth world empire is some form of a revived Roman Empire over which the Antichrist establishes the imperial authority of a dictator. He will overcome three horns, or nations (see Dan. 7:20), and will claim universal authority. one hour: A limited time is allotted to the ten kings, or ten horns (see 1:3; Dan. 2:34, 41, 42), who will receive authority to rule alongside the beast (18:10, 17, 19). The Lord's sovereignty is not threatened in these statements of sequence and duration because the beast cannot change the fact that he, because of God's just judgment, is going to perdition. The time frame for these events may coincide with 16:14, in which the preparations for the battle at Armageddon are described.
- 17:13 The ten kings who ultimately rule under the authority of the beast (v. 12) cooperate fully and give back their power and authority to the beast. Some understand these ten rulers to be provincial heads in the Roman Empire in John's day, while others take ten symbolically to mean a host of national powers aligned with the beast. Still others see a tennation confederacy, perhaps a revived latter-day Roman Empire (see Dan. 7:7, 19, 20, 23, 24).
- 17:14 The ten kings in league with the beast will be so bold as to make war against the Lamb (Christ). He, the all-powerful Lord of lords and King of kings (19:16), will easily overcome them at His second coming (19:19–21). This wording is in direct contrast with 13:7, where the beast and his forces are allowed by God "to make war with the saints and to overcome them." Many of those whom the beast defeated and even killed are now numbered in the conquering army of the Lamb. The Lord's army is composed of the called, chosen, and faithful—probably the heavenly soldiers of 19:14.
- 17:16, 17 The ten horns (the kings of v. 12) will grow to hate Babylon, the harlot. As a result, they will expose and then utterly destroy her. Since this description is similar to God's judgment on Babylon in 18:8, it seems that the Lord sovereignly uses the forces of the beast as His instrument of judgment on the kingdom of Antichrist (ch. 18) before they themselves are destroyed (see 19:19–21). With the advent of the beast as a supreme ruler given to self-deification (see Dan. 11:36; Matt. 24:15; 2 Thess. 2), Satan has originated an entirely new order. This order is so radically different from the great harlot (vv. 1–6) that the beast, or perhaps the political aspect of Babylon, turns upon and destroys the religious aspect of Babylon.

17:18 The woman in John's vision (vv. 1–6) is the great city Babylon (16:19), yet is also the ancient “mother of harlots” (v. 5). Thus the satanic influence of this city over the world's leaders has continued from Babel through Babylon to Rome (vv. 9, 10), its classic manifestation in the first century A.D.

18:2 Babylon . . . is fallen continues the thought introduced in 14:8 and 16:19, describing the city's destruction. The normal dwelling place of demons is the bottomless pit (9:1, 2). A prison is a place of banishment. Thus Babylon, in the wake of her fall and judgment, will become a virtual hell on earth.

18:3 This unparalleled judgment from God has come because of Babylon's spiritual fornication (idolatry and abominations; see 17:4) with the nations and their kings, largely through rich commerce, providing many merchants an abundance of wealth.

18:4 Come out . . . my people is a command that echoes Is. 52:11 and especially Jer. 51:45, prophecies proclaimed at a time when the Babylonian Empire was ripe for judgment.

18:6–8 God will avenge Babylon's long history of iniquities and sinful works to the fullest extent and beyond (double; see Is. 51:19). Instead of glorifying God, Babylon glorified herself (see 14:7; Rom. 1:21) with a royal lifestyle. She had thrived on pleasure and excess, but now judgment will leave her with only torment and sorrow. The climactic judgment of ancient Babylon also arrived in one day (see “one hour” in vv. 10, 17, 19), as Darius the Mede invaded the city and killed Belshazzar (see Dan. 5:30, 31).

18:9–19 This section is framed like an ancient lament and is especially similar in content to Ezekiel's lament over the destruction of Tyre (see Ezek. 27).

18:9, 10 The world's kings, the illicit partners of Babylon, will see her burning and weep out loud, probably as much for their loss as hers. They will, however, stay at a distance (v. 15) to escape her torment.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Babylon

In Revelation, the world in rebellion against God is called “Babylon.” The OT prophets often prophesied the fall of Babylon, the capital of an empire that destroyed God's city, Jerusalem, and carried His people away as captives (Is. 14:22; 21:9; 43:14; Jer. 50:9; 51:37). Today, the ruins of this city stand as an eloquent testimony to the passing of proud empires and to the providential hand of God.

In Revelation, Babylon is a word-picture for a society that persecuted God's people but that God will eventually destroy. The name may have been a kind of code name for pre-Christian Rome, which was built on seven hills (17:9; see also 1 Pet. 5:13) and which was already persecuting the church. Since that time, generations of Christians have been able to identify their own Babylons and have found reassurance in Revelation's message.

Reconstruction of ancient Babylon

- 18:12, 13 The merchandise includes purple, an expensive dye; citron wood, valuable material for cabinet making; and fragrant oil (literally “myrrh”) and frankincense, both of which the wise men gave as gifts to the infant Jesus (see Matt. 2:11). Bodies and souls refers to the slave trade.
- 18:16 clothed . . . adorned: The description of wealthy Babylon is almost identical to that of the harlot Babylon in 17:4.
- 18:17–19 Those who make their living from trade on the sea also lament the judgment and burning by which Babylon is made desolate. They throw dust on their heads in an expression of great sorrow, which is also seen in Ezek. 27:30 in the lament over Tyre.
- 18:20 This call to rejoice is a compressed introduction to the longer praise hymn in 19:1–5. Judgment for killing God’s prophets is mentioned in 16:6, but this is the only place in Revelation other than 21:14 where Christ’s apostles are mentioned. If specific apostles are in mind here, Peter and Paul’s deaths at the hands of the state in Rome probably apply here. If Babylon is the symbol of all the enemies of God and His people, and not just the Babylonian or Roman manifestations, even the killing of James in Acts 12:1, 2 is being avenged here.
- 18:21, 22 The concluding lament over the fall of the great city Babylon comes from an angel powerful enough to hurl a huge millstone weighing thousands of pounds into the sea as an illustration of the swiftness and violence of Babylon’s judgment.
- 18:23 From this point on in Revelation, the voice of bridegroom and bride is heard only in regard to “the marriage of the Lamb” (19:7–9) and the New Jerusalem, “a bride adorned for her husband” (21:2). Sorcery (literally “magic arts”) is used in 9:21 to refer to the sins of humankind at large. Perhaps Babylon’s influence is seen as corrupting all the nations.
- 18:24 The blood of the slain seems to refer to all the martyrs for the cause of Christ throughout history (6:10; 17:6). However, it may refer specifically to those who were slain during the tribulation, particularly during the beast’s reign (see 13:7, 15).
- 19:1 The great multitude here is the “great multitude which no one could number” in 7:9. The reference to salvation (7:10) and the later reference to the 24 elders and 4 living creatures (v. 4; 7:11, 13) seem to support this understanding. However, some contend that multitude here refers to angels. Alleluia represents the Hebrew word meaning “praise the LORD.” The Hebrew word is well known in the OT from its frequent use in the Psalms (see “praise the LORD” in Ps. 150:1, 6). The Greek transliteration of it appears in the NT only in Revelation (vv. 1, 3, 4, 6).
- 19:3 Alleluia: God is praised because evidence of Babylon’s just judgment will continue eternally.
- 19:4 The twenty-four elders and the four living creatures constantly worship God (4:2–11; 5:8–14; 11:16; 14:3). The representatives of the angelic realm praise the Lord for the destruction of the system that originated in a fallen angel, Satan.
- 19:7 Here the Lord is glorified specifically because the marriage of the Lamb has come at last. In both the OT (see Hos. 2:19, 20) and the NT (see Eph. 5:23, 32), God’s people are viewed as the Lord’s betrothed bride or wife. The bride of that time would make herself ready by bathing, rubbing on oil, and using perfume. Her hair would be specially fixed and she would wear her wedding gown.
- 19:8 The bride of the Lamb wears a garment of precious fine linen that symbolizes the good works of believers. In other words, the white garment signifies faithful obedience to God (see Matt. 22:11, 12).

19:9 Blessed introduces the fourth of the seven beatitudes in Revelation (see also 1:3; 14:13; 16:15; 20:6; 22:9, 14). The marriage supper of John's day would begin on the evening of the wedding, but the celebration might continue for days. The marriage supper here is a time of joyous feasting to be enjoyed by the church and especially by the overcomers who will reign with Christ. The key to being able to participate in the wedding banquet is faithfulness to God.

19:10 To worship any person or object other than God is a form of idolatry (see Ex. 20:3–5). The angel rebukes John for his error (22:8, 9) and tells John that he is simply a fellow servant with him and his believing brethren. The testimony of Jesus here refers to the witness about Jesus (1:2, 9). Biblical prophecy looks to or is dependent upon the work of Christ and its proclamation (see 1 Pet. 1:12).

19:11 This verse answers the question asked about the beast in 13:4: "Who is able to make war with him?" Christ can defeat him.

19:12 Eyes . . . like a flame of fire parallels the description of the glorified Christ in 1:14. Many crowns show Christ to be more powerful than either Satan (12:3) or the beast (13:1). In ancient society, a name was more than a title. It revealed a person's character. No one knew except Himself apparently means that there are parts of the character of the eternal and limitless God (see 1 Tim. 6:15, 16) that only God knows, though Christ may reveal such matters at His second coming.

19:13 A robe dipped in blood may speak of Christ's redemptive death on the Cross (7:9), or His trampling of the "winepress of the wrath of God" (see v. 15; 14:19, 20), or both. The Word of God cannot be the name that no one knew except Christ (v. 12) because that name is revealed in John 1:1, 14.

19:14 The armies in heaven may be angelic hosts (see 5:11; Matt. 26:53), but 17:14 speaks of those with the Lord at His coming as being "called, chosen, and faithful," all terms for believers (see Rom. 1:7; Eph. 1:1; 1 Pet. 2:9). The garments of fine linen, like that of the Lamb's bride in v. 8, supports this interpretation. White horses, a common symbol of victory, would be appropriate for those who are already victorious over the beast (15:2).

19:15 The sharp sword that comes out of Christ's mouth is the two-edged sword spoken of in 1:16. Strike the nations may be a general statement of judgment or a specific reference to the armies of the earth being "killed with the sword" in v. 21. Christ will rule . . . with a rod of iron in fulfillment of the messianic prophecies in Ps. 2:8, 9; Is. 11:4. Treads the winepress of God's wrath recalls the command in 14:18–20 to gather the grapes of the earth for the "great winepress of the wrath of God."

19:16 KING OF KINGS means the One who is supreme over all earthly rulers. The phrase "Lord of lords and King of kings" is found in 17:14, anticipating the Second Coming.

19:17, 18 The birds are told to gather to feast on the carcasses of the fallen armies gathered in opposition against Christ.

19:19–21 This picture of the beast and his extensive force has already been seen in 17:14 and is almost certainly the same as those gathered for "the battle of that great day of God Almighty" (16:14) at Armageddon (16:16). The beast (13:1–10) and the false prophet (13:11–17) are captured and cast alive into the lake of fire, the eternal destiny of all unbelievers (20:10, 14, 15). They are apparently the first to suffer the torment of the lake of brimstone. The rest of the beast's allies are killed by the sword from the mouth of the victorious Christ. Apparently all those who now suffer death go to Hades (see Matt. 16:18), to which Jesus has the keys (1:18), until Death and Hades are emptied and cast into the lake of fire (20:13–15).

20:1–3 The angel here may be the same one who had the key to the bottomless pit in 9:1, 2. The bottomless pit is presently the place of imprisonment of some demons (see Luke 8:31) and will be the place from which the beast ascends (17:8). Thus it is fitting that the Devil will be held there for a thousand years. The dragon of 12:3, 9, known as Satan, was in control of the serpent in the Garden of Eden (see Gen. 3). God has a sovereign plan for Satan. He will be shut . . . up in the abyss for a thousand years and then will be briefly released to deceive the nations one final time (vv. 7–9) before being cast into the lake of fire (v. 10). Must be released indicates that Satan will not escape from the pit but instead will be allowed to go forth from the pit to fulfill God’s sovereign plan.

20:4–6 The interpretation of the thousand-year reign of Christ has been the subject of much controversy. Some understand a thousand years as a specific statement of time, while others take it figuratively as a round number for a long but undetermined period.

20:4 Thrones . . . reigned indicates that believers will participate significantly with Christ during His millennial rule (1:6; 2:26, 27; 5:10). This may be a partial fulfillment of Dan. 7:18, 27. The aspect of judgment in ruling is referred to in 1 Cor. 6:2–4. At the onset of the kingdom, authority is officially transferred from angels to men (see Heb. 2:5, 8). A new world order is established with the overcoming saints of the church age ruling together with Christ in His kingdom (see Rom. 8:17). Those who had been beheaded are believers martyred by the beast (13:7, 15) and may also be the victorious throng who sing praises to the Lamb in 15:2–4. John could identify with those who lost their lives because of their witness to Jesus and God’s word, since John was exiled to the island of Patmos for the same reasons (1:9).

20:5 Did not live again indicates that the resurrection of the dead will not encompass all people at the same time, as passages like Dan. 12:2 and John 5:29 may also indicate. Like 1 Cor. 15:23, 52, this passage indicates that there will be a first resurrection of dead believers before the thousand years of Christ’s reign and a final resurrection after the millennium is finished, before the great white throne judgment (vv. 11–13).

20:6 Blessed begins the fifth of seven beatitudes in Revelation. The other six (1:3; 14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 22:9, 14) all look forward to life with Christ beyond the first resurrection (v. 5). The first resurrection is assured for all believers. But the blessedness mentioned here belongs more precisely to those who have a part in the first resurrection. It is possible that this refers only to those believers who qualify to function as king-priests in Christ’s kingdom. This might be what Paul was referring to when he spoke of his goal of obtaining the prize of Christ (see 1 Cor. 9:27; Phil. 3:10–14). The second death is the everlasting death of torment in the lake of fire for unbelievers who face the great white throne judgment (vv. 11–15). John has previously stated that the one who overcomes will not be hurt by the second death (2:11).

20:7–9 At the conclusion of Christ’s thousand-year reign, Satan will be released by God to deceive the nations . . . of the earth (vv. 2, 3) again as he has throughout history (12:9). As a result of satanic deception, the world’s armies will gather for battle against God again as they had done before Christ’s second coming (16:13, 14; 19:19, 20). Gog and Magog was a common rabbinical title for the nations in rebellion against the Lord, and the names recall the prophesied invasion of Israel in Ezek. 38; 39. Some hold that the battle of vv. 8, 9 is the one spoken of in Ezekiel, but there are major differences as well as similarities in the two passages. The use of fire . . . out of heaven to destroy gathered armies is also seen in Ezek. 38:22; 39:6. Camp is used elsewhere to refer to armies (see Heb. 11:34) or the barracks of such forces (see Acts 23:10). Some interpret the camp of the saints as being symbolic of the unity of the people of God. The beloved city may symbolically refer to the home of God’s people. However, the New Jerusalem is commonly called “the city of My God” (3:12) and “the holy city” (21:2). The city here may be the renewed earthly Jerusalem, ready to give way to the everlasting sinless glory of the New Jerusalem (21:1–22:5).

20:10 When the final rebellion is put down by the Lord (vv. 8, 9), the devil will join the beast and the false prophet (19:20) in torment forever in the lake of fire (see 14:10, 11; Is. 66:22–24; Mark 9:48).

God and the Problem of Evil

Few stories offer a more dramatic or thrilling climax than the closing chapters of Revelation. The scene of God ultimately destroying Satan and his hosts (20:1–10) brings a joyful conclusion not only to the Revelation, but to the entire Bible. Once and for all, evil will be banished, never again to trouble God's creation.

Yet while Christians look forward to that day with hope, many other people reject God and the gospel precisely because of evil in the world. Their reasoning goes something like this:

- A God who is good and loving would not allow evil and suffering in His world.
- Yet evil exists in the world.
- If God is all-powerful, He could remove evil if He wanted to.
- Yet evil remains. In fact, at times it seems to grow worse.
- Therefore, a good and powerful God must not exist.

This is a powerful argument, and there can be no question that evil and pain are a big problem to both belief and behavior. Christianity offers no knock-down solution, but the Bible does give us ground to stand on as we try to live in a world where suffering is real.

1. The Bible teaches that God did not create evil. The world He made was utterly good (Gen. 1:31). But people themselves turned against God, using His gift of free will to rebel against Him. With that moral rebellion, the perfection of God's world came tumbling down and people began to suffer. The Bible also claims that behind human wickedness lies a great outside influence—Satan. This fallen angel hates God and everything to do with Him. He is out to destroy both humanity and the environment and does everything he can to attack God and His purposes. He promotes much of the evil and suffering that we see.

2. Even though God did not create evil, nor does He will it, He nevertheless uses it to accomplish His purposes. For instance, God sometimes uses pain to draw people to Himself, especially when they otherwise would not respond to Him. Likewise, the struggle against evil has led many people to strive for good, producing such admirable traits as courage, endurance, self-sacrifice, and compassion.

3. Why then, if God is all-powerful, does He not remove evil from the world? This question assumes that He has done nothing. But in fact, He has. First, God Himself came into this world, with all its sorrow and pain, and lived as a man. Jesus knew poverty, thirst, hunger, injustice, physical abuse, heartbreak, and betrayal. He ended his life in excruciating pain. So God certainly understands our condition. He has personally experienced it. In the process, God dealt with the problem of evil at its root. On the cross, Jesus took on Himself the wickedness of every person who has ever lived in order to do away with it. Christ broke the grip of evil that holds the world captive. Already we can see among God's people a glimpse of the new life that He has brought about (Rom. 8:4, 11).

This brings us to God's final solution to evil, which John describes in Revelation 20. In the end, God will triumph by doing away with evil and those who promote it. He will restore His creation and His creatures to their original purpose, to the original relationship they enjoyed with Him. Suffering will be but a memory. Goodness, justice, and peace will characterize the moral climate of God's new heaven and earth.

20:11 The great white throne is a picture of God's holy rule and judgment. The One occupying the throne may be God the Father (see 1 Cor. 15:24–28) or both the Father and the Lamb (Christ), as in the New Jerusalem (22:1, 3). The earth and the heaven fled is a poetic way of describing the burning up of this creation and its related works, as described in 2 Pet. 3:10–13. There is no place for this sin-polluted creation in the new heaven and new earth (21:1–22:5).

20:12 The dead, called “the rest of the dead” in v. 5, are raised and made to stand before God's throne of judgment. To some, the first resurrection (v. 5) includes only martyrs (v. 4), so that both believers and unbelievers will stand before the great white throne. Others point to the broad promises to Christians in the Book of Revelation of ruling with Christ (see 1:6; 2:26, 27; 5:10) as evidence that all Christians will experience the first resurrection and thus will not have to endure the great white throne judgment. Books refers to the record of all works done in this life. Since all have sinned and fall short of God's standard (see Rom. 3:23), the opening of these books would certainly lead to eternal sentences in the lake of fire. The Book of Life, God's register of those who are saved (17:8), is also opened. So although no one will be judged acceptable based on works (see Eph. 2:9), many will be saved by God's grace received by faith in Jesus Christ (see Eph. 2:8).

20:13, 14 The sea is the resting place of unburied bodies. Death and Hades refers not only to dying, but to existence beyond the grave (1:18; 6:8). The picture here is of all intermediate abodes of human bodies giving them up to God's judgment. While unbelieving humanity is judged according to its works, Death and Hades, the Lord's final enemy (see 1 Cor. 15:26), is also destroyed by being cast into the lake of fire. The second death is spiritual and eternal, the just punishment of the wicked. The first death is physical dying. Both are included in the overall meaning of the death that came upon the human race because of Adam and Eve's sin (see Gen. 2:16, 17; 3:1–19; Rom. 5:12).

20:15 Only God's elect, those whose names are written in the Book of Life, will escape the lake of fire. The rejection of the eternal gospel results in eternal condemnation (14:6, 7).

21:1, 2 New here suggests freshness, not just a second beginning. This is the fulfillment of the prophecies of Is. 65:17; 66:22; 2 Pet. 3:13. Significantly, this eternal renewal has already begun in the life of the believer because, using the same term, Paul says, “If anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation” (2 Cor. 5:17). The present heaven and . . . earth, including the sea, were burned up in the great white throne judgment (20:11, 13), and thus have passed away before the arrival of the new heaven and earth. The fact that there will be a continuation of some features of the present creation in the new heaven and new earth is implied by the description of the New Jerusalem as the holy city, a title that is applied to the present Jerusalem in 11:2. Yet the drastic difference in the new eternal state is obvious from the fact that there will be no more sea, which was a major part of the original creation (see Gen. 1:6–10). It is impossible to tell whether the New Jerusalem will sit on the new earth, since all three references to it describe the holy city as coming down out of heaven (see also v. 10; 3:12). Prepared as a bride is essentially the imagery of 19:7, 8, where God's people—or, more specifically, Christ's church—are prepared for “the marriage . . . of the Lamb” (19:9). Her husband refers again to Christ, the Lamb (v. 9), but the bride is the New Jerusalem, according to vv. 9, 10. In other words, Christ's bride (v. 9) is the redeemed inhabitants of the holy city (vv. 3–7, 24–27).

New Jerusalem

(Gk. Hierousalēm kainē) (3:12; 21:2) Strong's #2419; 2537

The Greek term denotes “the brand-new Jerusalem.” The New Jerusalem that comes out of heaven is plainly distinct from the earthly Jerusalem, the former capital of Israel. This is the city Abraham looked for, the city that has foundations, whose builder and maker is God (Heb. 11:10). This is the city that exists even now in heaven, for Paul calls it the Jerusalem that is above (Gal. 4:26).

21:3 In this verse, God is described as dwelling among His people. This recalls the Incarnation, the fact that Jesus “became flesh and dwelt among us” (John 1:14), and is a fulfillment of the promise in 7:15 that God will dwell among His redeemed people. A virtually identical promise was given to Israel in Ezek. 37:27, 28.

21:4, 5 Wipe away every tear fulfills the promises in 7:17 and Is. 25:8. No more death . . . no more pain goes far beyond the earlier promise of 7:16, which promises freedom from hunger, thirst, and scorching heat. Former things have passed away echoes both v. 1 and 2 Cor. 5:17. The believer’s rebirth through faith in Christ brings newness to that person’s life, but it is only in the eternal state that God will make all things new.

21:6 It is done echoes the voice from the throne in 16:17 that proclaims the completion of God’s wrath being poured out on Babylon. Here the completion of the new creation by Him who is the Alpha and the Omega of all things is the focus. Water of life may be recalling Jesus’ references to living water in John 4:14; 7:38, in connection with eternal life and life in the Holy Spirit. This water is further described in 22:1. A similar offer of God’s grace to him who spiritually thirsts is repeated in 22:17.

21:7 He who overcomes will inherit not only the specific promises to the churches in 2:7, 11, 17, 26–28; 3:5, 12, 21, but all things. The most wonderful part of this inheritance is that the believer will be a son (a person who is a rightful heir) of God forever. Sonship is a special honor associated with the Davidic covenant and includes privileged intimacy with God and the authority to rule (see 2 Sam. 7:14).

21:8 The characteristics of those who are not in Christ through faith—the unbelieving—are described. These unbelievers are destined for the lake of fire, eternal death after God’s final judgment (see 20:12–14). All whose names are not written in the Book of Life (20:15) are judged according to their works (20:12), and are shown to be worthy of endless death (see Rom. 6:23). In 1 Cor. 6:9–11, Paul makes essentially the same point.

21:9, 10 Since the beginning of this passage is similar to the beginning of ch. 17, it seems that the Lamb’s wife, the New Jerusalem, is being contrasted with Babylon, “the great harlot” (17:1, 5). In the Spirit is the exalted state in which John received the apocalyptic visions of this book (1:10), the last of which carried him away (17:3) to a high mountain overlooking Jerusalem.

21:11 This description of the eternal city, New Jerusalem, emphasizes God’s glory, which is a source of the light for the city (21:23). God’s heavenly glory is like a jasper stone (4:3); the light in the New Jerusalem will be similar to the brilliant crystalline reflection of priceless jasper.

21:12, 13 The description of the great and high wall that contains twelve gates named after the twelve tribes . . . of Israel echoes Ezek. 48:30–35. Commentators variously interpret these 12 gates as representing all of God’s people, including both Israel and the church, or as representing strictly the Israelites.

21:14 The twelve foundations, the huge stones upon which the wall of the New Jerusalem rests, contain the names of the twelve apostles of Christ (see Luke 6:13–16), calling to mind Paul’s imagery of the apostles as the foundation of the house of God in Eph. 2:20 (see Jesus’ promise to His apostles that they would occupy a prominent place in His kingdom in Matt. 19:28).

21:15–17 The reference to the reed to measure the city recalls Ezek. 40; 41, as does the reference in 11:1, 2. The city seems to be laid out as a cube, since its length, breadth, and height are equal. The cube was an ancient symbol of perfection. The Most Holy Place in the OT tabernacle and in the temple were cubic in design. The symmetrical measurements of the city are so vast (twelve thousand furlongs, or about 1400 miles) and the wall is so thick (one hundred and forty-four cubits, or over 200 feet) that they almost surpass the imagination. The imagery indicates that the city is the dwelling place of God’s presence, just as the tabernacle and temple had been. It is impossible to be certain whether ordinary measurements should be applied to the eternal state, though the reference to the measure of a man (human standards) may imply that they should.

21:18 As thick as the walls of New Jerusalem are (200 feet; v. 17), they are as transparent as crystalline jasper. The vast city itself (v. 16), especially the streets (v. 21), are also like clear glass, even though they are made of pure gold. The overall effect is that of an incredibly beautiful and transparent city, symbolizing never-ending glory and purity.

21:19, 20 The stones that serve as foundations of the wall for the New Jerusalem are named for the twelve apostles (v. 14), although there is no way to know which of the precious gems represents each apostle. While the exact color of some of the stones is uncertain, it is probable that jasper is colorless, sapphire is blue, chalcedony is green or greenish-blue, emerald is bright green, sardonyx has layers of red and white, sardius is blood-red, chrysolite is yellow, beryl is blue or blue-green, topaz is golden, chrysoprase is apple-green, jacinth is blue or blue-purple, and amethyst is purple or violet.

21:21 The twelve gates of the eternal city, representing the twelve tribes of Israel (v. 12), are each made from one huge pearl. What is immediately striking is that the street in the New Jerusalem is gold (v. 18), but it is also significant that only one street is mentioned (22:2).

21:22 There will be no temple building in the New Jerusalem because the Father and the Son (the Lamb) will be there. Recall that Christ referred to His body as a temple (see John 2:19, 21) and that the church itself is called “the temple of God” (1 Cor. 3:16), “a holy temple,” and the “dwelling place of God” (Eph. 2:21, 22).

21:23 Because of the light provided by God’s glory and the Lamb, there is no need of the sun or of the moon in the eternal state (contrast Gen. 1:14–19). It is speculated that God’s glory was the source of the light mentioned before the creation of the sun and moon in Genesis (see Gen. 1:3–5, 16).

21:24 From all the nations (see Matt. 28:19; Luke 24:47), Christ redeemed His people (5:9), continually calling unbelievers to repent of their sins and believe in Him (14:6, 7). Great multitudes who may be among this group in the eternal Jerusalem have come into the Lord’s presence in 7:9 and 15:1–4. Others hold that the nations here refers to believers from nations that existed during the millennium (see 20:1–10).

21:25 The gates to the eternal city will not need to be shut because everything that could threaten the city has been defeated (v. 27) and consigned to the lake of fire (20:15).

21:27 Never again can the devil (12:9), the one behind every abomination and lie (see John 8:44), emerge to instigate sin (see Gen. 3). His eternal destiny in the lake of fire is certain (20:10). Only believers, whose names are written in the Lamb’s Book of Life, are allowed by God to enter the

New Jerusalem.

22:1 The river flowing with the water of life is reminiscent of the water coming from the temple in Ezek. 47, as well as of Jesus' expression "rivers of living water" (John 7:38), symbolizing the New Covenant ministry of the Holy Spirit (7:39).

22:2 The tree of life in the original creation was in the middle of the Garden of Eden (Gen. 2:9), from which all of humanity was excluded after sin entered the world (see Gen. 3:22–24). Ezekiel's apocalyptic vision included trees bearing fruit every month with medicinal leaves (see Ezek. 47:12). Since only one tree of life is mentioned here—even though it is on both sides of the river—it is probably meant as a parallel to Gen. 2, implying that a new, better, and everlasting Eden has come.

Word Studies

the tree of life

(Gk. xulon zōēs) (2:7; 22:2, 14) Strong's #3586; 2222

The term in Greek denotes “a tree that gives life,” that is, eternal life (see John 20:31). This tree symbolizes the eternal life God has made available to humankind. The tree of life was present in the Garden of Eden, but its fruit was not eaten because Adam and Eve had fallen into sin (Gen. 2:9; 3:24). Jesus came to earth to restore humankind and to again offer them the tree of life (2:7). Those who are in the new paradise, the New Jerusalem, will partake of the tree of life forever (22:2).

Go to the List of Word Studies

22:3 No more curse means that the affliction of sin, especially on the human race and creation (see Gen. 3:14–19), will be erased. As God had fellowship with Adam and Eve before their fall into sin (see Gen. 3:8), so the Lord will again be with His servants eternally. In turn, His servants will worshipfully serve Him (see Rom. 12:1).

22:4 The believer's hope today is to see the Lord face to face (see 1 Cor. 13:12), something neither Moses nor any other human was previously allowed to do (see Ex. 33:20). The name . . . on their foreheads is both in contrast to the mark of the beast (13:16, 17) and in fulfillment of the promise to the faithful believers at Philadelphia (see 3:12). It may also extend the imagery of the 144,000 in 14:1.

22:5 No night . . . no lamp fulfills Christ's proclamation of Himself as “the light of the world” (John 8:12; 9:5; 12:46). The eternal inhabitants of the New Jerusalem (20:15; 21:27) shall reign forever with the Lord, as implied in 1:6 and stated in Dan. 7:18, 27.

22:6, 7 The visions of Revelation are meant to inform the servants of God, true believers who will serve and reign with the Lord eternally (vv. 3, 5), as to what could take place very soon. Blessed begins the sixth of seven beatitudes in Revelation (see also v. 14; 1:3; 14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6).

22:8, 9 John makes the mistake of worshiping an angel for a second time (19:10). Again the angel reminds John that he is merely a fellow servant of God and admonishes him to worship only God.

22:10 Earlier John was commanded to seal up (that is, to not write down) the utterances of the seven thunders in 10:4, as Daniel had been instructed to do (see Dan. 12:4, 9). The reason John is now told not to seal the book is that the time of its fulfillment is potentially very near.

22:11 unjust . . . filthy . . . righteous . . . holy: This verse, on the surface, seems to be a prediction that believers and unbelievers will live out their lives true to their nature until the final judgment (20:12–15). However, it is almost certainly an implied, indirect evangelistic appeal based on the continuing offer of the gospel in v. 17 and 14:6, 7.

22:12, 13 The rewarding of each believer according to his or her works is taught in 2 Cor. 5:10. Christ's rewards are meant to provide a powerful incentive for an obedient life. Little wonder that the apostle Paul rigorously disciplined himself so that he would not be disqualified from the reward of reigning with Christ (see 1 Cor. 9:24–27). The judgment seat of Christ can be a time of great regret, or it can be an occasion of supreme joy (see 2 Cor. 5:9–11). After Christ comes again, He will give rewards to His own. This can be counted on because Christ is in control of all history and eternity.

Word Studies

the Alpha and the Omega

(Gk. to A kai to Ō) (1:8; 21:6; 22:13) Strong's #1; 2532; 5598

Alpha and omega are the first and last letters of the Greek alphabet. In every context this phrase is used, it is difficult to tell whether the title applies to the Father or to Christ or to both. Most likely it can be attributed to both. God in Christ comprises everything, all that goes between the Alpha and the Omega, as well as being the First and the Last. This expresses God's fullness, comprehensiveness, and all-inclusiveness. He is the Source of all things and will bring all things to their appointed end.

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 22:14, 15 Blessed introduces the last of the seven beatitudes in Revelation (see also v. 7; 1:3; 14:13; 16:15; 19:9; 20:6). Since the tree of life is literal but is also viewed figuratively (see Prov. 3:18; 11:30; 13:12; 15:4), it suggests a quality of life involving an intimate fellowship with Jesus Christ based upon a persevering obedience. This may be a fulfillment of Christ's provision of life, and more abundant life (see John 10:10). Since no one can enter . . . into the city unless their name is written in the Lamb's Book of Life (21:27), this beatitude is speaking of those justified by faith who express that faith in obedience (see Eph. 2:8–10). The obedient overcomer is promised the reward of entering through the gates of the city, possibly a privilege reserved for those who share in the Lord's victory procession.
- 22:15 Dogs was a common expression used by Jews to speak of Gentiles (see Matt. 15:26); here, however, it more likely speaks of false teachers (see Phil. 3:2). Loves and practices a lie indicates a life dominated by falsehood (21:8).
- 22:16 the Root and the Offspring of David: Jesus is both the Source and Son of David, echoing the wording of Is. 11:1, 10. Jesus is both greater than David and the rightful heir to the throne of David. Bright and Morning Star means that for the Christian, Jesus is the comforting light in a dark world until the dawn of His return (2:28).
- 22:17 This invitation by the Spirit remains open to anyone who will come by faith to Christ to accept the Lord's gracious offer of eternal life.
- 22:18, 19 The Book of Revelation was intended to be heard and obeyed (v. 7; 1:3), not tampered with. The person who either adds to or takes away from its contents will receive from God the strictest punishment, a punishment with eternal consequences. This terrifying warning is even stronger than that of Deut. 4:2 and Prov. 30:6.
- 22:20 The fact that Jesus is coming quickly within the scope of God's overall plan for this creation is a repeated theme in Revelation (3:11; 22:7, 12). John adds the hope of all believers to the declaration of Christ by praying, come, Lord Jesus.
- 22:21 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ begins and concludes the Book of Revelation (1:4), implying that the message of grace and the free gift of eternal life in Christ (see Eph. 2:8, 9)—not merely the message of judgment upon unbelievers—can be found in this book.

Table of Monies, Weights, and Measures

The Hebrews probably first used coins in the Persian period (500–350 B.C.). However, minting began around 700 B.C. in other nations. Prior to this, precious metals were weighed, not counted as money.

Some units appear as both measures of money and measures of weights. This comes from naming the coins after their weight. For example, the shekel was a weight long before it became the name of a coin.

It is helpful to relate biblical monies to current values. But we cannot make exact equivalents. The fluctuating value of money's purchasing power is difficult to determine in our own day. It is even harder to evaluate currencies used two-to three-thousand years ago.

Therefore, it is best to choose a value meaningful over time, such as a common laborer's daily wage. One day's wage corresponds to the ancient Jewish system (a silver shekel is four days' wages) as well as to the Greek and Roman systems (the drachma and the denarius were each coins representing a day's wage).

The monies chart below takes a current day's wage as thirty-two dollars. Though there are differences of economies and standards of living, this measure will help us apply meaningful values to the monetary units in the chart and in the biblical text.

Subject Index to Annotations and Features

This is an index to the annotations and other features that supplement the Bible text, arranged alphabetically by subject. Under each main heading, any general references to annotations are listed first, followed by an alphabetical listing of subtopical references to annotations. Annotations are referenced by the passages to which they apply. Last in order is a listing of general references to features other than annotations, arranged alphabetically by title. Articles, Bible times and culture notes, charts, in-text maps, and word studies are referenced by hyperlinked titles. (An alphabetical listing of words, phrases, and proper names in the Bible text itself may be found in the Concordance.)

Concordance

This Concordance is designed to help you locate important occurrences of significant words, phrases, and proper names found in the Bible. Words and phrases are referenced with Scripture quotations, in which the first letter of the word or phrase, italicized, stands for the entire word or phrase. Phrases are cross-referenced under every major word of the phrase except the first. When looking up a word, be sure to check for related forms of the word and for phrases beginning with that word.

Proper names are defined by descriptive phrases and Scripture references. If a name applies to more than one person, place, or group (see ABIJAH, below), the different identities are distinguished by the dash (“——”).
